PLAN 35 MILE U. S. SPEED LAW, GAS RATIONING

F.D.R. to Follow Out Rubber Report.

Digest of the report by President Roosevelt's special rubber investigating committee is on page 17.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Nation-wide gas rationing and expansion of the synthetic rubber program "as rapidly as arrangements can be made" were promised by President Roosevelt today after he received a survey of the nation's rubber situation from his special investigating committee, headed by Bernard M. Baruch.

Sternly rebuking the war administration for its bungling of the rubber problem, the Baruch committee offered a many sided plan to insure meeting of military and vital civilian rubber needs.

The committee called for a nationwide speed limit of 35 miles per hour and recommended a complete reorganization and consolidation of government agencies concerned with the rubber program.

5,000 Mileage Limit Urged.

Other recommendations were a limit on average mileage to 5,000 a year; more rubber now for the public thru recapping old tires or issuance of new ones; compulsory periodic tire inspections, and voluntary tire conservation pending gas rationing.

Bluntly, the group warned that unless the enumerated corrective measures are taken at once this nation will face a military and civilian collapse.

The report was regarded as a historic and far-reaching indictment of the administration of the war effort on the home front, containing the sharpest criticism of the government which has been given to the American people since the start of the war emergency. It is also the first complete exposure of the rubber situation, heretofore clouded by conflicting statements and confused recommendations from various pressure groups and so-called individual authorities.

"Excellent," F. D. R. Says.

In a statement accompanying transmittal of the report to congress, the President described the report as an "excellent" one.

"The government owes a debt of gratitude to the committee members for the time, labor and efficient handling of this most important work," said Mr. Roosevelt's statement.

Spokesmen for the Office of Price Administration said it will take a number of weeks to extend thruout the nation the gasoline rationing plan now in effect in the east. A nationwide program will be delayed principally, it was explained, by the time necessary for the printing of millions of additional coupon books and the training of field officials and additional rationing board employés. Definite word on when the rationing for the entire nation will take effect should be possible in two or three days, according to the OPA.

Rationing Only Way.

The report emphasized that the committee members had explored every known rubber conservation measure before reaching the "inescapable" conclusion that gasoline rationing is the only way of saving the commodity.

"Let there be no doubt that only actual needs, not fancied wants, can or should be satisfied," the report stated. "To dissipate our stocks of rubber is to destroy one of our chief weapons of war."

There is no middle course in solving the rubber problem, the committee warned, "it is discomfort or defeat."

Hint at Inefficiency.

Hinting broadly at scandalous inefficiency in the past, the report stated flatly that the country is dependent upon synthetic rubber production and expressed the hope that this will reach its full swing by 1944.

"Why not earlier?" it asked. "Why so late? The answers to these queries lie in the past. These errors, growing out of procrastinations, indecisions, conflict of authority, clashes of personalities, lack of understanding, delays, and early nonuse of known al-

Army Nurse in Color

A color reproduction of a painting of an army nurse by Margot of the Tribune staff appears on the back page of today's paper. Lieut. Palma Peterson, the nurse who posed for the painting, will be interviewed at 1:45 p. m. today on W-G-N. This is Army Nurse day, and the picture is presented as a tribute to army nurses and their heroic work.

In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will appear the regular weekly feature, "Saturday Comics and Cartoons in Color," consisting of comic strips by Frank King and Carl Ed and humorous sketches by the late Gaar Williams.

MOVE TO SHIFT BURDENS FROM LOWER INCOMES

Design 'Cushion' for Victory Levy.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Taxpayers in the middle income group—those making more than $2,000 a year—were hit again today by action of the senate finance committee in approving, by a 9 to 7 vote, changes in the income surtax rates to reduce them in the lowest brackets but raise them in others.

The changes voted by the senate committee over the house approved bill would add an estimated 33 million dollars annually in the tax burden of those making more than $2,000 annually, it was estimated.

Single persons making up to about $2,000 a year would benefit from the rate changes, as would married persons earning up to $2,500 and married persons with two children with income of up to $3,000. But above those levels the annual tax bill for individuals would increase considerably.

Suggested by Treasury.

The changes were suggested by the treasury and adopted by the committee as a measure designed to cushion the effect of the new 5 per cent "Victory" or supertax—on all gross incomes above $12 a week or $624 a year—on the lower income groups.

This completed action by the finance committee on individual tax rates in the pending bill, as it pushed toward getting the measure before the senate for a vote within the next two weeks. All changes in the pending bill are subject to approval of the senate and concurrence by the house.

Specifically, the senate committee cut up the first $2,000 of surtax net income—the taxpayer's net income, less personal exemption—to apply surtax rates on smaller brackets. Thus, on the first $2,000 of surtax net income the rate under present law is 6 per cent. This was boosted by the house to 13 per cent.

Comparison of Proposals.

The senate committee changes this and other rates as follows:

Surtax net income—	Present law.	House bill.	Senate bill.
Up to $500	6%	13%	10%
$500-$1,000	6%	13%	13%
$1,000-$1,500	6%	13%	15%
$1,500-$2,000	6%	13%	17%
$2,000-$3,000	9%	16%	19%
$3,000-$4,000	9%	16%	21%
$4,000-$6,000	13%	20%	23%
$6,000-$8,000	17%	24%	25%

Above $8,000 the senate committee left the surtax rates at the same boosted level passed by the house, which range up to 82 per cent on surtax net income above $5,000,000, compared with the highest rate of 77 per cent on the same amount under existing law.

The senate and house bills differ on individual income tax exemptions inasmuch as the senate cut the allowance for dependents to $300 from

8 SQUADS CHASE GUN GANG IN STOLEN CAR; ONE MEMBER IS GIRL

One alleged member of a gun gang was captured and three other men and a girl were being sought by eight police squads early today in the fields around 156th street and Dixie highway in Harvey, after a fast automobile chase thru the suburb.

The searchers included four squads from the Homewood county police station, two of state police, and two from Harvey.

The chase started at 159th and Wood streets in Harvey when Policemen Frank Delnagro and Matt Romer of the Harvey force noticed the suspects speeding 60 miles an hour. They stopped them a few blocks away, but the suspects then sped away. After zigzagging over Harvey streets, the pursued car sped north in Dixie highway.

At 156th street both cars went into a dich. The five fugitives scattered in the field, while the two policemen fired several shots. In the suspects' car were found a rifle and a sword. The car, police said, had been stolen.

Later detectives seized William Czimra, 19 years old, 5112 South Rutherford avenue, at the Illinois Central railroad station in Harvey. He was carrying a revolver. He said he was an unwitting member of the gang and did not know the other members.

Hits Separate Maintenance as Immoral

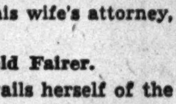
Is separate maintenance legalized cruelty? Can it be pulled from behind the skirts of blindfolded justice and be used to defeat itself as ground for divorce?



Dr. E. W. Burgess.

These legal conundrums were posed yesterday before Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court in the divorce suit of Sol Reifman, 4432 Madison street, 46 years old, a sign dealer, who charges his wife, Mrs. Esther Reifman, 1342 South Springfield avenue, 43 years old, with 453 separate acts of cruelty, the number of days he has been forced to suffer the rigors of separate maintenance. The Reifmans have a daughter, Naomi, 16, and a son, Marshall, 18.

A scholarly and expert opinion in this unusual case was given yesterday by Dr. Ernest W. Burgess, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago and well known authority on the problems of marriage, who was a witness for Reifman in a hearing on a motion to strike the divorce suit filed by his wife's attorney, Irving Eisenman.

Divorce Held Fairer.

"When a wife avails herself of the legal provision for separate maintenance as an instrument of hatred, revenge, and punishment against her husband rather than seeking the relief of divorce, then this complaint for and securing of separate maintenance constitutes an act of extreme, continued, and repeated cruelty," he stated.

"Every statute had behind it when it was passed a social purpose which served as a guide to the courts in their action under it," he continued. "The law providing separate maintenance had two purposes. The first of these was to provide for the support of a needy wife for a period during which there are prospects of reconciliation.

"The second purpose was to provide and enforce a legal arrangement for the support of wife and children where husband and wife find it impossible to live together but, because of their religious beliefs, have objections to divorce.

Misuse of Law.

"Recourse to a statute of separate maintenance for other reasons than the prospect of reconciliation and religious principles against divorce goes beyond the social purpose of the law. It is certainly against sound social policy when it is used as an instrument of hatred, vindictiveness, and cruelty. It is not infrequently so used as a punitive instrument when a wife who has sufficient grounds for divorce refuses to file suit and instead files a suit for separate maintenance."

Changing social conditions have caused a revision in the old ideals of marriage, but legislation lags behind public opinion, the professor contended. The misuse of the law providing separate maintenance not infrequently encourages immorality and is certainly against public policy and social welfare, he said.

Would Abolish Law.

"It would seem that in terms of human suffering and misery the vindictive use of separate maintenance by the wife preventing the husband from remarrying and condemning him to choose between a life of celibacy or immorality would legitimately constitute an act of extreme, continuous, and repeated cruelty."

Examined by Victor Neumark, attorney for Reifman, Dr. Burgess revealed that he has conducted a course on family life and divorce for 16 years and that he is the authority of several books on the subject, the latest of which was "Predicting Success and Failure in Marriage." He explained that he was familiar with the law of separate maintenance and the suffering, misery, and immorality that can exist under its decree.

"Do you believe that the law of separate maintenance should be abolished?" Eisenman questioned in cross-examination.

"Yes," was the terse answer.

JITTERY EVANSTON ASKS NAVAL BAN ON 'DIVE-BOMBING'

Low swooping planes from the navy's pilot training stations at Glenview have given the citizens of Evanston a bad case of jitters.

Mayor Samuel G. Ingraham, in a letter sent yesterday to the commandant, said that Evanston is all out for the "Fly for Navy" campaign, but asked if the aviators couldn't please, fly a little higher.

Samuel J. Bell, veteran desk sergeant at the Evanston police station, said that calls from nervous Evanstonians have swamped police phones. One woman told Sergt. Bell that a plane dive bombed almost into her backyard, set her wash dancing on the line, and denuded a shade tree of its leaves with the blast of its propeller.

But there's one cheerful thought. Evanstonians will know how to duck if there ever is a real air raid.

State Police Build Armored Fortress-Lab

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A new mobile crime laboratory, combining the functions of riot car, emergency hospital, and fortress in its 16 tons, will be placed in service tomorrow by the Illinois state police.

The vehicle was designed by Leonarde Keeler, inventor of the lie detector and expert in scientific police work, and T. P. Sullivan, director of the state department of public welfare. Eighteen months were required to build and equip it with virtually every device known to modern police procedure.

Cruiser Fully Armored.

The cruiser is 11 feet high, 7 feet wide, and nearly as long as a freight car. It is armored from top to bottom with bullet proof steel plates, and has a gun turret which can be raised four feet above its roof, affording the crew a vantage point 15 feet above the ground. The turret is protected with bullet resistant glass. Machine guns project from it, and from portholes at other positions in the body.

A description of the equipment will be broadcast by station WLS, which furnished an advance description in a press announcement, at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow. The unit will be parked outside the station studios at 1230 West Washington street during the broadcast. At 3 p. m. tomorrow, Gov. Dwight H. Green will place the cruiser in service for the highway police at a ceremony in the plaza at Michigan avenue and Congress street.

Claim Speed of 60 M. P. H.

Its designers claim a speed of 60 miles an hour for the armored laboratory, which is intended for service in case of riots, at scenes of sabotage or public disasters. Equipment includes: a blood analysis device; a lie detector; a collapsible boat and diving helmets for use in drownings or other accidents, or recovery of evidence in crimes; the trappings of a small hospital, including anesthesia devices, X-ray equipment, and everything necessary for operations of major class; devices for examination of explosive packages; asbestos suits and helmets for use in fires; "walkie-talkies" for communication between the car and men outside it; two way radio for use of the car's crew; still and motion picture cameras, with dark room equipment; standard telephone equipment, and a loudspeaker system of stentorian power.

The car has many other crime detection and first aid implements, in addition to a formidable array of arms for its crew: rifles, short arms, shotguns, and machine guns in addition to the car's turret guns.

Allies Check Jap Drive on Port Moresby

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—Japan's thrust thru the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea has been checked south of Efogi, 44 air line miles from the big allied base of Port Moresby, and "bitter fighting continues with casualties reported heavy on both sides," a communique said today.

Allied bombers continued to pour explosives on the veteran Japanese jungle fighters and their tortuous supply lines leading back thru the mountain pass to Myola, on the northern slopes.

"The enemy yesterday made no further progress" in the area of Efogi, the communique said.

How Japs Scored Success.

A 12 mile Japanese advance from Myola to Efogi first was announced yesterday. The green painted Japanese jungle fighters had outflanked allied positions on the northern side of "The Gap," an 8,000 foot pass, then executed a second flanking movement at Efogi to carry them south of that native hamlet.

Allied and Japanese troops were engaged in close combat on the mountain trail south of Efogi, and front line dispatches said the Australians had gone into action with their bayonets.

Altho the casualties on both sides were heavy, a spokesman here was unable to give any estimate of the numbers.

"It probably is too tough for mules even," the spokesman said of the 4,000 foot high rainswept and heavily wooded battle area at Efogi.

Both allied and Japanese troops were using native porters to carry food, ammunition, and other supplies to their forces.

U. S. Bombers Unopposed.

American bombers swooped low over the jungle trail to strafe the enemy and blast any supply dumps found along the route, but there was no report of any Japanese aerial support in the area, and the allied planes operated unopposed over the forest.

[Finds Japs are using old jungle war tricks to advance in New Guinea. Story on page 5.]

The size of the Japanese force which broke thru the Owen Stanley mountains was not disclosed, but it was not believed large. Australian troops predominated among the allied defenders, altho an unspecified number of American service troops, including Negroes, are based at Port Moresby.

The supply problem of both sides was aggravated by equatorial rains which made the inadequate dirt roads and trails boggy.

Today's communique indicated the allied ground defenders, aided by allied planes, had stiffened their resistance since yesterday's Jap advance.

SUB SINKS TWO JAP TRANSPORTS, CHINESE REPORT

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—Two Japanese transports loaded with 2,000 troops and supplies were torpedoed and sunk by an allied submarine off the Fukien coast Aug. 27, the Chinese central news agency reported today. The agency said the transports were off the Min river estuary and headed south when attacked.

A high command communique reported a clash in Hupeh province in which an attacking Japanese force was "hurled back with severe losses" when it tried to drive southwestward along the Yangtze river toward Kuanyingchow.

Chinese Lose Six Million Men.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—China has lost about 6,000,000 in killed and wounded against Japan's 2,500,000 in five years of war, Dr. George Yeh, London director of the Chinese information ministry, estimated today. He put Chinese army strength now at roughly 13,000,000 men.

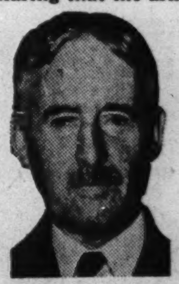
NATIONAL GUARD AND RESERVES TO BE DRAFTED

Woman's Air Ferry Service Formed.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 12.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Declaring that the army is running short of man power, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson today, at his press conference, announced several steps to help relieve the situation.



Sec. H. L. Stimson.

He said that college students in the army enlisted reserves will be subject to call in the not distant future; that several thousand members of the regular army reserve, the enlisted reserve corps, and the National Guard, deferred because of dependency, will be called soon after Oct. 1 as a result of the service men's dependents allowance act, and that a women's squadron for air force ferrying operations will be established by the air transport command.

The latter will be an experimental unit, under the command of Mrs. Nancy Harkness Love, 28 years old, of Boston, Mass., an experienced test and racing pilot and the wife of Lieut. Col. Robert M. Love, deputy chief of staff of the air transport command. She has been flying for 12 years and has logged more than 1,200 hours of flying time.

Qualified to Fly Seaplane.

The tests Mrs. Love has passed qualify her to handle planes with engines of 600 horsepower. She is an expert in flying with instruments and also is rated to fly seaplanes. She first was engaged in ferrying operations as one of the pilots who flew to the Canadian border planes sold to Britain early in the war.

This force of women pilots will be known as the women's auxiliary ferrying squadron [WAFS] and will consist initially of about 50 women, all on civil service status, and 40 of these will be active pilots. The women ferrying pilots will be paid at the rate of $3,000 a year. After a 90 day service period candidates meeting requirements will be eligible for permanent appointment to the WAFS. Applications will be received at the air transport command, army air forces, here.

Candidates must be between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive; have a high school education; hold a commercial license with a 200 H. P. rating; have not less than 500 logged and certified flying hours; be an American citizen; and have cross-country flying experience. The applicant must pass a thoro flight check in an army plane of the trainer type.

At first the WAFS will be limited to flying some of the smaller army planes such as training and liaison type planes within the United States. Later they probably will take on some of the bigger jobs. The air transport command is responsible for ferrying all army aircraft from factories to domestic air fields and for combat units overseas.

All Destined for Service.

As regards college students in the enlisted reserves, Stimson said that "The exigencies of the war have now become such that it is now expected that by the end of the college term or semester beginning in September those student members of the reserve who have reached selective service age will all or for the most part be called to active duty and those reaching that age during subsequent terms will similarly be called."

Increased army pay and the dependents allowance act will now make possible the recall to active service of several thousand members of the regular army reserve, the enlisted reserve corps, and the National Guard, Stimson asserted. Cases of all deferred reservists will be reviewed and those who should no longer be reserved will be called to active duty as soon as practicable after Oct. 1 and in no case later than Dec. 1. Men further deferred on account of dependency will be honorably discharged from the reserve as of Dec. 31, 1942, and will be required to register for the draft.

BRITISH ATTACK TO OCCUPY ALL OF MADAGASCAR

Learn French Aided Axis; Smash at 3 Ports.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—The British launched a powerful sea, air and land offensive today to neutralize all of Madagascar and eliminate reported fueling of Japanese submarines in secret harbors and Nazi espionage carried on with connivance of Vichy French agents.

Almost as soon as Vichy announced that the British navy and the royal air force were shelling and bombing three key ports on the west coast of the island off East Africa, it was disclosed here that Japanese planes have been permitted to reconnoiter the southern part of Madagascar.

It was stated also that Japanese submarines had put into remote coves to be supplied for attacks on allied shipping in the Mozambique channel and Indian ocean, and that German spies who made their way to Madagascar were assisted by some local officials on orders from Vichy.

De Gaullists in Attack.

There were some "Fighting French" soldiers in the offensive, which the war office said was "continuing satisfactorily," but the brunt of the attack was borne by three squadrons of warships and RAF planes.

The British government announced that it had acted only after the Madagascar authorities had refused to cooperate in making the island safe for the united nations against the axis. Further, the British government promised that it has "no territorial designs on Madagascar."

"Madagascar remains French," an announcement said.

[The British acted with the full agreement of the United States, the state department announced in Washington, D. C., pointing out that the penetration or occupation of any part of Madagascar by the axis would constitute a definite and serious danger to the united nations. The United States also reaffirmed that the island would remain a French possession.]

Smash at Three Ports.

Vichy dispatches reported that the British forces coming from the Mozambique channel were attacking Majunga harbor, 320 miles southwest of the British held naval base of Diego Suarez; Morondava, 690 miles southwest of Diego Suarez, and Ambanja, about 120 miles below the naval base.

The French said it was apparent that the British were building up to a landing attempt at Majunga, where the shelling continued all day. Eighteen warships were in the flotilla off Majunga, the French said. The assault there was reported timed to coincide with an attack from the north by "Fighting French" soldiers, said to have attempted to land nine miles from Majunga two days ago.

The Vichy reports said the De Gaullists were driven off.

Largest Port of Island.

Majunga is the largest port in the island and is the gateway to Tananarive, the inland capital of Madagascar. It could provide shelter for large naval forces. Ambanja is a control point for the only overland highway with the rest of the island and Morondava, the third most important port after Majunga and Diego Suarez, controls the Straits of Mozambique.

The British, it was said here, considered it necessary to seize control of the island to make safe the convoy routes to Egypt, India, Australia, and Russia.

The British government announced that after the occupation of Diego Suarez in May it had hoped that the governor general of Madagascar would allow the British to take necessary steps to "deny to the axis powers places and facilities elsewhere on the island." When it became clear that this could not be achieved by "peaceful means," the government said, further military operations were taken.

Besides the occupation of Diego Suarez, the British sent a motorized column 200 miles down the east coast and occupied the port of Antalaha.

To safeguard the Mozambique sea route, the British on July 2 seized the French Island of Mayotte, 200 miles west of Madagascar and 300 miles east of Portuguese East Africa.

CHICAGOAN FATALLY WOUNDED IN EGYPT; GUNNER ON PLANE

A gold star was added to the service flag in the 900 block in South Winchester avenue yesterday and a photograph of Sergt. Joseph Eppolito was placed in a small frame near the base of the flagpole. And thus the families in the block which have sent 13 sons into the armed services learned that the first of them—Sergt. Eppolito—had given his life for his country.

Sergt. Eppolito.

Sergt. Eppolito, a gunner in the army air forces, died Sunday of wounds suffered in Egypt, according to a telegram received from the war department by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Eppolito, 917 South Winchester avenue.

Eppolito was 22 years old. He was born in Chicago. He enlisted in the army last December after Pearl Harbor, the first boy in his block to enter the service after the outbreak of war—and the first to die. When the block flagpole was erected recently frames were provided for pictures of those of the boys who might make the supreme sacrifice.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rakow, 506 South 1st street, West Dundee, were advised by the war department that their son, Staff Sergt. Ronald Rakow, 21, a radio operator and gunner attached to a bomber squadron, has been missing in action in Africa since Sept. 1.

TOMMY LAMENTS PAY INEQUALITY, ARMY GETS RAISE

British Troops Win 70c Boost Per Week.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal, announced increases today in the basic pay of British armed forces after the house of commons had heard the lament of an anonymous Tommy Atkins over his scale as compared with that in the United States army.

The pay increase will be about 70 cents a week for all men in the armed services below commissioned ranks and about forty-five cents for women, Cripps said.

Raise Allotments.

The government also boosted about 20 cents a week, the allowances for each of the soldiers' minor dependents. The first child now receives about $1.70 a week.

Allowances for officers' dependents were raised on a similar scale.

However, members of Britain's armed forces still will be among the world's lowest paid.

Disparity Cited.

The disparity in pay between United States and British soldiers was put before commons in a debate on service pay and allowances.

Capt. Frederick Bellenger, a Laborite, asserted that the British soldier with proficiency pay received about 50 cents a day in contrast with about $2 for American soldiers.

WRENS WATCH SHIP LAUNCHING.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Four hundred members of the women's royal navy service recently witnessed the launching in a Scottish shipyard of H. M. S. Wren, an escort sloop, the girls having contributed one day's salary each to its building. A bottle of whisky from a local distillery was used in the christening.

NO COMPROMISE SETTLEMENT FOR INDIA: CHURCHILL

Cabinet Called in Special Night Session.

LONDON, Sept. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—The British cabinet met in a special session late last night for what political circles called "important discussions on the Indian situation" after Prime Minister Churchill had rejected publicly any immediate compromise settlement and accused the All-India Congress party of attempting an open revolution, possibly aided by Japanese fifth columnists.

The ministers met after some Conservative members in the house of commons had tabled a motion approving Churchill's statement—a move which automatically ruled out any discussion of Indian developments at the next sitting of parliament.

In a statement to the house of commons, Churchill declared the Cripps proposals for postwar freedom for India, which the Congress party and other Indian political groups turned down last spring, represented the "settled policy" of Great Britain.

He told a questioner that he had no reason to believe there was any tendency in India today to accept the Cripps proposals and asserted an agreement on India's constitutional questions was difficult "with invasion not far off."

Reënforcements Reach India.

The prime minister also declared that the course of events in India had been improving.

"Large reënforcements have reached India and the number of white soldiers now in India is larger than at any time in the British connection," Churchill said.

He noted that "communications of Indian forces defending Bengal and on the Assam frontier had been specially attacked" in recent disorders and said it was quite possible "these activities by the Congress party have been aided by Japanese fifth column work."

At the same time, he continued, the Congress has only demonstrated its inability to win over the Indian army or officials or even stir the country's masses.

More Indians Volunteer.

Churchill attacked the Congress party as a "political organization built around a party machine and sustained by certain manufacturing and financial interests."

He pointed out that "upwards of a million Indians" have volunteered to serve the united nations cause and said that all enlistment records had been broken with more than 40,000 volunteers for the army in the past two months.

CHURCHILL WILL NOT CONSIDER HAVING OWN CHIEF OF STAFF

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Prime Minister Churchill today informed a questioner in the house of commons that he would not consider appointing a chief of staff without administrative responsibility as President Roosevelt did when he named Adm. William D. Leahy his personal chief of staff. The response came in answer to a question by Maj. A. M. Lyons, Conservative. He asked Churchill whether he would contemplate following Mr. Roosevelt's precedent in appointing a chief of staff who could relieve the chief of the general staff of the duty of presiding over the chiefs of staff committee and also assist the minister of defense.

CHARGES DENIED BY MRS. DILLING; ASKS TRIAL HERE

Denies Conspiracy and Alleges Entrapment.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, author of "The Red Network" and in prewar days a militant foe of communism, took the witness stand yesterday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker in her fight against removal to Washington for trial on charges of conspiracy to lower the morale of America's armed forces. She contended:

1. That she had engaged in no conspiracy, and that most of the other 27 persons in the indictment were unknown to her.

2. That a Washington newspaper reporter, using an assumed name "for purposes of entrapment," had written her "a mushy letter" asking for her bulletins and that she had sent him two of them, which was the sole reason advanced by the government for trial of the case in the capital.

Further Testimony Today.

Commissioner Walker took the case of the authoress under advisement late in the afternoon, and further testimony will be taken today in regard to her two Chicago co-defendants, Dr. Donald J. McDaniel, a dentist, and George Otto Brennemann, an artist.

Attorney William Scott Stewart, in his argument for Mrs. Dilling, pleaded for the constitutional right of his client to trial in Chicago. He said that whatever Mrs. Dilling did, she did it herself and never conspired with any one.

"She was born here, has lived here all her life and is entitled to a trial here," Stewart asserted. "She should not be forced to go to Washington."

Recalls "Mob" of Mothers.

William Power Maloney, special assistant attorney general sent here to represent the government in the removal proceedings, retorted:

"Washington wasn't too far away for Mrs. Dilling to go there and meet a screaming mob of alleged mothers seeking to sabotage the war effort."

This referred to a delegation of women who went to Washington to present a petition to the President asking him to keep the United States out of war.

Stewart reiterated that Mrs. Dilling should not be tried far from her home and friends. "This defendant," he said, "never belonged to any subversive organizations, spoke before only a few groups and never had any agents; there was no conspiracy on her part. She was never in Washington except as a visitor."

Two Counts in Indictment.

The indictment has two counts, charging violation of the sedition law and interference with the armed forces. The government alleged that Mrs. Dilling mailed subversive pamphlets to members of the government and had conspired with McDaniel and Brennemann to distribute cartoons which the dentist designed and the artist executed.

Stewart, after placing Mrs. Dilling on the stand, questioned her specifically on her knowledge of the other defendants. Most of them, she said, were not known to her. She said her own organization, the Patriotic Research bureau, had issued bulletins. This was started, she said, because "45 or 50 friends" wanted to know her views on current subjects, and that requests for additional copies grew until her mailing list reached 1,000.

Asked about a paragraph in one of her bulletins, which attacked the antireligious policies of the soviet régime, Mrs. Dilling said this was written long before Pearl Harbor and was provoked by a recommendation of 100 Episcopal clergymen for all-out aid to the Russians.

Favors Strong Defense.

In closing her testimony Mrs. Dilling asserted that since was was declared she "wanted every enemy sub sunk, wanted the Aleutians retaken, and wanted the Japs kicked out of the Philippines." She said she had always approved military training and had advised men in the draft to go into the army.

"For 10 years," she declared, "I have upheld the cause of an adequate defense. Before and after Pearl Harbor I have insisted that the United States arm itself to the teeth."

Dr. McDaniel testified briefly before the commissioner recessed the hearing until this morning. In effect, he denied that his attitude and deeds were subversive or that he had entered into any conspiracy.

HERO BECOMES 1ST TO WIN NAVY AWARD 3 TIMES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Lieut. Noel Arthur Meredyth Gayler, 28 year old aviator from Bremerton, Wash., today became the first war hero ever to receive three navy cross awards.

Gayler received his first cross for shooting down an enemy bomber and helping destroy two others in the western Pacific Feb. 20.

Gayler won his second award—receiving a gold star in lieu of another cross—for shooting down an enemy sea plane and bombing two enemy destroyers in enemy territory March 10.

Today Secretary Frank Knox presented him a second gold star for heroism "in destroying two enemy Japanese aircraft and in damaging two others" in the Coral sea May 7 and 8.

MOTHER'S RIGHT: HER SOLDIER SON PROVIDES PROOF

When THE TRIBUNE printed a picture Aug. 7 of American pilots and crews surrounding a huge Stirling bomber somewhere in England, Mrs. Rose Nestman, 4854 Wabansia avenue, thought she recognized her son, Staff Sergt. Howard Nestman, 23 years old.

She clipped the picture and mailed it to him. Yesterday the picture came back—and with it a note from Howard saying that her identification had been correct. He drew an arrow indicating himself and wrote: "Mom, guess who this is."

Mrs. Nestman said her son enlisted in the army air service 18 months ago. She says she has recognized some of his companions who enlisted with him in pictures of American bombing crews that have seen action in Europe.

ILLINOIS' AUGUST WAR BOND SALES TOTAL $51,897,000

Illinois bought $51,897,000 of war bonds last month, or 90.3 per cent of its $57,500,000 August quota, Norman B. Collins, administrator of the Illinois War Savings staff, announced last night. Purchases nationally had been only 85 per cent of the quota, or $697,225,000.

"While we are far from satisfied with the August result," Collins said, "it is a good showing when it is considered that thousands of people were away on vacations and August is a poor investment month."

Collins said sales of Series E bonds, designed for smaller investors, totaled $31,329,000 in Illinois last month, while $20,568,000 of the F and G bonds, for large investors, were sold.

John Balaban, of the Balaban & Katz Theater corporation, bought $50,000 of war bonds yesterday, and in return received 10 tickets to the 5 million dollar midwest preview of "Wake Island" at the company's Roosevelt theater next Tuesday night. To obtain a seat for the movie, ticket buyers must subscribe to from $500 to $5,000 of war bonds.

VINE-CLAD WALLS AT U. OF C. NOW NAVY BACKDROP

2,000 Youths in Training for Signal, Radio Jobs.

A new type of student is dominating the campus of the University of Chicago this September. He pays no tuition, he dresses soberly in white or dark blue, his daily routine of eating and studying is regulated strictly by the clock, and he is in dead earnest because an important job is awaiting him immediately after graduation.

There are 2,000 of these youths living on the campus now as members of one of the largest fraternities in the world: the United States navy. They are students in the naval training school for signalmen and radio operators which began taking over buildings along the Midway in April. After a four months' course they will be assigned to sea duty on anything from a gunboat to a battleship.

School Has Spared Nothing.

A tour of the school discloses the university has spared nothing in offering its facilities for this training. Vine covered walls of Gothic buildings which for 51 years have housed research professors and bespectacled students now serve as backdrops for ship paraphernalia and massed signaling maneuvers.

Jaeckman field, next to Sunny gymnasium, for example, boasts seven ship's masts, complete with yardarms and halyards. For many hours each day crews of white-clad students may be seen at the foot of these masts, practicing running up different combinations of 65 varicolored flags they must be able to recognize. The patterns are their alphabet.

Chicagoan Is Instructor.

Robert J. Singler, signalman 1st class, and one of the instructors, said the students must be able to read a message and duplicate it with their own flags in not more than six seconds before they are graduated. Singler, who lives at 1532 West 107th street, is one of the few Chicagoans at the school. The students are chosen from all parts of the country thru aptitude tests.

Blinker light signaling is learned in the university fieldhouse. In the grandstand, where crowds ordinarily watch university teams, students take down messages which are sent from tiny blinker lights on the opposite wall of the gym. At the same time on the fieldhouse floor are scores of sailors answering semaphor messages sent by an instructor stationed above them on a small ballustrade.

St. Paul's Episcopal church at 60th street and Dorchester avenue has been converted into a classroom for radio students.

Lieut. Comm. M. B. Lowe, in charge of the school, says he believes the school is the best of its kind in the nation. The radio students are taught by 25 civilian teachers furnished by the university and by 8 rated men for confidential naval subjects.

The axis submarine toll of allied and neutral vessels in the western 463 Atlantic battle area climbed to 463 yesterday in the Associated Press count of announced sinkings since Pearl Harbor with the disclosure of the torpedoing of a medium sized British merchantman in the Caribbean and the sinking of a small Norwegian merchantman off the northern coast of South America.

Torpedoing of the British ship was the fourth such experience for Chief Officer George Crawford Dosson, who told interviewers at an east coast port that he was "getting used to it now." Two persons lost their lives, while 43 others were saved from the British ship, which was sunk in August, as was the Norwegian vessel.

MOVE TO SHIFT SURTAXES FROM LOWER INCOMES

the present level of $400, which was approved by the house, and the senate bill provides an exemption of $624 from gross income in connection with the new victory tax, which was not contained in the house measure. Both the senate and house agreed to cut personal exemptions for single persons from $750 to $500 and for a married taxpayer from $1,500 to $1,200.

Must Add Victory Tax.

Under the senate bill, a person with a surtax net income of $2,000 will apply the 10 per cent rate to the first $500, 13 per cent on the next $500, 15 per cent on the next $500, and 17 per cent on the remaining $500, which would bring the cumulative surtax to $275. To this must be added the normal tax of 6 per cent, which was increased from 4 per cent by the house and adopted by the senate, and the victory tax of 5 per cent less postwar credits.

A single person with $2,500 net income before personal exemption of $500, making surtax net income $2,000, would pay combined normal tax and surtaxes of $380. The victory tax on this income after allowance for a postwar credit would add another $81, making this person's tax bill total $461 next year, compared with $165 this year under present law, and $365 under the house proposed rates.

Vote Travel Tax Boost.

Later today the finance committee voted an increase in the federal tax on transportation tickets as a measure, recommended by the treasury and the Office of Defense Transportation, to discourage civilian travel. Under the senate bill the tax on railroad, bus, and airplane fares would be raised to 15 per cent, and a special tax of 20 per cent would be imposed on berths and seats in Pullman cars. The present transportation tax is 5 per cent of the fare, and the house increased this to 10 per cent.

The senate committee, upon the recommendation of the Federal Communications commission, voted to retain the present 10 per cent tax on international telephone, telegraph, and cable messages. The house had raised the tax to 15 per cent. The senate group also voted to retain the present 10 per cent tax on photographic apparatus in place of the 25 per cent levy voted by the house, and reduced to 10 per cent a house approved tax of 15 per cent on unexposed photographic film.

Drop Cigaret Paper Levy.

The committee also eliminated a house provision for a tax of ½ cent per book of 25 or less cigaret papers, which would have involved revenues of $7,800,000.

The committee reconsidered its previous action on estate tax exemptions and voted to retain the existing exemption of $40,000 allowed in addition to the first $40,000 of life insurance. The house had voted to make a flat exemption of $60,000 with no life insurance provision. Only yesterday the senate adopted the house version but boosted the exemption to $80,000. Today's reconsideration adds about 15 millions to the revenue yield.

Along with the upward boost in surtaxes by the senate groups, at the other end of Pennsylvania avenue Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., told a press conference that a program of enforced savings will be necessary to supplement the campaign for voluntary purchases of war bonds. Morgenthau frankly admitted that voluntary purchases of war bonds have not provided sufficient revenues or absorbed enough purchasing power to help prevent inflation.

There is a surplus purchasing power gap of between 20 and 30 billion dollars a year foreseen, said Morgenthau, still contending that the treasury's ill fated spending tax proposal would have gone "a long way" toward absorbing this spending margin.

He said that repeated failure of the treasury to reach its monthly quotas for war bond sales finally convinced him that more stringent methods are required. Forced saving does not necessarily mean compulsory purchases of war bonds, but some system whereby savings in the hands of the public will be sopped up, he asserted. If the pending tax bill does not provide a method for compulsory saving, Morgenthau said he will go to congress "and ask for it with all the power I've got."

It was indicated yesterday by the senate finance committee that enforced savings will not be provided in the pending bill when the committee approved a resolution for a joint committee to study such a proposal and report to the President and congress by Jan. 11.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—The following table shows the effect of changes in surtax rates on individual incomes, along with the 5 per cent victory tax, approved by the senate finance committee, compared with what various individuals pay in income taxes under the present law. The table shows first the present taxes, then the house approved rates combined with the victory tax, which carries senate exemptions, and finally the senate bill as it now stands.

Maximum earned income is assumed in this table and taxes are computed by assuming that deductions are 10 per cent of gross income. The senate and house bills reduce exemptions for single persons from $750 to $500 and for married persons from $1,500 to $1,200. The senate bill cuts the exemption for dependents from $400 to $300. The house left it at $400.

FBI Arrests Five More German Aliens in Chicago

Pushes Advertising Space in Benefit Programs.

New York promoters of two events sponsored by Army Emergency Relief apparently are finding that the eastern seaboard, which once criticized the midwest for failing to join in the prewar interventionist din, is now depending on the midwest to aid in the financing of Manhattan AER benefits.

This was disclosed yesterday when Don Spencer, chairman of the program committee for the Manhattan events, urged midwest business men to purchase advertising space in program books for the Columbia university-Fort Monmouth AER charity football game Sept. 26 and for a show featuring stage and screen stars in Madison Square Garden in New York Sept. 30.

Spencer's request was in sharp contrast to the policy of AER workers in Chicago, where the committee headed by Martin H. Kennelly consistently has refused to solicit funds outside the metropolitan area because of Chicagoans' generous response to army relief benefits.

Avoid Personal Solicitation.

Kennelly said his committee, appointed by Maj. Gen. George Grunert, then commanding general of the 6th service command, sponsored only events that would win public support in this area because of their entertainment or educational value. Proposals of a commercial nature which would permit personal solicitation of funds always have been rejected, he said.

Kennelly praised, in particular, the All-Star football game sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in Soldiers' field Aug. 28 for the manner in which it raised $160,000 for AER in an entertainment spectacle.

He also drew attention to the fact that the 10 day Army War show, the proceeds of which are donated to AER, contained no advertising in its program books. The programs, he said, did not even refer to the private firm that paid for the printing of them.

Call Them "National Events."

Spencer said in his appeal for financial aid from the midwest that the New York football game and the Madison Garden show were events of "national importance." The latter event, he said, would contain "the greatest array of stage and screen talent ever gathered under one roof." This is a much repeated justification for benefit performances in the east.

Spencer also offered midwest donors to the eastern fund the opportunity of paying one sum to get advertisments in both programs. Advertisments printed in the New York area, he said, would "show the boys in the service from your community that you haven't let them down." The opportunity, he said, "deserves your special attention." He also requested a "prompt response" to his plea.

HOW JAP CRUISER AND BATTLESHIP WERE SMASHED

Daring Solomons Exploit Told by Navy Flyers.

BY CLARK LEE.

AT SEA WITH THE U. S. FLEET OFF THE SOLOMON ISLANDS, Aug. 24 [Delayed]—(AP).—Without the loss of a single pilot a small group of American dive bombers and torpedo planes damaged a Japanese battleship and a heavy cruiser in a daring attack today.

[First announcement of the successful attack was made by the navy on Aug. 25.]

There were few dive bombers and torpedo planes in the group which, while seeking enemy carriers, came across a big formation of Japanese warships just before sunset.

The dive bombers got one hit on the battleship while the torpedo planes plunged thru thick anti-aircraft fire and hit the heavy cruiser.

Attacked in Daylight.

The torpedo attack was made in daylight by the American navy planes against the large formation without any accompanying heavy attacks by dive bombers.

In a similar attempt during the battle of Midway the morning of June 4 two army planes and five navy planes were shot down.

Lieut. Robert Elder of Milwaukie, Ore., piloted the dive bomber which hit the battleship and Lieut. Harold [Swede] Larsen of Birmingham, Ala., led the torpedo planes.

"They told us to go out looking for the Jap force and for 'Swede' to try to hit the carriers with his torpedoes," said Lieut. Elder. "We went and did not see anything. Then Swede headed north and in a few minutes we sighted the wake of ships. Ensign Robert Gordon of McCook, Neb., was flying another dive bomber with me.

"Swede was a few thousand feet below me and I called 'Hey, Swede, there they are.' The ships saw us simultaneously and started throwing up anti-aircraft fire. We went thru a cloud and circled them. There were four heavy cruisers, six light cruisers and six destroyers in the main formation. Over at one side I sighted a huge battleship trying to sneak away.

Battleship Started to Run.

"The battleship changed its course and started to run. I led Gordon over it. The antiaircraft fire was coming pretty thick, so I pulled up another 2,000 feet. It was about 15 minutes before sundown and a beautiful evening and even at that height I could see a big white circle on the deck of the battleship.

"I picked my target and pushed into a dive. I held my sights all the way and released, then pulled out. My rear seat man saw a big burst of smoke and flame on the starboard side amidships just behind the funnel and between the forward and after gun turrets.

"We watched Gordon's dive and his bomb hit just off the bow. The battleship was turning to the left and his bomb hit just to the right. It picked the entire bow out of the water and gave it a big shove over. There was smoke and fire from my hit.

"We pulled over a ways out of range and anti-aircraft and watched Swede go in. He hit the cruiser amidships and a column of water spouted higher than the cruiser's masts and splashed over the well deck. It was a terrific wallop."

Tells of Torpedo Attack.

Lieut. Larsen described his torpedo attack thusly:

"I saw the ships about the same time as Lieut. Elder called to me. There were four heavy cruisers close together in parallel lines in the center of surrounding light cruisers and destroyers.

"When the ships spotted us they began violent maneuvering and running in zigzag courses. Anti-aircraft fire was very thick and by the time we attacked it was so near dark that the ships were black shapes surrounded by flashes of light from the anti-aircraft guns.

"The bursts came real close and it was my turn to maneuver violently. I don't know exactly how I turned my plane except that instinctively I took action to evade the fire of some of the anti-aircraft bursts which blossomed out only 50 feet ahead of me. Once I flew squarely between two bursts.

"Good Work, Swede!"

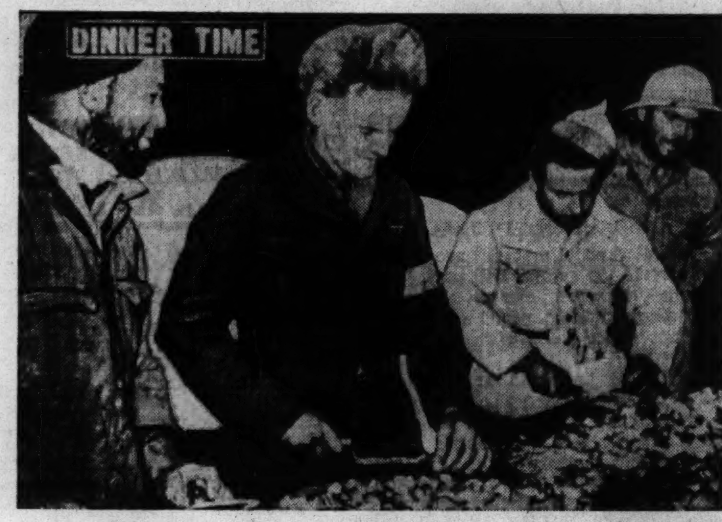
"I led my planes into a cloud, circled and came out abeam the ships and headed in for the attack. I dropped my torpedo and saw its wake heading for the cruiser. Then I pulled up and out of there fast.

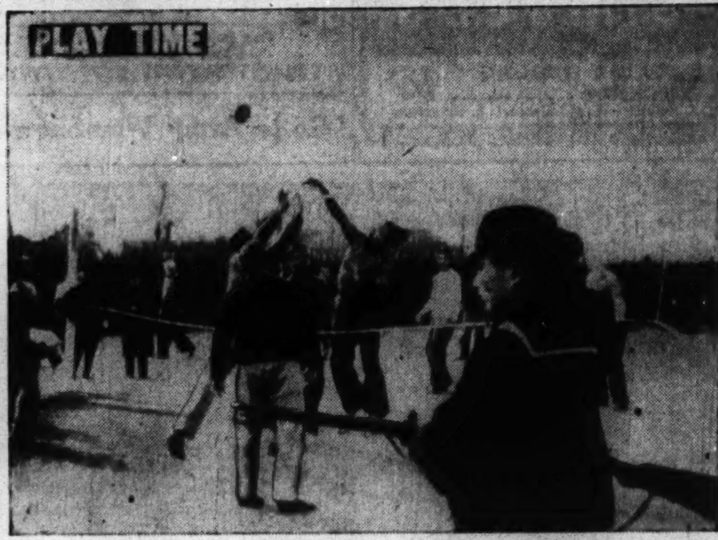
"I did not see hits, but over the radio heard Elder saying happily, 'Good work, Swede, good work!'

"My other planes had no trouble getting home and landed aboard under a bright full moon.

"We are still in the war."

Jap Photos of American Prisoners





Two scenes from a war prisoners' camp "somewhere in Shanghai," as they appear in Japanese propaganda magazine Freedom, and cited by the Japs as evidence that interned Americans had plenty to eat and a good time. The Japanese caption said the "dinner time picture shows prisoners cutting up a large number of potatoes peeled daily." In the playtime picture, according to the Japs, an armed Jap guard supervises a volleyball game.

'CHOW' AT HOME DELIGHTS AN AID OF FLYING TIGERS

Chicago Man Brings Rare Gifts from China.

Home cooked "chow" helped make homecoming a memorable event for Otto [Bill] Daube Jr., who arrived yesterday at the home of his parents, 5933 Navarre avenue, after serving for more than six months as a crew chief with the Flying Tigers in China.

Otto Daube Jr.

While the steak was sizzling in the kitchen Bill revealed before the admiring eyes of his parents and his brother, Ronald, and sister, Betty, the contents of mysterious looking packages from China and India.

Gift from Chiang Kai-shek.

Unable to answer the questions of his family regarding the meaning of the characters on a scroll, one of which was given each of the Tigers before their departure from China, Daube turned to a pure silk scarf of white, a Christmas gift from Chiang Kai-shek, with the generalissimo's chop [signature] embroidered at one corner.

"We all got them," he explained.

It was Daube's job in the Orient to help keep planes of the American Volunteer Group in the air. He recalled one fight of his squadron with enemy planes in which he saw 22 or 23 Japanese planes downed.

Daube said the metal used in building the Jap planes is very light and affords little protection for the pilot.

Save Transport Planes.

He recalled one day on which a squadron of AVG planes on a routine flight encountered a large number of Japanese planes. The Tigers, he said, engaged the fighter planes, but the enemy bombers continued toward the AVG airbase, where several American army transport planes were on the field. A radio warning from a Tiger plane gave the ground crews five minutes to get the transports off the field and into concealed shelter.

Daube and two of his buddies scurried to a hilltop, where they concealed themselves in a ditch. One load of bombs fell on the field runway, Daube said, and another not far from where he and his friends lay in cover.

Daube expects soon to reënter one of the armed services. He was a staff sergeant in the air corps before he enlisted in the AVG.

PARENTS RECEIVE JAP FLAG FROM MARINE RAIDER

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Quirk of 7732 Jeffery avenue were the possessors yesterday of a captured Japanese flag, mailed to them Sept. 5 from a Pacific base by their son Brian [Whitey] Quirk, a marine private who participated in the Aug. 17 raid on Makin Island.

The red circled banner carries the signatures of 113 of Brian's comrades, including T. G. Kee, Larry R. Spillan, and Hank Sypniewski, all of Chicago.

In an accompanying note young Quirk, who was a prelegal student at De Paul university before he enlisted three days after Pearl Harbor, wrote: "I hope you appreciate this, because I went thru a lot of trouble to get it."

TRAIL SOLDIER WITH CHECK BOOK OF SLAIN WOMAN

One Cashed; Bank Notes His Army Number.

Tomah, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—The trail of the rapist-slayer or slayers of the two Kenosha women welfare workers found shot near here, was believed to have been definitely picked up today at Le Sueur, Minn., where a soldier cashed a check on the account of one of the victims.

The man exhibited the bank book of Miss Neil Pietrangeli, 25 years old, one of the slain women, and said he was driving her automobile. He declared that he was her sweetheart and was authorized to check on her account, both of which statements were vigorously denied by a member of Neil's family.

Soldier Tells of Ride.

Meantime, a soldier reported to police at Chippewa Falls, Wis., that on Monday night, the night of the slaying, he was picked up here and given a ride to Eau Claire by a soldier who drove an Oldsmobile which corresponded with the missing car and in which women's clothes were strewn around the back.

The man hunt was concentrated in Minnesota after J. P. Peterson, banker at Le Sueur, told of the check incident, which took place at 11 a. m. Tuesday. Peterson said the soldier made out the check, signing his name and that of Miss Pietrangeli. The check, for $25, was issued on the bank at Sparta, Wis.

Miss Pietrangeli was employed at Sparta as a case worker for a state children's school. Her slain companion, Miss Dorothy Baun, 32, was a case worker for the state parole board with headquarters at Eau Claire. They were killed as they were on their way back to their jobs after spending the Labor day week-end with their families in Kenosha.

Gives Army Number.

When the soldier was asked at the bank to identify himself he showed Peterson Miss Pietrangeli's bank book and a card showing that she was employed by the state of Wisconsin. He also asserted he had Miss Pietrangeli's car and offered to show it to Peterson. He showed no concern and answered all questions readily.

The soldier signed his name as Robert Bailey and said he was stationed at Camp Robinson, Arkansas. He also showed Peterson his army identification tag bearing his serial number and the banker wrote the number on the check which was later sent to Sparta for clearing.

Peterson described the man as about 5 feet 10 inches tall, of medium build, and about 26 years old, altho the man said he was 22.

The soldier's assertion that Miss Pietrangeli was his sweetheart was contradicted by Neil's older sister, Angeline, a foreign language instructor at the University of Illinois.

The Chippewa Falls soldier, who told of riding with a man who might have been one of the slayers, is Pvt. Edward Helgeson, who had come home on furlough from Newark, N. J. He had thumbed a ride to Tomah and was picked up on the highway by a soldier in an Oldsmobile about midnight Monday.

Women's Clothing in Car.

When Helgeson got in and put his small grip in the back of the coupé, he noticed women's clothing there. The driver explained, Helgeson related, that the apparel belonged to his girl friend. Helgeson said the driver appeared intoxicated and that he drove the car to Eau Claire.

Sometime after Helgeson reached his home he noticed in the newspapers the account of the murders and that a wide search was being made for an automobile such as the one in which he had rode to Eau Claire. He then went to the police station and told his story.

The hunt for the slayers near Gary, Ind., bogged down early today after bundles of women's clothing found in a wooded area near there was taken to Kenosha, where relatives were unable to identify the apparel.

Funerals for Two Victims.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—Arrangements for funeral services for the two Kenosha women slain near Tomah were completed today. Services for Miss Dorothy Baun will he held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at St. Mary's Lutheran church, with burial in Green Ridge cemetery.

Services for Miss Neil Pietrangeli will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday from the residence to Holy Rosary church, with burial at St. James cemtery.

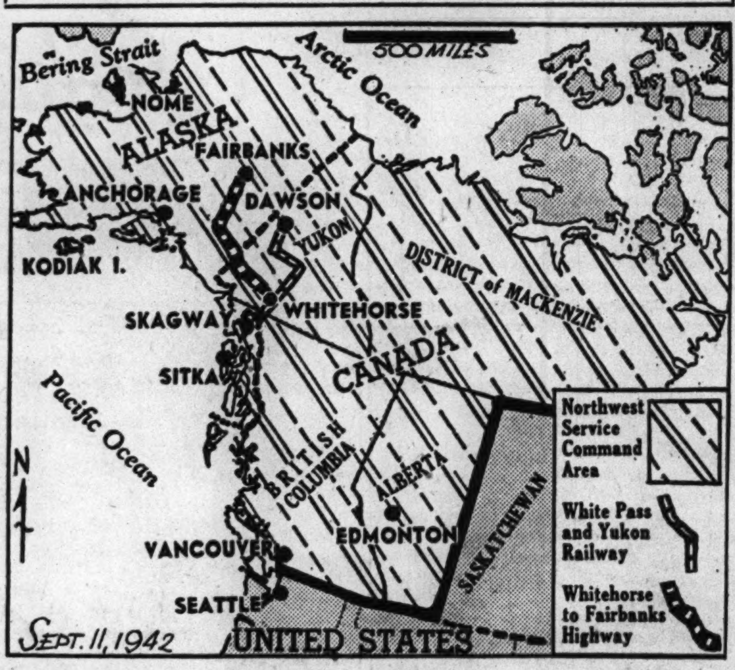
New Service Command Set Up



Location extent of new service command set up yesterday in an order by Secretary of War Stimson.

STUDY PROPOSAL TO BOOST SERVICE PAY FOR WAACS

May Be Brought Up to Level of WAVES.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—A joint meeting of the senate and house military committees tomorrow afternoon will consider a measure to raise the pay of the women's army auxiliary corps.

WAAC privates now receive $21 a month as starting pay, while a WAVE beginner draws $50 monthly, the same as an army buck private. The pending legislation would raise the WAACs to the regular army scale.

Officers' Pay Listed.

A WAAC first leader, now receiving $72 monthly, would get $96, the same as an army staff sergeant, who used to get $72; a leader, now drawing $60, would be paid $78, the present pay of a line sergeant; a $54 a month junior leader would be boosted to the $66 level of an army corporal, and a plain WAAC auxiliary would be raised from $21 to $50.

Lower ranking WAAC officers also would benefit by the proposal, second officers getting the same $300 annual increase recently voted for army second lieutenants.

243 Graduate Tomorrow.

Fort Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 10 (AP).—Squadron Officer Kathleen C. Hunt of the British women's auxiliary air Force, will deliver the graduation address to 243 officer candidates of the WAAC next Saturday.

The British officer has been visiting in the United States several months. She will come here from Washington with Oveta Culp Hobby, national director of the WAACs.

The 243 officer candidates began training on Aug. 3. Upon graduation they will be commissioned third officers [equivalent of a second lieutenant's rank in the army].

Postoffice Limits Foreign Airmail to Two Ounces

Air mail letters weighing more than two ounces will not be accepted for transmission outside the continental United States, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced yesterday. He explained that air mail volume in the last few months has exceeded facilities for transportation.

For Highway Work

Col. J. A. O'Connor.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson today announced an order providing for the establishment of a northwest service command to direct army highway and railroad building activities in western Canada and Alaska, with headquarters at Whitehorse, Yukon territory, under the command of Col. James A. O'Connor. The command is similar to the nine service commands in the United States.

Only supplies peculiar to the air forces were exempted from the jurisdiction of Col. O'Connor. Operation and construction jobs specifically mentioned in the announcement were the White Pass and Yukon railways, the highway from Whitehorse in Canada's Yukon territory to Fairbanks, Alaska, and base installations at Fairbanks and Skagway, Alaska. The new service command takes in Alaska, Canada's British Columbia and Alberta provinces, and Yukon and McKenzie territories.

OLD ARMY TANK AND FRENCH 75 TO FIGHT AGAIN

A six ton army tank, memento of World War I., which has stood as a monument at the corner of 95th street and Columbia avenue in Oak Lawn for three years, yesterday was turned in as scrap by its owner, Green Oak post, No. 757, American Legion.

Because of the government's urgent need for scrap, the Legion post dispensed with a formal ceremony in the donation of the ancient monster, and the tank was hauled to a junk yard without benefit of formalities.

The post also donated an old French 75, which had stood in silent guard at the intersection of 96th street and Homan avenue for seven years. Both the tank and the cannon were acquired from the Rock Island arsenal.

At the site where the tank, target for thousands of amateur photographers, had commanded the intersection, a sign will be erected, reading, "I've gone back to scrap to slap a Jap."

SCRAP HARVEST TO ENLIST AID OF EVERY HOME

Thanksgiving Day Is Set as Climax to Drive.

A scrap harvest for the Chicago metropolitan area on Thanksgiving day to climax an intensive drive for old iron and steel was announced yesterday by salvage officials.

The office of William L. McFetridge, metropolitan area salvage director for the Office of Civilian Defense, requested Mayor Kelly to proclaim Nov. 26 as Scrap Harvest day and to marshal the civilian defense organization for the campaign.

No. 1 Home Front Job.

"Gathering in of the scrap this fall is the No. 1 job on the home front," Dave Herbst, executive assistant to McFetridge, asserted. "On Thanksgiving day we want to be able to say to Donald M. Nelson, war production chief, that every home in the Chicago metropolitan area has contributed every available ounce of scrap iron or steel.

"We must accumlate a sufficient supply of scrap to help keep the steel mills in this area operating at peak capacity thru the winter."

Herbst said the 18,000 or more civilian defense block organizations thruout the area will be asked to canvass each home, shop, business establishment and factory. Block captains will be asked to record the actual weight of scrap turned in and the blocks which have collected the largest amounts will be acclaimed on Scrap Harvest day.

All Must Help.

"This scrap drive has a job for every American in this area," Herbst said. "It is the least that every American can do to help in winning the war. The war cannot be won without the old iron and steel which must be gathered this fall."

John Nuveen Jr., regional conservation manager of the War Production board, told a press conference that Illinois must furnish 1,500,000 tons of scrap iron and steel in the last four months of this year to do its share in keeping the steel mills supplied. He estimated mills in this region, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and Wisconsin, require 6,000 tons of steel and iron scrap a day.

Harvey T. Hill, regional chief of the WPB industrial salvage section, said that industries in the four state region must provide two-thirds, or approximately 1 million tons of the scrap. He said 20 field representatives of his office are busy canvassing industrial plants and urging operators to accelerate their salvage programs.

No Dictatorial Methods.

"No dictatorial methods are needed to bring in the scrap," Hill said. "But any method within our power, including requisitioning, will be employed to supply the mills with scrap this winter."

Nathaniel Leverone, state salvage director, emphasized that scrap iron and steel are needed to produce the high grade steels required for tanks, guns, ships, and planes.

REDS FALL BACK 4TH DAY IN ROW AT STALINGRAD

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Sept. 11 [Friday] (AP).—Reuters reported hearing the Moscow radio announce today that soviet forces on the central front west of Moscow had beaten off German attacks and recaptured several inhabited places. The Russians were said to have advanced three miles at one point.

MOSCOW, Sept. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—German tanks and infantry smashing frontally at Stalingrad forced the Red army to abandon three more populated places immediately west of that city in the fourth Russian retreat in as many days, the soviets announced early today.

[The Berlin radio said last night that a German tank corps had reached the Volga river north of Stalingrad.]

Over muddy battlefields soaked by the first autumnal rains and strewn with wrecked tanks and mangled bodies the Nazi mechanized masses hammered even closer to the Volga river stronghold. Soviet airmen were reported taking an increasingly heavy toll of the advancing German legions.

Southwest of Stalingrad, the Russians said, they still were holding despite repeated Nazi attacks.

Win 5 Towns in 2 Days.

The new Red army withdrawal west of Stalingrad gave the Nazis five populated areas in two days. Four Nazi tanks were destroyed and 400 Germans killed in one sector, the communique said, but the heaviest destruction was credited to Red airmen who in the last two days "destroyed or damaged about 30 tanks. 100 trucks with troops and supplies, and in air combats brought down 15 German planes."

Shifting most of their equipment and troops directly west of Stalingrad, the Germans have gained steadily in the last week. Tough Storm Troopers from the streets of Berlin were reported participating in the assault.

On the southwestern side of the city the Russians said their artillery and infantry had beaten off the enemy, destroying 13 more tanks, 14 trucks, and 42 military dumps. The firm defense of this sector as well as the northwestern approaches resulted in the German frontal drive.

Fight in Novorossisk.

On the Black sea coast the Red army now is engaged in street fighting at Novorossisk against the Germans who crashed thru to the northwestern outskirts of the city, the communique said.

At Mozdok, 55 miles west of the Grozny oil fields, the Russians reported their only signal success—the continued annihilation of German infantry battalions which had crossed the Terek river. German officers of the 360th division were quoted as saying their division had been routed, and in some companies only 10 or 12 men survived.

Fighting also flared on the relatively dormant front at Voronezh on the upper Don river, where the Russians said that German tank supported troops overran one populated place south of that city, but later were thrown back to their original positions. Twenty German tanks were reported destroyed and three Nazi infantry companies routed.

Claim Five Transports Sunk.

BERLIN, Sept. 10 [from German broadcasts] — (AP). — The capture of more heights southeast of Novorossisk and of bitterly defended positions in the soviet defenses of Stalingrad were reported today by the German high command.

It said its troops took the Novorossisk heights in operations which penetrated an area fortified by pillboxes, and reported that German artillery sank five Russian transports off the Black sea coast.

On the Terek river front, where the Germans are driving toward the Grozny oil fields, a communique said a Russian counterattack was beaten off and Russian artillery positions were overrun."

Report Red Guerrillas Push Deep Into North Norway

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch from Moscow said today that soviet guerrillas were penetrating deep into Norway thru bogs and marsh and dense forests. One detachment recently wrecked three trains, blew up a bridge, and thwarted all efforts to rebuild it; blew up three munitions dumps, and killed more than 100 Germans, the dispatch said.

BOMBERS OF U. S. ARMY BLAST NAZI BASE AT TOBRUK

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 10 (AP).—Heavy United States army bombers raided Tobruk last night, the United States headquarters announced tonight. Fires and explosions were seen in the target area.

A joint communique of British general headquarters and the RAF said that mobile columns and artillery engaged small parties of enemy tanks in the area west of El Himeimat yesterday.

Dive Bombers Attack, Nazis Say.

BERLIN, Sept. 10 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German dive bombers heavily attacked British positions on the Egyptian battlefront yesterday, scoring direct hits on artillery and tank units, the Nazi high command reported today.

ARMS SEIZED, MANY ARRESTED IN 'LITTLE GERMANY' OF BRAZIL

FLORIANOPOLIS, Brazil, Sept. 10 (AP).—Sudden police raids in this "Little Germany" state of Santa Catarina today were reported to have netted a large number of arrests, copious quantities of arms, propaganda matter, and radio equipment, and resulted in the closing of two clandestine radio transmitters manned by Nazi agents.

Authorities seized one illegal transmitter in a factory near San Benton and another in a church at Biguassu, where the vicar, Anthony Clondick, was arrested. Part of the radio equipment was found under the church altar, authorities said.

Police said among others arrested was a German priest, Francis Demann, who was accused of insulting and expelling Catholics in his congregation at Marianna because they participated in anti-Nazi demonstrations.

REDS TOUCH OFF 16 FIRES, BLASTS IN RAID ON BERLIN

Budapest and Koenigsberg Also Attacked.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Sept. 11 [Friday]—[From German broadcasts] — (AP). — British bombers attacked several places in western Germany last night, the Berlin radio reported today. Twenty-one of the raiders were shot down by Nazi night fighters and anti-aircraft batteries, the announcement said.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—Russian bombers ranging over wide axis areas in their part of a great allied air offensive touched off scores of fires and explosions last night in Berlin, Budapest, and Koenigsberg, the Moscow radio announced tonight.

It was the second time within a week that the Red bombers spread alarm over Nazi and axis areas. This time the Russians said two bombers failed to return to their bases.

[Axis radio stations of central Europe from the Baltic city of Stettin thru Berlin, Prague, and Budapest, and including the Rumanian stations, were off the air for the second successive night from just before 11 o'clock last night, a Russian broadcast said.]

Germans Acknowledge Raid.

Thirty-eight fires, 12 of them large, were observed in Budapest and eight explosions were caused in the Hungarian capital.

In Berlin, 12 fires and four explosions were observed. There were 16 fires in Koenigsberg, East Prussia.

The Germans acknowledged today that Russian planes penetrated again to the environs of Berlin last night and attacked Budapest.

After a period of axis confusion during which the Budapest attackers were identified as Russian, then English, but finally were named definitely as Russian, the Germans admitted soviet bombers came close to the heart of Berlin, too.

The official DNB news agency said the Russians "flew over the outskirts of greater Berlin last night" and added that "they did not drop any bombs in the center of the city."

Nazis Discount Raids.

The German high command, refraining from detailed accounts of the somewhat mysterious Russian forays of last night, dismissed the raids on eastern Germany as "harassing flights" and DNB called them "ineffective nuisance raids."

[An official Hungarian agency report said Budapest and Hungarian territory were under attack by "powerful air squadrons" for 3 hours and 53 minutes Wednesday night and early Thursday. Three killed and 15 seriously injured were given as officially listed casualties in the attack by five waves of planes.]

WOMEN TO WORK ON SHIPS DESPITE UNION OBJECTION

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 10 (AP).—Women shipyard workers, denied membership in the AFL International Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders union, were assured by the War Manpower commission today that they are needed in the construction of ships and will be put to work immediately at a North bay yard.

William Hopkins, regional WMC director, conferred yesterday with union heads and others regarding the union's refusal to clear women welders for work at the new yards at Sausalito. He said:

"1. We have to build ships.

"2. We must employ women.

"3. Women will be employed within 48 hours on work for which they are now qualified. As soon as their experience qualifies them, women will be advanced to other work in ship construction.

"4. Sanitation and health safeguards will be provided.

"5. The same easement of women's hours under the state laws as was provided in the aircraft industry will apply in the shipyards." [A 48 hour week, rest periods and other restrictions and safeguards are provided in the state labor laws.]

Business Agent Ed Rainbow of the union, said his organization pledged full coöperation with the plan.

NEGRO BAPTISTS HEAR CHALLENGE TO SOLID SOUTH

Favor Write-In Campaign Against Rankin.

A challenge to the ironbound Democratic rule of the solid south was issued yesterday at the National Baptist Convention of America as a result of congress' passage of the soldiers' vote bill including the Brooks amendment banning the poll tax.

Edgar G. Brown.

The convention, which has attracted more than 3,000 Negro pastors, deacons, and trustees of churches, indorsed a write-in candidate against Rep. John E. Rankin of Tupelo, Miss., outstanding foe of the bill. This candidate is the Rev. James Arthur Parsons of Tupelo, pastor of four churches in Rankin's district.

Rankin has just been renominated by a total vote of 6,000, while there are 12,000 Negro soldiers from his district, according to Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council. One clause in the new bill requires that ballots given to soldiers have space for a "write-in" candidate.

"The significance of this move cannot be overlooked," said Brown, addressing the main session of the convention in the Ebenezer Baptist church at 4501 Vincennes avenue. "Pastor Parsons is the first of 120 candidates we intend to enter in as many congressional districts in the poll tax states."

Brown said contributions already are flowing in to finance the assault upon the stronghold of the New Deal in the south. He is going to Mississippi to direct the campaign and intends to utilize radio and billboard messages.

Brown likened the successful fight of Sen. Wayland Brooks to work done by Abraham Lincoln.

Grateful to Sen. Brooks.

"This is the first implementation of the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments to our Constitution, guaranteeing the vote to 400,000 Negro soldiers who are ready to lay down their lives for this country," he said.

"We consider this the most statesmanlike contribution thus far to the participation of Negroes in the democratic process for which they are fighting in various parts of the world.

"Therefore we owe an everlasting debt of gratitude to Sen. Brooks. Let his political opponents say what they may about the credit for the amendment—but I was at hand in Washington when this great work was done."

The house of representatives on Wednesday approved the legislation by 247 to 53, refusing to rescue the senate poll tax bloc which failed to knock out the Brooks amendment in the senate two weeks ago.

NOMINATE O'CONNOR, M'EWEN FOR JUDGES IN SIXTEENTH CIRCUIT

Republicans had a love feast last night when in a four-county convention they nominated Charles A. O'Connor of Aurora and County Judge Harry W. McEwen of De Kalb for two Circuit judgeships. Voting in units, delegates from Kane, De Kalb, Du Page, and Kendall counties endorsed the two candidates unanimously on the first ballot.

Charles A. O'Connor [top] and Judge McEwen.

Convened in the Geneva courthouse, the delegates heard Justice William J. Fulton of the Illinois Supreme court extoll the nominees; his election in June to the high court, created one of the vacancies. The other vacancy was caused by the resignation of Judge Frank W. Shepherd of Elgin because of ill health.

O'Connor, who is 51 years old, was state's attorney for four years, master in chancery for 12 years, and Republican county chairman for eight. Judge McEwen, 66 years old, was De Kalb city judge for 15 years before beginning his service as county judge in 1930. The only other candidate mentioned, State's Attorney David C. Mewhirter of Kendall county, bowed out of the running at the opening of the meeting.

TRUDE CHARGES FISHER LEAVES SIX COURTS IDLE

Six $15,000 a year Circuit court judges sat in enforced idleness yesterday because Judge Harry M. Fisher was not here to assign cases. The assignment judge was in Springfield attending the Democratic state convention. Dispatches from Springfield said that Judge Fisher took a leading part in phrasing the Democratic platform.

On Wednesday, Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude charged that certain judges of the court received all the "plum" assignments. He also disclosed that he had exchanged his assignment to the Criminal court with Judge George Fred Rush as permitted by court rules.

Yesterday a reporter called on Judge Trude in his new court, in the jury law branch in the County building. Asked why he was not working, he said:

"Because the assignment judge, Harry Fisher, is absent from his post and no provision was made for another to carry on his duty of making assignments to all law judges. As a result, the entire law court is marking time. There is no law-jury judge sitting."

GET TOUGH, QUIT WAR 'MUDDLING,' MRS. LUCE URGES

We're Still in Red, She Tells G. O. P. Meeting.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 10 (AP).—Clare Booth Luce, keynoting the Republican state convention, tonight accused the Roosevelt administration of "bungling and muddling" in its conduct of the war, but declared the party must coöperate fully with the government and the President for, "if our commander in chief fails, in the two years ahead, then America fails."

"And that," added Mrs. Luce, the first woman ever to keynote a Connecticut political convention, "is a price not even the most hidebound administration enemy would be willing to pay for 'embarrassing the President.' For in the end, the only thing which really can embarrass the President is to lose the war—or to win it at too great a cost."

Praise for Baldwin.

Her address opened the first convention of Connecticut Republicans since the war began. Tomorrow the delegates will nominate a state ticket, generally expected to be headed by former Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin, whom Mrs. Luce singled out for praise as a "victory minded man."

Mrs. Luce, playwright and war correspondent, wife of Henry R. Luce, publisher of Time, Fortune, and Life magazines, and herself a candidate for the Republican nomination at the 4th Connecticut congressional district convention which meets Monday in Bridgeport, said it is the "hard but solemn duty of the Republican party to criticize all the government's policies."

Not only that, she said, but it must see to it that the two party system survives. "Only fools or Fascists" believe, she declared, that there is any conflict between "patriotic coöperation and patriotic criticism."

Talk Tough, Fight Soft War.

"Our argument tonight," she said, "is this: We want the war well conducted, for if it is not well conducted, if we permit another year of bungling and muddling, we will be a very long and bloody time winning it. This is, indeed, as the administration says, 'The toughest war in history.' The fact remains that while the administration and many of its appointees have talked a tough war, so far, unhappily, they have fought a soft one.

"A soft war is a war in which the greatest shortage always turns out to be a shortage of victory. Proud, fiercely proud tho we are of our victories at Midway, the Coral sea, and in the Solomons, we know that war is a matter of grim bookkeeping. And militarily on the map we and our gallant allies still are in the red."

SOLDIER VOTING BILL SENT TO PRESIDENT; LIFTS POLL TAX LAW

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The senate completed congressional action today on a bill permitting service men to vote in primary and general elections for national officials without registration and without payment of poll taxes required by eight southern states.

It adopted and sent to the White House a conference report voted yesterday by the house embracing a group of senate amendments including the controversial poll tax waiver, over protests from senators Tom Connally [D., Tex.] and Lister Hill [D., Ala.] that the measure was unconstitutional.

IN IMPARTIAL READER'S DIGEST TESTS

OLD GOLD

Records indicate Old Gold to be America's fastest growing major cigarette!

Literally hundreds of thousands of smokers are switching to new Old Golds. The superiority of new Old Gold, as found in independent tests for Reader's Digest, apparently has much interest for those concerned with the different amounts of nicotine and irritants in cigarettes.

Impartial scientists reported for Reader's Digest that, of 7 leading brands of cigarettes tested, the smoke of Old Gold was lowest in nicotine—lowest in irritants and resins.

Add to this, the new aroma, fragrance and taste of the new Old Gold blend, the most delicious cigarette in Old Gold history. Something new has been added . . . a natural flavoring of a rare tobacco. It adds a completely new plus to smoking pleasure! Experience this—and you, too, will change to new Old Gold.

DEMOCRATS STEP LIGHTLY ON PEACE PLANS AFTER WAR

Platform Vague on How to Capitalize Victory.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 10.—In an atmosphere of coolness, a platform that was cold footed on the postwar issue emerged at the Democratic state convention today after all night conferences. It hinted that the nonexistence of a league of nations is the cause of present world turmoil and bloodshed, but it didn't define any similar device for world peace after the war.

As a matter of comparison, the Democrats went only a few words further on this issue than did the Republican state convention in this city three weeks ago today; and it is an old political axiom that the party that writes its platform last has all the advantage.

The Democratic Proposal.

"We pledge ourselves and our candidates that . . . the peace which the armed strength of the united nations shall soon procure shall be protected thru some international agency sufficiently powerful to insure it perpetually. Confident that complete victory will crown our arms, we are unalterably committed to the proposition that the planning of such an agency should proceed at once."

Not a word as to the form of the agency, and that was just the position of the Republicans and Sen. Wayland Brooks, who, discussing the platform in his address to the convention, implied that no man and no party with common sense would venture at this time to draft a definite formula for maintaining peace.

The Republican Proposal.

The Republican platform said:

"Our party demands . . . when America is victorious and peace is achieved, that such world adjustments be made as will forever protect and sustain our American republic, its representative system of government and its traditional way of life.

"Consistently with these principles, we stand for a carefully considered plan to attain a durable peace."

The air conditioning in Springfield's Orpheum theater, where the convention was held, was not turned on, but it wasn't needed. Everything about the gathering was cool—at times even a bit chilly. Less than half of the 2,900 seats were taken. Places allotted to some county delegations were vacant until lunch hour stragglers wandered in.

Only when State Chairman Edward P. Allen called on the audience to "give an applause" when the proceedings went on the air was there a racket comparable to the frequent din of such sessions in recent years. Later outbursts for speakers were fitful and brief.

Sectional Feuds Persist.

Observers agreed that Cook county clapped for Chicago speakers and other counties for downstate spokesmen and guessed that maybe the general temperature was due to an apparent coolness between geographical divisions, ascribing a lack of old time management to the same cause. Nobody seemed to be running things this time.

Overnight the Democratic platform, conceded to have been indited chiefly by Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher of Chicago, lost approximately two of its eight mimeographed pages. Much of the deletion came thru simplification, but some changes were regarded as significant.

For example, where the original document postponed mention of the party's state candidates until after it had chanted a hymn of hate as a part of the "purge Brooks" campaign, the revised version showed the Democratic nominees immediately thereafter, instead of letting their names wait until the closing paragraphs.

Appeaser Plank Removed.

Among the missing parts was the earlier pledge to remove from the halls of congress all Illinoisans who are petty politicians, self-seekers, defeatists, appeasers, obstructionists, and mere tools who oppose American aspirations "out of personal ill will" toward President Roosevelt.

Gone also was part of a promise to oppose all "who, if elected, would cast a single vote or do a solitary act out of selfish or political motives."

There was a vague rumor that some conferee suggested that this broad language might cover a stray Democrat or two.

With interest in the platform at a minimum because of its advance publication, and most of the speakers making speeches that sounded familiar to most of the hearers, attention was sidetracked largely to the effort of the party strategists to create a special issue for this campaign—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Two Pronged Attempt.

This effort took two forms.

First, there was a lot of labor expended fruitlessly in an effort to use the "Small Potatoes" primary campaign label of Rep. R. S. McKeough to appeal to the "common people."

Second, McKeough, in his convention speech, which was broadcast over W-G-N, put more heat into his denunciation of THE TRIBUNE than he did into any other utterance except his total emphasis on one sentence: "I want them all to know I stand with Roosevelt!"

McKeough's voice fell to about normal as he continued:

"I stood with Roosevelt before Pearl Harbor. I supported him thru the period of our preparation for world conflict.

"I was with him, heart and soul, in his fight to preserve the peace of this nation and of the world. The record proves this was his constant aim.

"Remember this! The position of those who opposed the commander in chief both before and after the war was declared was in no way based on principles. It was dictated wholly by politics.

"The naked truth is that if Roosevelt had been isolationist, they would have been interventionist, for they served not the spirit of democracy but the unholy cause of political opportunism."

Trouble Getting Started.

Mayor E. J. Kelly of Chicago had some difficulty getting started with the formal, routine business. But he read in a clear voice a speech that, among other things, declared that the defeat of Sen. Brooks "will bring consolation thruout Illinois and the nation, rather than a celebration in Berlin," and urged strenuously that party labels be ignored in the coming election—an appeal believed chiefly addressed to Republicans.

Kelly introduced McKeough, who made the longest speech of the day; Benjamin S. Adamowski, nominee for congressman at large, who discarded his manuscript and made only a few remarks because the radio time was running short, and Sen. Scott W. Lucas, whose speech began: "This is the hour that tries men's souls."

While McKeough did not mention Brooks by name, Sen. Lucas attacked Brooks specifically, quoting from a Brooks speech in the senate last year this sentence: "I do not regard it as the responsibility of the United States of America to police the world, now or tomorrow."

87,102 at War Show; Last Performance Is Tomorrow

G. O. P. LEADERS SPEED DRIVE TO REGISTER VOTERS

County Chairmen to Start Reports Next Week.

Much has been done, but a great deal more must be done to prevent the new downstate permanent registration law from robbing hard-to-reach rural residents of their right to vote, Chairman Ben Berve of the Republican state central committee said yesterday.

"With thousands of men dying so that the right to vote may be preserved, we cannot afford to permit lethargy to control the results of the coming election," Berve said.

Reports indicate that there has been little activity toward permanent registration in about three-fourths of the counties. In Springfield today Alfred Schupp, president of the Republican County Chairmen's association, will give personal pep talks to the final seven of the 101 downstate G. O. P. leaders.

Counties to Report Weekly.

The county chairmen are receiving forms on which they will report weekly the progress of registration. These reports will show detailed results by precincts. The first returns are expected by Schupp next week.

Registration has proceeded fastest in counties where the county seat is relatively populous, Berve said. Among counties reporting rapid progress are Lake, Du Page, Champaign, Whiteside, Grundy, Knox, Jackson, and Christian.

An advertising campaign in hundreds of weekly and daily newspapers downstate has just been started. This appeal will have a chance to prove its value Sept. 19, the first day provided by law for registration in precinct polling places. It is a Saturday and the polling places will be open until 9 p. m., giving farmers a chance to sign up. The Republicans will make their most determined canvass that day to enroll potential voters.

Only Two Days in Precincts.

The only other day when precinct polling places will be open for registration will be Oct. 6. However, in several counties the clerks have provided branch offices away from the courthouse to make registration more convenient.

"The Republican party is facing a crisis," said State Rep. J. Ward Smith of Ottawa, who conferred here with Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg. "Only one-third of the Republicans are registered, but two-thirds of the Democrats are signed up because permanent registration came six years ago to the only place where it is needed—Cook county."

At Democratic headquarters in Springfield yesterday it was learned that letters have been sent to county chairmen instructing them to get busy on permanent registration. Special attention is to be given to workers in war industries, party leaders evidently regarding them as likely to vote Democratic. In some counties Saturday night "homecoming" events will be arranged at county seats to draw rural dwellers.

Democrats Go After Soldiers.

It was learned yesterday that Cook county Democrats are well on their way toward completion of another big project—getting the names and addresses of men in the armed services. The report is that campaign printed matter is to be mailed to them, altho some householders canvassed by the precinct captains had the impression that the soldiers and sailors were to receive "gifts."

John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, said that the G. O. P. has not decided whether to parallel this effort.

BERVE ASSAILS SMEAR PLANKS DRAFTED BY DEMOCRATIC 'AX MAN'

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 10 [Special].—"The Kelly-Nash chief character assassin, Judge Harry M. Fisher, who failed in his efforts to smear the late Gov. Henry Horner, went into his hatchet act again today and wrote what the Democrats term their state platform," said Ben L. Berve, chairman of the Illinois Republican state central committee.

"The despair of the Democrats was fully evidenced by Kelly-Nash-Fisher resorting to smear tactics," Berve continued. "The manner and method of the drafting of the Democratic platform—words by Judge Fisher and approval solely by Kelly-Nash—plainly demonstrates who had a voice at the convention.

"Kelly-Nash-Fisher tried ax and smear tactics on the late Gov. Horner without success. The people of Illinois again will refuse to accept their hand picked candidates.

"Kelly-Nash-Fisher offer no constructive program, relying on a blank check promise to rubber stamp an O. K. on whatever Washington requests. The burocrats of Washington have no monopoly on our future. The voice of all good Americans must be equally heard, and this can only be accomplished by electing men who will speak for the people of Illinois."

2 HOUSES MAY GET FARM PRICE BILL NEXT WEEK

Final Action Before Oct. 1 Doubted, However.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Comprehensive anti-inflation legislation fixing a parity ceiling on farm product prices, accompanied probably by provisions for freezing wages, will be put before both houses of congress late next week, it appeared today.

Congress then will have about 10 days to meet President Roosevelt's Oct. 1 deadline for approving such a measure.

A Republican version of the form the legislation should take was offered by Rep. J. William Ditter [R., Pa.], chairman of the Republican congressional committee. He introduced a bill under which the President would issue directives ordering the conciliation service and the War Labor board not to recommend or approve any wage increases that would inflate the cost of living.

Would Affect U. S. Contracts.

Army, navy, maritime commission, and treasury procurement offices also would be ordered under the Ditter bill not to allow any wage increases by contractors under cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts. The Office of Price administration would not be permitted to approve any increase in price ceilings because of higher labor costs.

The bill would set the farm price ceiling at parity or at the market price prevailing on Sept. 1, 1942, whichever is higher, and would impose a dismissal penalty on any governmental official who failed to comply with the law.

Sen. Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.], floor manager for previous price control legislation, obtained the senate's consent to introduce an anti-inflation bill over the week-end, but the senate will not be in session and actually would not receive the measure until next week. Brown earlier had indicated he would file the measure today but announced to the senate that it probably could not be presented before Saturday.

Hearings Next Week.

Brief hearings will be held early in the week, Brown said. Administrative witnesses will be heard Monday, farm witnesses Tuesday, and any other interested parties Wednesday. A report on the bill would be made on Thursday or Friday and senate consideration probably would begin Monday, Sept. 21.

The house banking and currency committee also is expected to have its version of the legislation ready for presentation late next week. Once the measure reaches the floor, the stringent house rules will bring a decision within three or four days.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] said he hoped the bill could be cleared in the next three weeks, but betting in Capitol hill circles was against it.

Even if the two houses pass bills in record time there undoubtedly will be differences to be ironed out in conference.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

Mrs. E. I. writes: "My son, who is stationed overseas, has asked me to fill out the necessary papers for class 'B' dependents and forward them to him. As he states that he has made an application on my behalf, I don't understand what other papers are necessary. Can you tell me? Who are class 'B' dependents?

ANSWER: Your son is referring to supporting affidavits testifying to your status as a dependent, which must accompany the application he has made out. Class "B" dependents are the parents, brothers, sisters, or grandchildren of the soldier; all applications for benefits for such dependents must be accompanied by proof of relationship and dependency. If your son is in the army, we will be glad to supply copies of the approved form of affidavit if you will send a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

Mrs. G. R. asks: "Would you kindly send me an application blank for requesting a government allotment? My husband is in the army but has neglected to make an allotment for me or for our daughter."

ANSWER: This department does not have the official application blanks which are necessary in order to apply for an allotment. Those are obtainable at the offices of the Army Emergency Relief, room 521, 433 West Van Buren street, or the American Red Cross, 616 South Michigan avenue. We have forms for the supporting affidavits necessary for class "B" dependents of army men. As a legal wife, you would be considered a class "A" dependent, and would not need such affidavits.

Mrs. A. B. writes: "I hope you can help me in my predicament. My daughter's husband is in the army and is now overseas somewhere. After he went into service, she obtained employment and was self-supporting, but she recently suffered a serious accident and will be hospitalized for some time. I am working, but my salary barely covers my own expenses, and her small savings will not cover even a part of her hospital bill. I know my son-in-law would send every penny of his salary immediately if he knew of her situation, but we don't know how to reach him at present. She will be unable to work for some time and is terribly worried and upset about the problem of meeting bills. What can we do?"

ANSWER: Go to the office of the Army Emergency Relief, room 521, 433 West Van Buren street, and explain your situation. That organization will be glad to discuss your problems with you and give you necessary assistance. I feel sure you will find it helpful.

From Mrs. J. T. J.: "My son is serving overseas and in all his letters has particularly requested soap and other toilet articles. May such items be sent outside of the United States? I'd like to send him some for Christmas."

ANSWER: At present there are no restrictions on soap and similar articles, but all packages must be very carefully packed. If you intend that package as a gift for him, mark it "Christmas parcel" on the side of the package on which you have printed the address.

Mrs. E. K. writes: May I send my son, who is overseas, a $10 bill as a Christmas gift?"

ANSWER: No. Currency should not be sent to men stationed overseas, as there are prohibitions against importation of United States money in some places. You may send a money order, which can be cashed at any army postoffice and paid in local foreign currency.

Woman Aviation Instructor and Pupil Killed in Crash

Miami, Fla., Sept. 10 (AP).—A woman aviation instructor and her pupil were killed today in the crash of a small training plane 15 miles south of Miami. The dead: Mrs. Mary Brooks, 28 years old, wife of Peter Brooks, an instructor for Pan American Air Ferries, and daughter of Warren K. Hall, Monticello, Ind., and Albert Kasanof, 21, Coral Gables, Fla., member of the army air corps enlisted reserve.

FOUR ESCAPE INJURY AS PLANE PLOWS INTO HOUSE NEAR AIRPORT

A six passenger Stinson monoplane which took off from the Northwest airport, Central and Greenwood roads, yesterday, crashed into the side of a house owned by Louis O. Egner, a milk truck driver, a few blocks from the field.

The four passengers of the plane escaped injury, but were shaken up. They are Richard W. Sanger, 38 years old, 6309 North Neenah avenue, Chicago, the pilot; Jack Van Buren, 40, of Lake Villa, owner of the plane; Siras Crittendon, 19, of Northbrook, and Oswald E. Asplundh, 20, of Glenview.

The plane was bound for Mexico, where Van Buren maintains an air transport service to South and Central America, ferrying supplies to mining and timber companies. The two youths were going to Mexico in search of work.

Sanger, who holds a transport pilot's license, said that about 40 feet in the air the plane's motor failed to provide climbing power. On July 11 a similar mishap took place when a plane crashed into a house two doors from the Egner home. No one was home at either house when the crashes occurred.

The struggle for freedom of speech has marched hand in hand in the advance of civilization with the struggle for other great human liberties. History teaches that human liberty cannot be secured unless there is freedom to express grievances. —Illinois Supreme Court.

CRISIS IN NEW GUINEA.

The entire position of the united nations in the southwest Pacific is gravely endangered by the Japanese advance across the Owen Stanley mountains upon the key base at Port Moresby. Just when American successes in the Solomon Islands gave promise that the turning point might have come in the war in that area, Australian forces to whom the defense of this base was entrusted show signs of caving in. The whole deadly pattern of the disaster in Malaya seems in the way of being repeated unless prompt and decisive action is taken.

The communiques speak of successful infiltrating tactics by trained Jap jungle fighters who led the way in the capture of Singapore. As in that campaign, the Australians continually find themseves outflanked and forced to withdraw. The Japs already have crossed the crest of the range and started downhill. They are only some 50 miles by jungle trail from the all-important base, but Australian advices indicate that the defending forces hope for more favorable results when the fighting reaches the coastal plane another 25 miles closer to Port Moresby.

This is not the language of victory. It is all too apparent that the thinking again is in terms of "strategic withdrawals" and "retreats according to plan," which characterized every imperial defeat to date at the hands of the Japs. The Singapore mentality apparently has yet to be overcome. Singapore was regarded as "impregnable," and an 8,000 foot range with passage thru a single narrow gap may have deluded the Australian defenders into thinking the same thing about their position in New Guinea.

Australian troops in the present war have taken other defeats, but in Libya and Malaya they were mixed up with heterogeneous empire units that had not their fighting reputation and were not always completely dependable. The Port Moresby campaign has been the Australians' own show, and they went into it with every advantage. They are fighting in their own front yard, in defense of the approaches to their own continent, their homes, and their people. They have a preponderance of air power in direct support. They held extremely strong natural lines.

And yet they have been steadily driven back by an enemy who is far from home, in strange country, and dependent upon tenuous lines of communication. The stakes are of immense importance in this fight. At Port Moresby the Japs would possess a base threatening the security of Australia itself, while planes and warships based there would imperil American communications to the Solomons. Port Moresby is the logical jumping off place in a campaign to run the Japs out of New Guinea, but if the campaign continues as it is going it can become the point of takeoff for new Jap conquests.

Simultaneously with the retreat, Gen. MacArthur is found solemnly lecturing American troops in Australia that they must hold a line and continue killing the enemy even after their position has become hopeless. All he asks, he said, is that they kill one Jap each.

Gen. MacArthur isn't going to save the day by subtleties. What he may have to do is to rush an American force over the 400 miles of water to New Guinea.

VOTES FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

By a majority of 247 to 53, the house of representatives has passed the bill to enable the men and women in the armed forces to cast their ballots in the November election and in subsequent elections until the end of the war.

Included in the bill as it passed was Sen. Brooks' amendment directed against the poll tax. Thanks to this provision the soldiers can vote whether or not they have paid their poll taxes, and in consequence a great many Negroes—and with them many thousands of poor whites—recruited in the southern states will for the first time in their lives be allowed to participate as citizens in the choice of their representatives.

It is 72 years since the adoption of the 15th amendment declaring that the "right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude" and granting the power to congress to enforce this rule with appropriate legislation. Only now has the intention been realized and even now those Negroes in many of the southern states who are not in the armed services are still debarred from the polls.

That injustice remains to be corrected, but meanwhile we may rejoice that men of all races who are now in uniform have been assured their franchise. There were a few men in congress, most of them Democrats from the south, who would have deprived all soldiers of the right to the ballot rather than let the colored men vote. THE TRIBUNE takes a good deal of satisfaction in the knowledge that its persistent advocacy contributed to the overwhelming support which the measure has received in congress.

When Sen. Brooks forced a showdown in the senate on his poll tax amendment, those who are continually traducing him predicted that his action would result in the defeat of the bill in the house and, therefore, in denying to all soldiers and sailors the right tq vote. Mr. Brooks evidently was better informed. The spokesmen for the Negroes and every one else who sincerely believed in the principles of representative government could only commend him for his bold stroke. Once again the fears of the timid have been proved groundless; once again the lying propaganda of the hate brigade has been exposed.

THE REPUBLIC UNDER MR. ROOSEVELT.

Very likely many of the people of the country, possibly a majority, are confused as they never have been before by Mr. Roosevelt's threat to congress. They may not be able to disentangle it from the sentiments and emotions which have been used as cover. None of the collateral questions should have the spotlight. None is even relevant. The President of the United States says he will repeal an act of congress. He will nullify a law by executive order.

The other questions raised at this time only obscure the fact that a President proposes to add the power to annul to the power to veto. The purposes are inconsequential in this connection, whether they are for the prevention of inflation, the prosecution of the war, or the protection of the family income. Important in themselves, they are cross currents in this issue. Mr. Roosevelt has told congress that he has the power which he will use Oct. 1 if the national legislature by that time has not repealed or modified the act which he will then invalidate. If he has the power this is no longer a republic. If he uses it this country no longer has a representative system of government. It is governed by one man who rules by executive order.

Andrew Johnson was impeached in 1868 on the charge that he violated the tenure of office act when he removed Stanton, the secretary of war, to correct an intolerable state of affairs in his cabinet. That law was at least ambiguous and Johnson did not assert his right to annul it, but held merely that it did not apply. The law Mr. Roosevelt says he will repeal is probably a bad one, as bad in its effect as it is in its doctrine. It provides for higher farm prices than he approves at this time, altho it is the legitimate child of the New Deal and is part of the social gains.

Congress did not lay a cuckoo's egg or leave a foundling on the White House steps. This child knew its father who now says its name is Chaos. Interference with supply and price goes back to the little pigs and the plowed-under cotton. Mr. Roosevelt seeks to disguise his method of exceeding his authority and making executive order the supreme law. He does so by enlarging upon the sacrifices required by war, the heroism of the men in the armed forces, the need of prompt and decisive measures, and of hard and loyal work at home.

He describes a nation in great and immediate internal danger which cannot be controled longer than three weeks. He takes advantage of the resentments which prices have aroused in people who have no compensating gains to offset them and even in other people who have. He makes capital of sentiments and convictions natural to a patriotic people. They want to win the war. They want to do it as quickly as possible. They are likely to applaud any man who is masterful, who promises to cut thru obstacles and who will not be bound by restrictions.

Is it useless to tell people that these are the perfect arrangements for the entrance of autocratic government, of the man of destiny? Here are the historic ingredients of the coup d'etat—national emergency, conflict between the executive and legislative branches, public opinion restless and dissatisfied, the executive bold, the legislature wavering. It will be said that Mr. Roosevelt has no subversive intentions, only a desire to make republican principles and democratic processes work. Of intentions few persons are qualified to judge or speak. Deeds will speak for themselves.

Mr. Roosevelt in his three terms has been impatient of checks, restrictions, precedents, usages, and legal forms which have defined and governed the Presidency. More than any of his predecessors he has sought a personal dominance of government by appealing to popular fancy and riding hard against all who disagreed with him. In public office he has been remarkable for this.

When the Supreme court was in his way he sought to reduce it to servility. He sought to punish the legislators who prevented this. He has sought new forms of government with extraordinary powers emanating from himself. Now, in conflict with congress, he asserts his supremacy in the making of laws.

Has he fascinated the people into accepting such a new construction of government? Regardless of what he may think of his intentions or say they are, regardless of what people may think they are, that government is not the government of a republic.

Editorial of the Day

UNDOING WHAT THE DODOES DID.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The dead wood has been pruned from our army—well pruned, it is to be hoped—and promotion by seniority has been replaced with promotion by merit, but the ghost of fumbling dodoism still stalks from time to time. Undoubtedly, the acts of the fumblesabers and dodoes will continue to be felt. It was but 15 months ago that Joseph Harsch, formerly Berlin correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, wrote: "I happen to know that reports of some of the most important lessons [to be learned from the German army] have been held up by officers in control of transmission whose preconceived notions prevent innovations in the German army from being fully aired in Washington."

In such a blind era did military dodoes do the damage that affects our course in war right now. There are two classic examples of their deadly work. One is that of Lieut. Col. Truman Smith, who sent in such accurate reports on German war preparations that he was accused of being pro-Nazi, was yanked back from Berlin to an obscure post in this country and almost thrown out of the army. The other is that of Col. Philip R. Faymonville, who, after three tours of duty as an observer in Russia, Siberia, and Japan, sent in glowing but accurate reports from Moscow on the formidability of the Red war machine. He was recalled, discredited, and given humdrum assignments. He stuck to his guns and insisted Russia would halt the Germans if they tried a blitzkrieg on Joseph Stalin. The Russians did halt Hitler. As unobtrusively as possible, the army took Faymonville out of the doghouse, as well as Smith. Whoever the dodoes were that took Faymonville from Moscow, took Smith from Berlin and sat on vital messages that other attachés sent—their stupidity must have been appreciated by the axis.

ITEMS OF WAR AND PEACE.

Did you ever hear of a soldier at the front writing home to ask his family to send him a rifle? Well, it has happened, right here in Chicago. He wanted his old gun to do some fancy shooting at the deer of New Caledonia. The fact is submitted as additional proof that this is the strangest war in history.

Statues of ancient worthies, and even heroes, have a tough time during wars. They are forever hearing in the distance the threatening growls of scrap metal collectors. Moreover, they turn a sadder verdigris at suggestions that they can be replaced, after the war, with better sculpture in modern taste. They have no desire to be born anew with grossly enlarged feet and ankles and other leprous distortions.

* * *

Repainting and sandblasting jobs, large and small, are spreading like wildfire. Even the Wabash avenue elevated structure is getting a new complexion. This has happened without a whisper about a "clean-up" campaign from civic improvers, and we have no theory about the cause. However, there is an old American association between war and paint.

The last stroke of irony will come when the war in the Pacific reaches the Friendly Islands. But they seem to be safe since the Japs stubbed a toe on the Solomons.

A suggestion for the postwar project pigeonhole: How about a new approach to Soldiers' field for pedestrians and distant parkers? A viaduct at 14th street would be a great relief for the hoofers.

THE ENCHANTING MONTH.

September,
Thou are strangely beautiful.
In thy duplicity you stand
Caressing the golden tresses
Of departing Summer,
Lingeringly,
The while you whisper a soft welcome
To approaching Winter.
Your lovely form is outlined
In a golden silhouette
Against the bright declining sun
As, with arms outstretched,
You look toward the bleak and gray horizon.

History of the Gold Coast—XIII.

In the old days all roads led to Chicago as they do now, but they were not concrete pavements, or converging lines of shining steel on which sleek streamliners silently slide at 100 miles per hour. Rather, they were mere widenings of the old Indian trails, impassable streaks of black mud in wet weather and choking clouds of gray dust in dry. Over these the settlers drove their prairie schooners laden with produce for market in the town.

The country about was rapidly filling with farmers and an easy means of transportation was imperative. Some favored a railroad, but most, the canal between the Chicago and Illinois rivers, which had been the football of promoters, speculators, and politicians for 20 years. Arguments over the route and the type of canal to be built were now settled. Chicago was to be its northern terminus, much to the chagrin of other promising towns around this end of the lake.

Funds to start the work were raised by a sale of bonds and a great sale of canal lands, some in and some out of the town, among them Fractional Section 3, the tract between the lake and what are now North State street, East Chicago and East North avenues, the upper half of the Gold Coast. This was divided into long blocks, with narrow east and west streets. On Independence day, 1836, a red letter day for Chicago, the entire town went out to Bridgeport by boat, carriage, horse, or on foot, where the first spadeful of earth was turned by Col. William B. Archer. There was much speechmaking. The dream of 163 years was now to become a reality.

The few remaining Indians left in the summer to join their brethren in Kansas and along with them went Bill Caldwell, the Sokonosh, the last link the north bank had with the aborigines. Northern Illinois was now clear of Indians.

On Oct. 25 a lanky fellow of 21, 6 feet 6 inches tall and built in proportion, young John Wentworth, Dartmouth 1836, trudged barefoot into town in search of a job, carrying his oversize shoes on a stick over his shoulder. The town paper, the Chicago Democrat, took him on as editor.

Fort Dearborn was evacuated by United States troops for the last time on Dec. 29 and became a shelter for immigrants. Chicago was now on its own.

THE WAYWARD WOLVERINE.

(A Brookfield Ballad.)

And now I introduce to you
The wolverine, or carcajou;
The theme of legends, queer and quaint,
(Tho some are true, most of them ain't!)
One of his strong propensities
Is stealing others' groceries,
And hunters' blankets, knives, and gear
Frequently seem to disappear.
But as he drags them on the ground,
He leaves a trail that's quickly found,
Which proves again how every thief
Inevitably comes to grief.

THE OPERATION ADDICT.

With many busy physicians, scarcely a week will pass without the appearance of a patient who wants an operation. For the most part, these sufferers have journeyed from doctor to doctor. They have been X-rayed and tested until every procedure known to medical science has been exhausted. Some have been told that they have floating kidneys; others, that the stomach has dropped "way down." Still others have become convinced that altho the appendix was removed years ago, a stump remains which is causing trouble.

A careful study of these patients may reveal that their indefinable pains are traceable to a blood condition [chiefly anemia], to chronic constipation, to bad eating habits, to allergy [sensitivity], to a focus of infection, or to poor general hygiene.

One of my colleagues related the case of a 38 year old man who had unexplained stomach distress. Altho X-rays failed to disclose the slightest sign of ulcer, the victim had submitted to four major operations. The curious part of it all was that after each trip to the hospital he enjoyed about six months of relief.

With his symptoms returning on schedule, he solicited a fifth jaunt to the surgical amphitheater. But this time the family had become concerned over his weakened condition. All of his medical friends told him that they could find nothing wrong and that operations were futile.

Finally he was brought to an understanding physician who knew a little about psychotherapy. He was persuaded to take more active exercise, to become physically tired at night, and to identify himself with some civic society. In other words, the cure was to forget himself. Within a year this had been accomplished. He was sleeping like a log, he had taken an important post with one of the local social agencies, and the responsibility of his business [which he never relished] was in competent hands.

Two-thirds of these sufferers are thin—many to the point of emaciation. Most of them are anemic and the majority are unhappy over something which can scarcely be defined. A woman of my acquaintance who answered this description consulted a colon irrigator. A goodly portion of Lake Michigan was circulated thru her large bowel. When she eventually returned to her regular physician she was minus 10 pounds—which she could ill afford to lose.

On a five meal per day plan [3,000 calories] she began to pad tired nerves. At last report she had gained 30 pounds. In consequence, fatigue and discomfort were a closed chapter.

The surgeon who is confronted with the individual who has already convinced himself that the knife is necessary may well be wary. After a thoro check, with no demonstrable disease in prospect, the answer of course is a competent psychiatrist who will search for the cause of emotional unrest. It may be stated bluntly that as a rule—in cases of this sort—surgical intervention makes a bad matter worse.

We must not forget that nature is a skilful adjuster. Vital organs will function best if left alone. Only when inflammation or actual destruction is present will the surgeon be called upon to interfere.

SCRAP SUGGESTIONS.

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 6.—May I ask why the iron railing which surrounds Northwestern university for blocks isn't scrapped? Surely it isn't necessary, altho it is impressive and beautiful.

MRS. JOHN T. CARPENTER.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Why not look over the front lawn on Kenwood avenue between 64th and 65th streets. I find 262 iron stakes, from 1 inch angle irons to 2½ inch pipe, all about 5 feet long; 250 feet of ⅝ inch chain; 350 feet of ¾ inch chain; about 500 feet of wire, and about 50 feet of old iron fence which is partly fallen down. If this is in one block, what would the entire city produce? CITIZEN.

Cicero, Ill., Sept. 5.—Let's clear out the cannons in Cicero park districts, the abandoned tracks on Cicero streets, and the eyesore of burned out elevated cars at Douglas park terminus at 19th street and 55th avenue, which have lain there for over 10 years. L. F. F.

Muskegon, Mich., Sept. 6.—Add Muskegon to the long list of communities where there are enough steel rails visible and unseen to help us win the war. Who is responsible because not enough steel scrap is secured—the government, state, county, or city officials, or the average citizen who holds no office by election or appointment? S. W. INNMAN.

MICHIGAN APPLE SEARCH LAW.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 7.— M. L. McTavish, in his sad venture to the Benton Harbor market, is lucky he was not able to buy any apples, else he would have found the law would have halted and hijacked him at the state line. This is the clumsy method the Michigan Apple commission uses to enforce a tax which is supposed to be paid by the grower. These fellows boast they have halted, searched, fined, or jailed 139 truckers of perishable goods in one day on U. S. 12 alone. Woe to any one who buys apples from farmers. It is better to stay away.

A TRUCKER.

THE ALL-STAR GAME GIFT.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Thank you for your contribution to Army Emergency relief, which has been received thru The Chicago Tribune Charities fund. Contributions such as you have made are of great benefit in helping to relieve suffering and distress among army personnel and their dependents. The very fine spirit of good citizenship and patriotism indicated by this gift is indeed commendable.

COL. WALTER R. JEFFREY,
Army Emergency Relief.

OPPOSES 18 YEAR DRAFT.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3.—I am against lowering the draft to 18 years. It is a shame our children can't have a chance to mature and have at least two years of college. At 18 a boy has just started life, never had a chance to vote, or a word to say how his country should be run. Boys will be needed more in two or three years to rebuild civilization than they are now. MARY ANDERSON.

FLOODED BASEMENTS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—If all politicians were forced to scrub out basements after a rain, I'm sure steps would be taken promptly to supply an adequate sewerage system. Flooded basements are becoming worse every year. MARY A. YOUNG.

HOLLYWOOD'S RESPONSE.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Perhaps Ben Sorg, who attacks what he calls "the Hollywood clique," has failed to notice that Hollywood and show business have been asked by the treasury department to raise one billion dollars in bonds during September, one million more than the government itself has been able to raise in any month since Pearl Harbor.

Motion picture actors are giving their services absolutely free. Here in Chicago there are no Saturdays or Sundays for many members of the amusement industry because during that time they are booking, routing, planning, and assisting to produce shows for service men. Last week, within two hours, executives and employés of the amusement industry in Chicago bought $1,500,000 worth of bonds and then immediately arranged and sold a million dollar luncheon.

Mr. Sorg says, "Nonsense is taboo for the duration." Yet the first thing our boys ask for in camps, and what the amusement industry is sweating to supply, is "nonsense"—laughter and relief which builds morale. Of course there are some weak pictures. But there are plenty of good ones.

JACK HESS.

YOUNGSTER WILLING TO GO.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Nowadays we hear a great deal of talk about drafting 18 and 19 year olds. I'm for it 100 per cent, even tho I'm included in that class. The fighting men of the army have been and always will be the younger men. It's the fellow who takes that extra chance that may decide a battle. I would prefer to see the young fellows go rather than the married fellows with wives or children. We young fellows have no responsibilities or obligations, but a married man has. Altho I would prefer to stay home and see the best girl on Saturdays and Sundays and go to parties, dances, and football games, I'm willing to go tomorrow if they call me. It's not easy to give up a swell home with a mother and dad second to none, but if it's got to be done, let's get in there now and get it over as soon as possible.

ALLEN H. RANK.

RADIO HOG.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—What can be done to stop a radio hog from entertaining the whole neighborhood? On 65th street, around Yale avenue, it constitutes a public nuisance. Nearly every one on the street works part of the night in defense work and needs to sleep. This bug begins with the first broadcast of the morning and plays his radio loud enough to be heard by our armed forces abroad.

INSOMNIA.

BLACK-OUT ORDINANCE.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Jane MacArthur's item concerning lights burning at home in black-outs shows she is unaware that an ordinance has been in effect since Aug. 12 commanding all residents to extinguish all lights before going out for the evening, in case of an air raid.

WALT SANDS.

THE SHORE LINE.

Highwood, Ill., Sept. 2.—We who are dependent on the North Shore Line for transportation are beginning to wonder if this arrangement of changing crews at Howard street is to be a permanent thing, and how much longer we will have to be subjected to misleading, incorrect information from the "L" trainmen, who don't know where the trains come from, much less where they are going.

After seven months, one would think they would at least have some idea of the routes and stops, but still Shore Line passengers are being directed over the Skokie Valley route, and vice versa. My suggestion, would be that they just tell people outright they don't know where the train is going, or where it stops, and in this way save time and money for people not familiar with the line. It is indeed a long suffering public that is forced to put up with this senseless business of changing crews and the delay and inconvenience connected with it. R. W.

OR WAS IT STATIC?

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 8.—I understood a Chicago radio announcer to say today that Wendell Willkie was the leader of the Republican party. Imagine that. Now, if anybody thinks he is the leader, I wish they would come down around this part of Indiana and find me one real Republican who will admit it. BILL MANN.

THE LOVELY LOOP.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—We have no tires, so we have to find amusement in the loop. It's beautiful. It is a pleasure to walk the streets, especially in a new suit of clothes, with shoes freshly shined. When we leave, we are dusty and footsore from the dirt and bumps of streets torn up for the subway. BURTON LANSKI.

RECRUITS SWELL MARINES' RANKS TO SET RECORDS

Army and Navy Aviation Cadet Totals Mount.

The rush of Chicago men to join the United States marine corps continued to set new national recruiting records yesterday.

Capt. C. E. Lighter, officer in charge of the Chicago marine recruiting station, leading the nation for enlistments, reported that a new peak was reached Wednesday. The new mark was smashed quickly yesterday, Capt. Lighter declared.

Enlistment totals, now considered a military secret, were not disclosed, but Capt. Lighter said that the last group of recruits include a platoon inducted at Joliet and sent to the marine training base yesterday.

Enlist 10,000th Cadet Today.

Both the army and the naval aviation cadet examining boards raised their totals for men qualified to become military airmen. Army Aviation Cadet week, proclaimed by Mayor Kelly to start today with the enlistment of William Cullerton as the 10,000th cadet recruited since Sept. 1, 1941, was expected to give impetus to the army board's drive to enroll 20,000 by Jan. 1.

The army board reported that qualification of 53 more men raised the total to 10,078. In addition to Cullerton, who will act as mayor and be fêted publicly, 100 other men who have qualified as cadets will be sworn in by Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, president of the Chicago examining board, at noon today on a platform on the La Salle street side of the city hall. Fifty other cadets will serve as aldermen for the day.

Officers Will Participate.

Mayor Kelly, Brig. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, new head of the 6th service command; city officials, and other ranking army officers will take part in the ceremony.

The naval board's "Fly for Navy" drive to enroll 2,000 in August and September moved nearer its goal with enrollment of 45 more men, which raised the total to 1,271.

Army Renames Coliseum, Theater as Units 3, 4

The names of two more famous Chicago buildings were discarded for the duration yesterday. Brig. Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad, commander of the new air forces technical school, directed that the Coliseum and the 8th Street theater henceforth would be known as units Nos. 3 and 4 of the new school. Units Nos. 1 and 2 are the former Stevens and Congress hotels.

DISCOVER CHILD'S TRUSSED BODY IN ATTIC; BOY HELD

Greenville, S. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—William Arthur Melton Jr., 15 years old, was in jail today in connection with the death Sept. 3 of Henry W. [Mike] Harrison Jr., 5, whose trussed body was found face down in the attic of a vacant house across the street from his home.

Melton was arrested yesterday, but no charges have been filed.

Sheriff R. H. Bearden reported Melton in a signed statement early today said he had been playing cowboys and Indians with the child and that his playmate stumbled while his hands were corded behind his back and fell down a basement stairway and was knocked unconscious.

Bearden said Melton went on to relate this version of the death.

He took the child to the attic and left, thinking he soon would regain consciousness and leave. He tied the boy's feet together before leaving, but did not explain his reason for this.

UNION PAINTERS READY TO ELECT NEW SECRETARY

Choose Between Two in Poll Tomorrow.

Members of the Painters District council were preparing last night for an election tomorrow in which they will choose a successor to Arthur W. Wallace, secretary treasurer who was slain in a gun battle in July. Some 16,000 union painters are eligible to vote and the balloting will be held from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. in the 27 local union headquarters and in the council offices at 1446 Adams street.

The candidates are Matthew Hartlein, who has been acting secretary since Wallace's death, and James A. Mallette. Hartlein is a veteran in Painters union affairs. Mallette, a city civil service employé, has been a union member for 11 years, but has held no office in the organization.

Hartlein Requests Election.

Members of the council said that the election was being held at Hartlein's insistence; that he was regularly chosen by vote of the 68 councilmen, but wanted the whole membership to approve if he is to serve. In the council vote, it was said, 23 of the 27 locals were for Hartlein. In the council vote, it was said, 23 of the 27 locals were for Hartlein.

The acting secretary and his friends scoffed at Mallette's assertion on Thursday that many painters were working below the scale of wages and that contractors were "kicking back" to persons he did not name.

"There are 700 contractors hiring our members," said Hartlein. "If any of them cheat by lowering the scale all a painter needs to do is to report to us. Then the council will see to disciplining the contractor and enforce the scale. If Mallette knows of instances he talks about it was his duty to report them—he is liable to a $10 fine for not doing so."

Non-Painters Ruled Out.

The council said Mallette had asked the Chicago Civil Liberties committee to send watchers to the voting spots, but that only union painters were eligible to be watchers, under the union constitution, and that this rule would be enforced. Any Civil Liberties men who are painters will be welcome, it was added.

Wallace was killed when he and Charles Youngblood, a business agent for the union, got into a gun fight in the Youngblood home at 2227 Monroe street. Mrs. Loretta Youngblood, wife of the business agent, also was killed in the battle.

KAISER PLANES NEED FURTHER CHECK—NELSON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, indicated today that primary consideration was being given to flying boats in connection with Henry J. Kaiser's proposal to build giant cargo aircraft.

Nelson talked with the west coast ship builder for the second day and told reporters Kaiser's proposal required "some further checking." Among the unsettled questions, he said, was whether the aircraft should have one or two hulls.

To the suggestion that his remark indicated that a flying boat was under consideration, Nelson replied: "That's what Mr. Kaiser has been talking about all the time." He altered his statement, however, to say that land planes were not out of the question.

Kaiser was accompanied by K. F. Ridley, engineer on the staff of Howard Hughes, speed flyer and plane designer, who is associated with Kaiser in sponsoring the proposal for giant carriers.

SEEK TO IDENTIFY VICTIM OF LEAP FROM FAST TRAIN

Gary police yesterday were attempting to identify the body of a man who committed suicide Wednesday night by leaping from the Michigan Central Twilight Limited as it sped 80 miles an hour near Three Oaks, Mich. Cards and papers found in the man's pocket indicated he was James P. Mitchell, 31 years old, of Gary. Passengers on the train told Coroner William Pifer at Niles, Mich., that the man suddenly took his money from his pocket, threw it on the floor of the coach, shouting, "You can have it," before he raced to the vestibule and jumped.

MOVE TO INDICT 2 POLICE TODAY FOR SHAKEDOWN

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin said indictments charging conspiracy would be sought today before the grand jury against Bruno Lakomski and James Loye, who were dismissed as county highway deputy sheriffs after they were accused of shaking down three men who had held up a war plant worker. Andrew J. Weitzmann, ex-convict chairman of draft board 109, was indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday on a charge of soliciting and accepting bribes to influence his decision in a draft case. He is accused of accepting $200 from Joseph W. Kavalanskas, 30 years old, 2303 South Oakley avenue, for reclassifying him from 1A to 3A. MOBILIZE MILITIA AS STRIKE SHUTS MUNITION PLANT

Alton, Ill., Sept. 10 (AP).—With more than 1,000 men of the Illinois reserve militia mobilized and standing by, the huge Western Cartridge plant at East Alton remained virtually shut down tonight by a strike of AFL chemical workers and sympathizers.

Francis Bunzy.

The strike, which began Tuesday over the discharge of one employé in the smokeless powder division, spread to the entire plant early today. Only a skeleton crew of maintenance workers passed thru tne strongly reinforced picket lines.

Gov. Dwight H. Green ordered 12 companies of the militia mobilized as a "precautionary arrangement" for possible duty at the scene. They were being held in readiness at their respective armories.

Employés in the powder plant struck three days ago because of the company's refusal to reinstate Francis Bunzy, president of the local chemical workers' union, for entering a restricted area of the plant without permission.

PLAN 35 MILE U. S. SPEED LAW, GAS RATIONING

F. D. R. Will Follow Out Rubber Report.

cohol processes, are not to be recounted by us, nor shall we go into the failure to build a greater stockpile of crude rubber. We are concerned with the past record only insofar as it has seemed to us to cast light on problems of future administration."

The committee dwelt upon the necessity for "bulling" the present program thru at any cost, urging the complete interchange of information among all groups and the cessation of worrries over the postwar economic problems which may be caused by the development of a new synthetic rubber industry in this country.

Past Wrongs No Defense.

Asserting that it knows it is asking the people to make sacrifices because of mistakes for which they are not to blame, the report concluded with a solemn imprecation for "uniting our energies against the enemy instead of dissipating them in domestic wrangling."

". . . Wrong things done in the past cannot be cited as a defense for making mistakes in the future," the committee declared. "The war demands that we do these things. Victory can be won in no other way."

This wrangling between agencies and officials was repeatedly criticized in the findings, the investigators noting that while the synthetic production represents an investment exceeding 600 million dollars and is one of the most complex technical projects ever undertaken in this country there has been nowhere in the administration "a clearly recognized group of independent experts to make the technical decisions."

Conflicts Denounced.

The report stressed that as far as rubber is concerned the United States is a "have not" nation, asserting that each time a motorist turns a wheel in unnecessary driving "it is a turn of the wheel against our soldiers and in favor of Hitler." A detailed analysis of the crude rubber supply was also presented, showing a deficit from military demands alone of 211,000 tons which must be met by production of synthetic rubber before Jan. 1, 1944.

Conflict between the Rubber Reserve company, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and the Office of Petroleum Coördinator, headed by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, was roundly assailed as having delayed and otherwise complicated the production of rubber from oil.

Because of the mass of details and voluminous size of the report, congressional reaction was cautious and slow to develop. In the senate, the document was referred to the committee on agriculture after a sharp but brief controversy over which committee would have control.

Majority Leader Alben Barkley [D., Ky.] sought in vain to have it referred to the committee on banking of which Sen. Robert F .Wagner [D., N. Y.], a loyal White House spokesman, is chairman. Minority Leader Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.] successfully supported a motion to have it turned over to the agriculture committee, which held extensive hearings on the rubber situation several weeks ago. Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], a critic of the administration's rubber program, said new hearings in connection with the report will be held later if they are desired by the committee members

At Work Since Aug. 6.

The investigating committee was appointed last Aug. 6 after Mr. Roosevelt vetoed legislation to promote the use of farm crops in making synthetic rubber which was passed thru the concerted efforts of aroused members of the farm bloc who accused the War Production board of catering to the petroleum interests in the rubber program. This was one of the conflicts which delayed the formulation of the program and further confused the nation in its understanding of the problem.

Besides Baruch, who was chairman of the War Industries board during the last World war, members of the committee were Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university and long known as a friend of the administration, and Karl T. Compton, noted scientist and president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. However, the forthright manner in which the findings were written, reflecting Baruch's peppery nature, led to reports that the chairman had done most of the actual writing himself.

FIND 4 ELDERLY BROTHERS AND SISTERS KILLED

Hinsdale, N. H., Sept. 10 (AP).—The bodies of four elderly brothers and sisters, all shot to death, were found in their home today. All were in bed, but Sheriff Frank J. Bennett said a preliminary report indicated it was a case of murder and suicide.

The victims were Edward White, 65 years old; his brother, Harry, 61; Margie, 76, and Mrs. Hector Cote, 72.

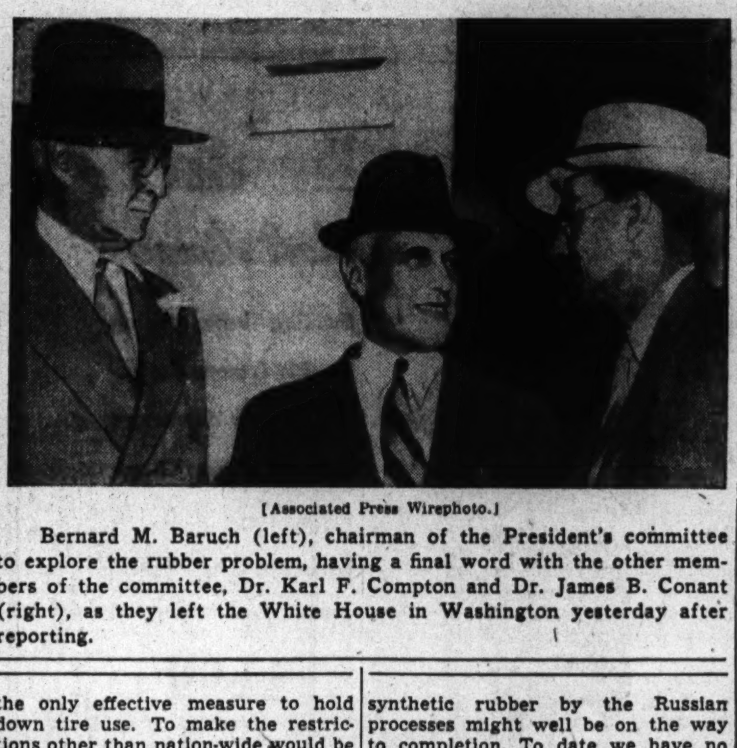
Postmaster Frank J. Young discovered the tragedy when he went to the White home in search of Harry, express agent in Hinsdale.

NO CUT PLANNED YET IN CHICAGO TAXICAB FLEETS

Chicago cab fleets will not be ordered reduced at present by the Office of Defense Transportation, Merrill B. Knox, regional ODT consultant, said yesterday. The ODT has ordered New York cab fleets reduced one-third by Sept. 20. Knox said a regional ODT local transport office will be established in Chicago to handle the issuance of certificates of war necessity to operators of motor buses and cabs as required under a new ODT order.

Digest of Report by Roosevelt's Rubber Committee

Rubber Committee Reports



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Bernard M. Baruch (left), chairman of the President's committee to explore the rubber problem, having a final word with the other members of the committee, Dr. Karl F. Compton and Dr. James B. Conant (right), as they left the White House in Washington yesterday after reporting.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Text of the digest of the report and recommendations of the President's special committee on rubber follows in part:

"Herewith is presented a digest and full report of the committee you appointed on Aug. 6, with instructions that the survey 'include not only facts with respect to existing supplies and estimates as to future needs but also the question of the best method to be followed for obtaining an adequate supply of rubber for our military and essential civilian requirements. To recommend such action as will best produce the synthetic rubber necessary for our total war effort, including essential civilian use, with the minimum interference with the production of other weapons of war.'

Crude Rubber Position of the U. S.

"We find the existing situation to be so dangerous that unless corrective measures are taken immediately this country will face both a military and civilian collapse. The naked facts present a warning that dare not be ignored. We present herewith the significant figures:

[July 1, 1942, to Jan. 1, 1944.]

"Total crude rubber—631,000 tons.

"Estimated military and other essential demands July 1, 1942, to Jan. 1, 1944, with no allowance for tires for passenger automobiles — 842,000 tons.

"Deficit that must be met by production of synthetic rubber before Jan. 1, 1944—211,000 tons.

Stock Pile Fast Disappearing.

"Unless adequate new supplies [natural or artificial] can be obtained in time, the total military and export requirements alone will exhaust our crude stocks before the end of next summer.

"Tires on civilian cars are wearing down at a rate eight times greater than they are being replaced. If this rate continues, by far the larger number of cars will be off the road next year, and in 1944 there will be an all but complete collapse of the 27,000,000 passenger cars in America.

"We are faced with certainties as to demands; with grave insecurity as to supply. Therefore, this committee conceives its first duty to be the maintenance of a rubber reserve that will keep our armed forces fighting and our essential civilian wheels turning. This can best be done by "bulling thru" the present gigantic synthetic program and by safeguarding jealously every ounce of rubber in the country.

More Rubber for Civilians.

"At the same time we find that rubber for neccessitous civilian use has been insufficiently allocated. More must be allowed for tire replacement and recapping. That is part of the conservation program we submit. More rubber use to those who need it; less to those who don't!

"Let there be no doubt that only actual needs, not fancied wants, can or should be satisfied. To dissipate our stocks of rubber is to destroy one of our chief weapons of war. We have the choice:

"Discomfort or defeat. There is no middle course.

Seven Recommendations.

"Therefore, we recommend:

"That no speed above 35 miles an hour be permitted for passenger cars and trucks. [In this way the life of tires will be prolonged by nearly 40 per cent.]

"That the annual average mileage per car now estimated as 6,700 be held down to 5,000, a reduction of 25 per cent. [This does not mean that each has a right to 5,000 miles, it applies to necessary driving.]

"That more rubber than is now given to the public be released to fully maintain, by recapping or new tires, necessary civilian driving.

"That a new rationing system of gasoline be devised, based on this 5,000 miles a year to save tires.

"That the restrictions as to gasoline and mileage be national in their application.

"That compulsory periodic tire inspection be instituted.

Gas Ration Only Way.

"Gas rationing is the only way of saving rubber. Every way of avoiding this method was explored, but it was found to be inescapable. This must be kept in mind: The limitation in the use of gasoline is not due to shortage of that commodity—it is wholly a measure of rubber saving. That is why the restriction is to be nation-wide. Any localized measure would be unfair and futile.

"This note of optimism is permissible: If the synthetic program herein outlined will fullfill reasonable expectancy, it may be possible to lessen this curtailment before the end of 1943. But until then, any relaxation is a service to the enemy.

"In answering the questions of how much rubber do we have and where are we going to get more, the country is dependent, finally, upon the production of synthetic rubber which, it is hoped, will reach its full swing in 1944.

Errors a Cause of Shortage.

"Why not earlier? Why so late? The answers to these queries lie in the past. These errors, growing out of procrastinations, indecisions, conflict of authority, clashes of personalities, lack of understanding, delays, and early nonuse of known alcohol processes, are not to be recounted by us, nor shall we go into the failure to build a greater stockpile of crude rubber. We are concerned with the past record only insofar as it has seemed to us to cast light on problems of future administration.

"To prevent a recurrence of these mistakes, this committee asks an immediate reorganization in present method and the creation of a rubber administrator. This official will have authority over the policies governing the priceless stock of rubber now on our automobiles, the drivers of which are trustees of our national safety. He will direct the course of the technical and industrial development—wholly new to America—of the synthetic rubber production.

Hopes for Synthetics.

"If our hopes are realized, the production of buna S and neoprene [the two synthetic materials on which we now rely most to replace crude rubber] will total 425,000 tons by the end of 1943. But, on the other hand, the figure might easily fall to less than half that amount if delays occur—delays of as little as 120 days. "Bugs" may be found in plant construction or in the operation of any one of the three processes used in the manufacture of buna S. With 425,000 tons we should have a margin of safety, a slight one, to be sure, perhaps 100,000 tons above necessary inventories for ourselves and our allies—for the front. With only 200,000 tons of buna S produced, our supplies would be exhausted. The successful operation of our mechanized army would be jeopardized.

"We can not afford to take a chance. It is better to be safe than to be sorry. We dare not depend upon unbuilt plants; upon increasing the reclamation of scrap; upon bringing the tire manufacturing capacity up to equal a theoretical synthetic production; upon other unproven factors.

Urge Ease of Curbs Now.

"The members of this committee have full faith in the ability of American industry to lick all these problems, but there is grave uncertainty as to time. Whatever our hopes, or even our reasonable estimates, until the synthetic rubber plants are operating at capacity, and beyond, we can not take unnecessary risks. We can not base military offensives on rubber we do not have. All our lives and freedoms are at stake in this war.

"Until synthetic comes fully to hand, we recommend that sufficient reclaimed rubber, a small amount of crude, and an increased supply of thiokol, or other substitutes, be made available for the tire replacement and recapping program, which we urge shall go into effect at once.

"No one can estimate with certainty the amount of scrap rubber in the United States. About 400,000 tons of scrap rubber were collected in the drive inaugurated by the President last June. This gathered scrap will yield about 300,000 tons of reclaimed rubber. It is true that nowhere near all of the scrap in the country has been collected. However, there already is on hand more than enough scrap to keep the entire reclaiming industry operating at capacity for many months. The committee is recommending measures to step up reclaiming operations to the fullest capacity and also a 20 per cent expansion of existing reclaiming facilities. Until that is done, the accumulation of huge scrap piles is an unnecessary fire and sabotage hazard which gives the committee much concern.

"Roughly, a year will be required to increase reclaiming capacity appreciably. Too, reclaimed rubber is inferior to natural rubber, and its use as a substitute for crude is limited. So again, we find that in the final analysis we are basically dependent upon synthetic rubber.

"Failure of the responsible officials to request the aid of Russia in setting up our synthetic system is a neglect for which we have not had a satisfactory explanation. The soviet republics have been first or second in the production of this commodity, and we are asking that their "know how" be obtained. The soviet has expressed a willingness always to be cooperative. Russia has lost, thru the German advance, between 50,000 and 60,000 tons of its rubber-making capacity.

"Among other points to which the committee directs attention are:

"Faulty flow of critical materials may block or delay plant construction.

"No new synthetic processes are to be substituted for those approved.

"That the present program must be expanded to 1,100,000 tons of all synthetics.

"That the road rubber [rubber actually in tires now used on passenger cars and trucks] totals 1,000,000 tons.

"In rubber, the United States must be listed as a "have not" nation."

Giving Civilians More Rubber.

"The committee has been concerned not only with reducing use of rubber but with seeing that enough rubber is provided to maintain a minimum of necessary civilian driving. The committee does not believe that workers should be expected to live in tents and farmers trudge miles to market unless our situation is so desperate that there is no alternative.

and expected shows that at best only enough rubber can be made available for civilian use to maintain average mileage of vehicles at 5,000 miles a year. At present the annual average is estimated to be 6,700 miles, which would mean that a further reduction of roughly 25 per cent in mileage is necessary. If additional rubber is to be made available to civilians there must be a sure control over rubber mileage. After analyzing every possible method the committee finds the quickest, surest, and most convenient check is thru the nation-wide rationing of the use of gasoline.

Five Point Program.

Therefore, the committee recommends this five point program of rubber rationing:

"1. A reduction of the average mileage to a total not to exceed 5,000 miles per year by nation-wide rationing of gasoline.

"2. Enlargement of the present tire replacement program to provide sufficient recaps and new tires for the maintenance of this minimum of essential driving, and to prolong to the utmost the useful life of tires now on the road.

"3. Prompt and strict enforcement of a nation-wide speed limit not exceeding a maximum of 35 miles per hour for all passenger cars and trucks. Voluntary reduction to 30 miles will give substantially further mileage.

"4. Compulsory periodic tire inspection.

"5. An interim program of voluntary tire conservation until the rationing and inspection programs can be put into operation.

Rationing Must Be Nation-wide.

"It must be kept in mind that we are not restricting the use of gasoline as such; we are rationing gasoline as the only effective measure to hold down tire use. To make the restrictions other than nation-wide would be unfair and futile.

"As part of this program, the committee recommends that sufficient reclaimed rubber, a small amount of crude, and an increased supply of thiokol or other substitutes be made available immediately for making new tires (and retreads for civilian use. Thiokol is a rubberlike material which can be used to make retreads with an average life of about 5,000 miles. At present the production of 24,000 tons a year is planned. The committee recommends the expansion to 60,000 tons a year. Thiokol retreads are serviceable only when driven at speeds under 40 miles an hour.

Conservation Essential.

"It must be clear that this program is not intended to give every citizen the right to drive 5,000 miles. This figure is an average which obviously means that the mileage allowed less essential drivers must be cut considerably below that amount to permit greater mileage for more essential drivers. The proper distribution of mileage to various drivers is a matter to be worked out by the responsible governmental agencies.

"It should also be stated that, in the committee's judgment, even this indicated curtailment of driving will be insufficient to meet the situation unless there is an intensification of such conservation measures as car pooling and sharing of rides, and the purchase by the government of extra tires and spares from persons who do not need them for resale to war workers, farmers, and others who do need them.

Protecting Necessary Driving.

"The rubber rationing program proposed here should be considered as providing only a minimum of conservation and not as eliminating the need or value of the voluntary conservation measures.

"The committee is confident that the American people will gladly accept whatever conservation measures are necessary. If our supply situation is eased—and the expansion of the synthetic program that the committee is recommending holds out that hope—these conservation measures can later be relaxed somewhat.

Program Unduly Delayed.

"While the committee has not sought to recount the mistakes of the past, it is concerned with the question of whether the present administrative organization is such as to insure the effective carrying thru of the program. It is not.

"The committee finds a number of different government agencies with overlapping and confusing authority over the synthetic rubber program. The conflict between the Rubber Reserve company, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and the Office of Petroleum coördinator has delayed and complicated the bringing in of new facilities for the production of butadiene from oil.

"In none of the government agencies has there been a clearly recognized group of independent experts to make the technical decisions. Reliance has been placed on one part-time technical adviser, aided by committees drawn from industry. This technical adviser has testified that on more than one occasion he requested the appointment of an adequate technical staff, in vain. The committee has found many evidences of procedures bordering on the choatic in which nontechnical men have made decisions without consulting with subordinates nominally in the positions of responsibility.

"There have been many adjustments and readjustments in the synthetic rubber program. Some of these were inevitable. Some appear to be the result of bad administration.

Russian Help Not Asked.

"One example of inexplicable administration that we can mention is the failure to obtain detailed technical information concerning the experience of soviet Russia in making synthetic rubber. Russia has been manufacturing synthetic rubber successfully for more than 10 years. Had the offer of the soviet government made in February to exchange full information been accepted, it is conceivable that plants for producing synthetic rubber by the Russian processes might well be on the way to completion. To date we have no detailed information as to the Russian experience, nor analysis of Russian tires. We feel this information should still be obtained.

Restrictive Secrecy.

"The dissemination of technical information on the compounding of buna S to all rubber companies has become an accomplished fact only in the last few days. On July 3 of this year an agreement was entered into between the Rubber Reserve company and four large rubber companes, by which Rubber Reserve alone was permitted to give out information on compounding to other companies. It took six weeks of repeated effort for the rubber branch of the War Production board, desiring to launch a program of education thruout the industry, to get this vital information released by the Rubber Reserve.

New Administration.

"We recommend a complete reorganization and consolidation of the governmental agencies concerned with the rubber program. These changes should include:

"[A] A directive by the President ordering the Rubber Reserve company and all other government agencies to act in all matters relative to the rubber program as directed by the chairman of the War Production board.

"[B] The appointment by the chairman of the War Production board of a rubber administrator, delegating to him full and complete authority in all matters related to rubber. The chairman of the WPB should divest himself of all direct concern with these matters.

"[C] Establishment of an adequate technical staff, properly staffed under the immediate supervision of the rubber administrator, funds to be provided for these purposes.

Centralize Oil Operations.

"That the petroleum coördinator be directed by Presidential order to act on specific directives from the rubber administrator to explore all methods for the production of butadiene from petroleum and natural gas products and to recommend new proposals to the rubber administrator for consideration and action.

"The most important feature of these administrative changes is the type of man who is appointed as administrator. He should be a man of unusual capacity, a thoroly competent operating and manufacturing executive, preferably with experience in the rubber industry. No plan of organization can bolster up a weak man sufficiently to meet the difficult problems he must face.

No Changes in Processes Now.

"The committee has investigated, with the aid of its experts the status of the present government program for the production of synthetic rubber and believes that every one of the processes is technically sound and ultimately will work. The committee has also investigated many other processes not now in the government schedule. In its opinion a number of these processes have promise, but it does not believe that any one of them gives sufficient certainty of producing more rubber quickly enough to warrant substituting it for processes already in the program.

"The committee recommends that the present program be pushed forward with the greatest possible speed, without further change, except that if new projects are adopted, they be made additions to the present program.

"The plants for the production of this additional 30,000 tons of buna S by a grain using process should be located near the grain area. Such units should preferably be operated under the control of a local group.

Expand for Safety.

"The year 1943 is so critical for the rubber situation that the production of 100,000 or 200,000 tons of buna S may be the determining factor in the success of our military program. To add a greater margin of safety to the program the committee recommends these additions:

"A. An increase in the production of butadiene by 100,000 tons, to be obtained from a refinery conversion program, more commonly known as 'quick butadiene.'

"B. In addition to the increase provided for thru the refinery conversion program, the committee recommends another increase of 30,000 tons of buna S. This should come from a plant to be erected during the latter part of 1943 to come into operation early in 1944.

More Alcohol.

"We recommend that facilities for the production of 100,000,000 gallons of alcohol be erected on sites near the grain producing areas and accessible to water transportation. This would make it possible for molasses to be brought to the plants by barges after the war in the event that the manufacture of alcohol from grain proves uneconomical.

"In recommending this addition to our alcohol facilities, the committee wants to make clear that it is providing only enough additional alcohol to meet the increased demands of the expanded synthetic rubber program.

"The secretary of agriculture has assured the committee that no concern need be felt that an expansion of the alcohol and butadiene from grain will interfere with our food supply.

Relaxing Restrictions.

"If by the end of 1943 the actual production of synthetic rubber measures up to schedule and if synthetic rubber can be used readily, or if military or export need for rubber prove less than now anticipated, it should be possible to relax the restrictions somewhat on civilian driving.

"One of the impelling reasons for the committee's recommendation that the synthetic rubber program be expanded is because we desire to see the rubber turned out that will keep America on wheels.

More Protection.

"Sampling inspections were made of a number of crude and scrap rubber stockpiles and of the methods being used for their protection. While the situation in general is satisfactory, a number of spots were found where protection from fire is definitely inadequate. The committee suggests the advisability of more adequate protection. These stockpiles constitute some of the most critical possessions of the nation.

Free Competition.

"In concluding this summary of findings and recommendations, the committee wishes to point out that never before has this country embarked on an undertaking comparable to the development of the synthetic rubber program. It is not only an ambitious technical project that must be rushed to completion at breakneck speed, but in large measure it is a new political and economic undertaking. It seems to us of vital importance that this program be managed in a spirit of the fullest competition and interchange of information among all groups. On the one hand there should be the most complete interchange of information and on the other, as much competition in research, development, and operation as possible. Such, after all, are the conditions in the field of laboratory science where during the last hundred years such tremendous strides have been made — coöperation and competition going hand in hand.

"Nor is the committee unaware it is potentially a large new postwar industry and that different groups will be contesting for a share in this postwar industry. This struggle should not be allowed to obscure the basic facts of our situation as regards the war and rubber. No matter what processes were provided in the program there would be the same uncertainties as to the future, the same huge requirements, the same threat to our essential civilian economy.

"The committee recognizes that there still is room for reasonable scientific disagreement over many of the processes for making rubber that are being developed. It is quite possible, even likely, that before much of the synthetic rubber now planned is produced, better processes will have proven themselves. In any new industry the processes of today are outmoded by the processes of tomorrow and tomorrow's by those of the next day. However, our need for rubber quickly is too great to wait upon perfection and if this committee were to advise the newly appointed rubber administrator it would say, "bull the present program thru."

For Victory-Unity.

In drawing up these recommendations the committee has sought to find a basis upon which the entire nation can go forward together, uniting our energies against the enemy instead of dissipating them in domestic wrangling. It appreciates that it is asking the public to make sacrifices because of mistakes that have been made and for which the people are not to blame. But wrong things done in the past can not be cited as a defense for making mistakes in the future. The war demands that we do these things. Victory can be won in no other way."

Year's Mortality to Date Estimated at 500.

Universal gasoline rationing recommended by the President's special rubber committee would force to the wall another 300 or 400 gasoline retailers in the Chicago metropolitan area, Bradley M. Provis, president of the Gasoline Retailers Association of Metropolitan Chicago, asserted yesterday.

He said that of the 2,000 gasoline filling stations in business at the start of the year, approximately 500 have been closed as the result of tire rationing and voluntary car conservation. The stations, he said, are unable to operate in the face of a reduced volume of business. He noted that gasoline consumption normally starts to decline after Oct. 1 and that the effect of rationing will not be severe until next spring when motoring normally expands.

Oppose Midwest Rationing.

Provis said the gasoline industry has been opposed to rationing in the midwest as an unnecessary step to save rubber. He said mileage restrictions and other conservation methods would be more effective.

In the absence of specific details of how national gasoline rationing would operate, oil company executives hesitated to estimate the effect of the restriction on gasoline sales in Illinois. An official of a leading midwest oil company said that gasoline sales in this region have declined 25 per cent compared with 1941 marketing.

The Illinois department of finance has reported that gasoline tax revenues at the rate of 3 cents a gallon collected in August amounted to $3,383,921, a drop of 26 per cent from the total for August, 1941, and compared with $3,474,963 in July, 1942.

Propose 5,000 Mile Limit.

Oil compay officials said that the rate of decline in gasoline consumption would accelerate if the gasoline rationing program interprets "necessary driving" strictly. The special rubber committee recommended a 5,000 mile limit on passenger car driving in a year for necessary traveling.

Motor club spokesmen said the "necessary" driving may require participation in "swap riding" programs and be limited to traveling to and from work, transporting children to and from school, and other transportation where others means are not available.

Motorists in normal years drive approximately 10,000 miles a year, a motor club official estimated. The limitation to 5,000 miles amount to a 50 per cent cut, equivalent to 96 miles a week. On the basis of 15 miles to the gallon, the motorist would be permitted to buy only slightly more than six gallons of gasoline a week instead of his normal 12 or 13 gallons.

See Need for More Help.

Oil company officials, however, declined to project this indicated 50 per cent drop in passenger car consumption of gasoline until the final rationing program is announced.

John C. Weigel, regional OPA administrator, and Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area OPA director, said their organizations will be prepared to administer the gasoline rationing program, but that expansion of their staffs in local war price and rationing boards will be necessary. Weigel said the 844 boards in the seven state midwest region have 2,500 paid employés.

Mulcahy said there are 50 war price and rationing boards in Chicago, five additional tire boards, and 104 rationing boards in the area outside the city. He said he has a staff of trained tire experts who are conducting tire inspections for those who apply for tire rationing certificates.

Urges Staggering of Hours.

Comprehensive staggering of hours in schools, stores, offices, and factories can double the capacity of local transit vehicles to carry riders in most cities, Hawley S. Simpson, research engineer for the American Transit association, said yesterday.

Simpson spoke at the annual ATA convention in the Palmer house, which is being attended by more than 800 transit operators of the United States and Canada.

He warned that cities which are still thinking vaguely about staggering hours but have not adopted a definite program will soon be forced to do so.

Changes in the hours of industrial plants will bring about the greatest single increase in street car and bus capacity in most cities, Simpson said. He advised abandonment of the traditional 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. and similar shifts. Instead, a group of factories in the same area should arrange their starting and stopping times 15 minutes apart to spread the transit loads evenly over a 24 hour day, he explained.

Would Open Schools Later.

Pointing out that schools in most communities open at about the same time as offices, Simpson said equipment can be released by starting school sessions one-half to one hour later, provided the closing time is not so late that it conflicts with the evening rush or homebound workers.

Department and other retail stores can help ease loads by opening later and closing an hour later than offices, Simpson added. He said an even more effective plan is for stores to open at noon and close at 9 p. m.

The transportation officials were warned by Edward S. Pardoe, chief of the bus and electric railway section of the WPB equipment division, that they probably face a complete shutdown of street car and bus production at the end of this year.

Merwyn A. Kraft, secretary of the ATA man power committee, estimated that street car and bus systems must expect to lose 50 per cent of their male employés to the armed forces and by other means before the war is over. He said most of these jobs will have to be filled by women.

SCIENTIST SEES HOPE FOR RUBBER SUPPLY IN A MEXICAN SHRUB

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 10 [Special].—Rubber from the Mexican shrub Cryptostegia Grandiflora offers real hope for an American grown rubber supply, Dr. H. L. Trumbull, head of the research department of the B. F. Goodrich company, declared here today.

"I have every confidence that Cryptostegia, grown in our southern states, in Mexico, Central America or the West Indies, can be made to produce a high quality rubber in commercial amounts," said Dr. Trumbull.

Trumbull is a member of the committee named by the War Production board to investigate the possibilities of Cryptostegia and other rubber bearing plants.

REVIEW NAVAL RADIO FORCE AT N. U. TOMORROW

Attired in white summer uniforms, the complete group of 1,000 students in the Naval Radio Operators' school at Northwestern university, will be reviewed for the first time at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in the meadow fronting Deering library, Commander Smith D. A. Cobb, director of the school, announced yesterday.

Arrival at the school yesterday of a new group of 250 sailors brought the number of men enrolled in the three navy programs at Northwestern to an all time high of 3,300.

The navy's largest program at the university, the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's school on the downtown campus, now has a record enrollment of more than 2,000. More than 4,000 men thus far have been commissioned as naval reserve ensigns upon completion of the three months course.

The Naval ROTC at Northwestern will be maintained this fall with an enrollment of 325 men. Since 1926, when it was established, this unit has graduated 367 reserve ensigns.

BAR ENLISTMENT IN NAVY WITHOUT DRAFT BOARD O. K.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The navy adopted today a policy of not enlisting civilians who are in essential employment, unless they are released by their draft boards.

Rear Adm. Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, announced a working arrangement with the selective service system whereby "no man whom the local board continues in specified classifications will be enlisted in the navy until released by his local draft board for such enlistment." The classifications are:

2B—Men necessary to war production.

3B—Men deferred by their local boards for both dependency and essential activity.

Recent Life Exemplary, Prosecutor Says.

Eagerness to get money with which to pay for the treatments for his ailing wife and son induced Ormund Westgate to risk revelation of his past and possible return to the Joliet penitentiary, from which he escaped 18 years ago.

Ormund Westgate.

Westgate, who has been married and living in New York since 1931, and whom an assistant district attorney described as an exemplary husband and father, took the chance because that was the only way he could keep his $100 a week job in a Brooklyn steel mill.

The chance failed early yesterday when agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation aroused him from sleep and told him E. M. Stubblefield, warden of the Joliet prison, had requested his arrest as a fugitive. Westgate, now 50 years old, said he always knew he would be caught some day.

Given Away by Finger Prints.

Westgate's undoing came thru his finger prints which had been taken when he entered a war industry. At the Roebling steel mill, where he was employed as an electrician, Westgate was listed on the pay roll as Patrick J. O'Brien. This also was the name by which his wife knew him and the name his son bears.

Mrs. Westgate, a native of Switzerland who was wounded while serving as a nurse in England in World War I. last night was seeking the aid of their parish priest and friends to raise $1,000 bail and to carry an appeal to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

"He is a good man," she repeated over and over outside the courtroom where her husband was arraigned. Mrs. Westgate told how she came to the United States in 1928 and met her husband at a New Year's party in 1931. She said he did not reveal his past to her until after their son was born nine years ago. She said she still does not know anything of his early life, except that he was born in Michigan.

Twice Sentenced to Prison.

Westgate's police record started Dec. 16, 1914, when he was fined $50 in police court for carrying a concealed weapon. Two months later he was sentenced to the Joliet prison for a year to life for armed robbery. He entered the prison April 13, 1915.

After serving three years and two months of his sentence, Westgate was paroled May 9, 1918. Seven months later he was posted in Chicago as a parole violator and police were hunting him.

On Jan. 11, 1919, Westgate and a companion held up the O'Donnell Teaming company, then at 155 East Illinois street, and escaped with $450. Two nights later he was caught when trying to hold up a man in a tavern at 1451 Lake street.

Westgate was again sentenced to Joliet prison March 14, 1919, for from 1 to 14 years and to serve the remainder of his original sentence, the terms to run concurrently. After a time Westgate was made a trusty and placed on the prison honor farm. Five years and seven months after he entered the prison for the second time he walked away. No trace of him ever had been found until the finger prints exposed him.

She told the court that she had accepted $175 a month for support of herself and Leslie, as well as $4,000 in personal property.

3,500 TREASURY CLERKS KEEP WAR BOND DATA HERE

Those lights in the Merchandise Mart which burn thru the night and in the offices of the government bureau which keeps tab on the money which Americans have loaned to the federal treasury to help pay for the war.

The office is little known here or to the rest of the nation. It is the war savings bond and stamp division of the bureau of public debt—one of the numerous units in the treasury department.

In its filing cases which stretch endlessly along the bureau's offices in the mart are the stubs, or records, of all United States savings bonds sold since March, 1935—more than 100 million of them, representing more than 12 billion dollars loaned to the government.

Your Name's on File.

This is the bureau to which you can write to stop payment on a lost bond, to learn the numbers of a missing bond, to check on whether you have all the bonds which you purchased. The records and accounts are all there, carefully filed under your name, as well as preserved on microfilm according to the serial numbers.

The public debt bureau arrived in Chicago in June with 60 carloads of filing cabinets and equipment and 1,000 workers, mostly women. It was transferred here from Washington with a dozen other government agencies to make room for more essential war activties in the congested capital.

The staff in the war bond office totals 3,500, having been augmented by 2,500 hired in this area. Several hundred more employés will be added when the office assumes the tremendous task Oct. 1 of accounting for all war stamps sold.

Girls Well Paid.

With women comprising almost 90 per cent of the personnel, the bureau contributes to the mass of girls—many just out of high school—who jam the Mart's restaurants during the lunch hour. The girls are well paid, according to W. Spencer Thompson, chief of the Chicago office of the bureau of public debt. The starting salary is $105 a month for clerks, the average is $125 a month, and supervisors receive $200 a month. The girls work in three shifts, 44 hours a week.

The office now handles the records for 12 million war bonds sold each month in addition to clearing redemptions of bonds and answering thousands of inquiries.

The stubs of all bonds sold are sent to the office by the federal reserve banks, the first and second class postoffices, and other government agencies.

Machines Sort Stubs.

The stubs are sorted automatically by a machine which responds to holes punched in the stiff paper to represent the serial number and denomination. After the tabulation the stubs are photographed on microfilm and filed under the purchaser's name in calendar year groups.

Thompson explained that in addition to providing a numerical record the filming of the stubs was adopted as a measure to protect the treasury's records against floods, fires, and other disasters. The films are kept in special vaults insulated against these dangers.

The office occupies space on the third, fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and 17th floors of the Mart and has recently taken warehouse space in the Nash building, 236 East 24th street, for its publicity division which will store war bond sales literature there.

Thompson, who started with the treasury department in 1937, is one of the youngest government executives in the country. He is a graduate of Stanford university and studied two years in the Harvard university school of public administration. He lives at 531 Grove street, Evanston.

2 POLICE FACE EXTORTION PLOT CHARGES TODAY

Edward Walsh and Walter Wagner, suspended Summerdale district policemen, will be arraigned today in Felony court on charges of conspiracy to extort money. Walsh and Wagner were arrested Tuesday in a tavern at 3959 South Kedzie avenue after they took $5 from a tavern keeper whom they accused of having sold liquor to a minor.

Walsh, 43 years old, who lives at 6257 North Francisco avenue, and Wagner, 49, of 2520 Leland avenue, were held yesterday in the Brighton Park station while their counsel tried to arrange bail.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

(THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by M. Bradford, 6146 Kenwood avenue.)

THE QUESTION.

Did you ever have a neighbor you thought was a little too nervy about borrowing things?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Darl B. Turnbull, commercial artist, 1710 North New England avenue—We used to have a neighbor who always chose our busiest weekends to stuff our refrigerator with a couple of cold storage chickens. He made a habit of leaving them there for two or three days, crowding our food out of our own box.

F. W. Checkal, trichologist, 4510 North Ashland avenue—One of my office neighbors made a habit of borrowing my fountain pen. I didn't mind that, but when he returned it it was always filled with lavendar, green, or red ink instead of the conventional black which I used.

Mary Margaret Shockey, Chesterton, Ind.—Our neighbors owned a big car and always kept it in the garage. We had a smaller car and usually parked it in front of the house. We thought it was pretty nervy when they'd ask if they could "run our car downtown" because it was such a nuisance to back theirs out of the garage.

Edwin Sutton, stock boy, 1020 Gunderson avenue, Oak Park—Our former neighbors said they'd much rather go out and buy what they needed instead of borrowing little things. That's what they did, too, but they borrowed a dime or a quarter so they could. The worst of it was they were poor bookkeepers.

Mrs. Jeanette Mendoza, housewife, 836 Lytle street—One of my neighbors once said she liked to do her own sewing with a little help from some one more experienced. I didn't mind giving her help, but I always found myself left with the whole job.

Joseph Webb, attorney, 8004 Blackstone avenue—It's all right with me if people want to use the tools in my workshop, but it's more than I can bear when they forget to return them. I loaned a brand new brace and bit a month ago and I forgot to whom. He evidently forgot it too, because I haven't seen it since.

PLANES COLLIDE IN FORMATION; 2 ARMY PILOTS DIE

St. Petersburg, Fla., Sept. 10 (AP).—Two army pilots were killed today when their planes, part of a formation of five pursuit ships, collided over Clearwater Beach and crashed.

Witnesses saw one pilot bail out with his parachute, and it was believed he was safe, but rescue boats found him dead in Clearwater bay.

The second pilot was found dead in the cockpit of his wrecked ship on Honeymoon Island. There was no announcement as to the identity of the flyers or the field from which they came.

'DICTATOR' POLL ENDS TALMADGE RULE IN GEORGIA

Arnall Handshaking Wins Over 'Race' Issue.

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, turn to page 37 in the Want Ad section for the correct answers, and mark your score:

2. In the United States, maize, the cereal grass, is usually called [a] Barley. [b] Wheat. [c] Corn.
3. What is a scalene triangle?
4. What is the chief clerk on a passenger ship called?
   [a] Boatswain. [b] Purser. [c] First mate.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 10 (AP).—Vigorous, affable Ellis Gibbs Arnall, who campaigned for 10 months on a pledge to "destroy dictatorship" in Georgia, tonight apparently had dealt red gallused Eugene Talmadge a political knockout in their bitter ballot battle for the state's Democratic governorship nomination, equivalent to election in this state.

The 35 year old attorney general, conductor of the most extensive handshaking campaign Georgia has known, steadily increased his lead over the veteran and colorful Talmadge, as belated and unofficial returns came in from yesterday's primary. The 57 year old governor refused to concede defeat and had no comment.

Talmadge had staked his bid for reëlection that would have given him a record 10 years in the gubernatorial seat on the issues of "white supremacy, state's rights, local self government, and old time religion."

Branded Race Issue "Fake."

Arnall, married and the father of one son, belittled the racial issue by insisting it was a "fake," and today emphatically claimed victory for "good government."

In the latest, unofficial tabulation of votes, Arnall had won 81 counties, with a total unit vote of 241, 35 more than necessary for nomination. Talmadge had won 49 counties, with 109 unit votes. Arnall had a wide margin in the popular vote.

Arnall got his first taste of politics at the age of 12 when he served as a page in the Alabama legislature while on a visit to his grandfather. Thirteen years later, after his graduation from the University of Georgia law school with first honors, he was elected to the Georgia legislature as the representative from Coweta county. In this race, in 1932, his first for a political office, he outdistanced four opponents by receiving all except 370 of the 3,046 votes cast.

Served as Speaker.

Arnall served as speaker pro tem at the 1933 and '35 sessions of the general assembly. Former Gov. E. D. Rivers appointed him an assistant attorney general in 1937 and attorney general in 1939, when he was 31 years old. Two years ago he was elected attorney general without opposition.

Born March 20, 1907, in Newnan, Arnall is the son of Joe G. and Bessie Ellis Arnall. After attending the Newnan public schools, he studied at Mercer university and was graduated from the University of the South [Sewanee] in 1928.

He became president of the Georgia Junior Chamber of Commerce and in 1935 the United States Chamber of Commerce awarded him a medal for service to the state. He lives in Newnan and commutes to the capitol. Frequently he hitchhikes a ride from his home to his Atlanta office.

Five feet, six inches tall and weighing 190 pounds, Arnall once said, "I never have wanted anything I haven't got, but I have sense enough to know what I can't get. It's just a question of attitude and wanting something badly enough."

MARTIN PREDICTS GAINS BY G. O. P. IN BOTH HOUSES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—House Minority Leader Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican National committee, expressed confidence today that the Republican party will make "very substantial gains" in both the house and senate in the November elections.

Specifically, Martin declared himself "particularly pleased" with the prospects that the big states of Massachusetts, California, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Ohio will send Republican delegations to congress.

"And don't mistake me," Martin said, "that's not all we're claiming."

He attributed his forecast of increased Republican strength in congress to what he called "a general feeling thruout the country that the war effort in Washington isn't being run as efficiently as it might be."

Oldest Active U. S. Soldier Becomes Bridegroom at 73

Long Beach, Cal., Sept. 10 (AP).—The army's oldest soldier on active duty, Staff Sergt. John W. Westervelt, 73 years old, today became the army's oldest bridegroom. He was married to Mrs. Leota Harrison, 54, Kalamazoo, Mich., after a long courtship. The sergeant was given a brief furlough for a honeymoon. He has a 52 year old son by a previous marriage,

SUBWAY DESIGN CHANGES SAVING WAR MATERIALS

Wood, Marble, Plastics Among Substitutions.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Changes in the original design for Chicago's 8¾ mile subway system have eliminated 2,732,00 pounds, or 21 per cent, of the critical war materials formerly specified for the project, Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, has disclosed.

Harrington said 12 war materials were involved in the reductions. Heading the list is steel, of which 1,330,000 pounds were eliminated largely thru substitution of other noncritical materials.

Cut Use of Aluminum.

Thru the substitution of marble for station columns and decorative work in the tunnel, 490,000 pounds of aluminum and 350,000 pounds of stainless steel were eliminated, Harrington said.

Brass or bronze totaling 48,000 pounds was eliminated by using plastic floor strips and cutting out all nonessential bronze in hardware fixtures. Ornamental iron work to the extent of 24,000 pounds was ruled out.

Other materials eliminated and the amounts in pounds are: Bakelite, 5,500; cast iron, 426,000; copper, 26,000; jute, 31,000; lead, 8,500; tin, 2,000; zinc, 13,000; and rubber, 2,000.

Harrington said the State street subway, running 4½ miles from Clybourn avenue and Willow streets to 14th and State streets, is expected to be ready for operation by Feb. 1.

"L" Cars Are Equipped.

The major work still to be done on the State street project is the completion of inclined connections with the elevated structure at the north and south ends of the tube, Harrington said. This work is in progress.

The elevated lines have equipped the 455 all-steel "L" cars with special braking devices and emergency batteries for operation in the State street tubes. No new subway cars will be available because of the war, Harrington explained.

The Dearborn street subway, which is 4¼ miles long and on which $16,881,833 has been spent for construction, will not be completed until after the war because of priorities difficulties, Harrington said.

W-G-N FEATURES ARMY, NAVY ON PROGRAMS TODAY

Several unusual news interview programs have been arranged by W-G-N for today. At 8 a. m. Holland Engle will interview William Cullerton, army aviation cadet, who will act as Chicago's mayor for today.

At 12:20 p. m. on the Women for Victory program Mary Afflick will present Lieut. Comm. David N. Goldenson of the navy recruiting service, who will describe details of the "V" letter service thru which messages from home are sent to the AEF on microfilm.

On W-G-N's news period at 1:45 p. m. John Holbrook will interview Lieut. Palma Peterson, who posed for the painting of an army nurse which appears in color on the back page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for today.

Marion Claire, star of W-G-N's America Loves a Melody series, aired Saturday evenings, will play a prominent part in the Passavant hospital benefit to be held at the opening Monday night of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus in the arena south of Soldiers' field. Miss Claire will join John Charles Thomas, the noted baritone, in adding a classical touch to the bill of entertainment. BETTE BRUNK.

Jo-Carroll Dennison.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 10 (AP).—Jo-Carroll Dennison of Tyler, Tex., won tonight's preliminary talent contest in the Miss America pageant.

Forty-two hundred spectators, including several hundred members of the army air forces stationed here, whistled and stomped their feet as the brown haired, green eyed "Miss Texas" sang lustily in a cowboy suit, swinging a sombrero around her head. She sang "Deep in the Heart of Texas," of course. On Saturday night the judges will pick a new Miss America to succeed Rosemary La Planche of Los Angeles, Cal.

"Miss Chicago," Bette Brunk, 18, won tonight's contest among 10 girls for appearance in bathing suit. She has blonde hair and gray-green eyes, weighs 123 pounds, and is 5 feet 5 inches tall.

Apple-Peanut Crumble for Dessert

Apple desserts should receive a lot of attention these days, for those ripe, juicy apples are plentiful and inexpensive. To make this delicious apple-peanut crumble, slice 6 pared apples into a shallow, buttered baking dish. Mix ½ cup sugar with ½ cup flour and ¾ teaspoon salt. Cut in 3 tablespoons peanut butter and 3 tablespoons butter until thoroly mixed. Sprinkle evenly over the apples and bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes or until apples are tender. Serve warm with cream or foamy sauce.

One for Avocado Fans.

Try a half avocado, just ripe for eating, served with lemon and chili French dressing for a simple, effective salad. Any crisp greens will do.

TRY MOLASSES COOKIES ON YOUR BIG BAKING DAY

Remember those baking sprees when grandma used to turn out dozens of rich molasses cookies? Well, those spicy, dark brown cookies aren't out of date and they won't be as long as there's a cookie jar to fill.

Old Fashioned Molasses Cookies.

[Four dozen small cookies.]

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup dark molasses
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 3 cups enriched flour, sifted
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cream butter until soft; add molasses and well beaten egg, stirring well. Sift flour, measure; sift with other dry ingredients. Add flour gradually to butter mixture. Add lemon juice. Chill dough in refrigerator until firm. Roll out on slightly floured board to ⅛ inch in thickness. Cut with floured cookie cutter and bake on buttered cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, for 8 to 12 minutes.

SHRIMP LOVERS WILL POUNCE ON MOLDED SALAD

Here's an Economical Picnic Bowl.

Try a sparkling, molded shrimp salad ring filled with sliced cucumbers in sour cream dressing for the mainstay of the company luncheon, or serve a hearty picnic salad bowl when leftover vegetables begin to accumulate. Remember that lettuce isn't the only crisp salad green available—a bed of escarole, romaine, watercress, chicory or endive, or a combination of these greens can be most attractive. And it may be less expensive than the more commonly used head of lettuce.

Jellied Shrimp Mold.

[Serves six.]

- 2 tablespoons plain unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 2 cans condensed tomato soup
- 1 cup boiling water
- ½ pound canned or cooked shrimps
- ½ cup diced celery
- 12 stuffed olives, sliced

Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat soup with boiling water, remove from heat, add softened gelatin, and stir until dissolved. Chill. Arrange shrimps and sliced olives alternately in ring mold. Carefully add a little of the gelatin mixture, and chill until partially set. Add diced celery to slightly thickened gelatin and pour into ring mold. Chill until firm and turn out on salad plate garnished with crisp greens. Fill the center with sliced cucumbers mixed with sour cream dressing.

Sour Cream Dressing.

- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon paprika
- 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
- ½ cup sour cream
- 1 tablespoon chopped chives or minced onion

Mix seasonings, add vinegar, and stir until well blended. Add cream and beat until mixture thickens. Add chives or onion.

Picnic Salad Bowl.

[Serves six.]

- 1 cup cold cooked peas
- ½ cup diced cooked carrots
- ½ cup sliced cucumbers
- ¼ cup diced celery
- 2 hard cooked eggs, sliced
- 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- ⅓ cup mayonnaise or boiled dressing
- 2 tablespoons French dressing
- Strips of cooked tongue or ham

Combine cooked peas with diced vegetables, hard cooked eggs, chopped pickle and onion, and sprinkle with seasonings. Toss lightly and mix with combined mayonnaise and French dressing. Turn into salad bowl which has been lined with crisp greens and garnish with strips of tongue or ham.

Pears Taste Best When Served Thoroly Ripened

If fresh pears are thoroly ripe when purchased, store them in the refrigerator until ready to serve. If they are hard, let them stand at ordinary room temperature from three to five days, or until the flesh of the pear will yield to gentle pressure of the hand. At this stage, the pears may be chilled until serving time.

The Only Bread With "PATENTED FLAVOR" Is New Wonder Bread

Because It Is The Only Bread Made This Way From Earle Patented Process Flour

(U. S. Pat. Nos. 2143306, 2232697, 2155219, 2232696)

Women Everywhere Quitting Ordinary Bread For It At The Rate Of 5,000 A Week Now

Takes The Place Of Any White Bread Deficient In Natural Flavor, Vitamins And Minerals Because It Contains More Natural Flavor, Wheat Vitamins And Minerals

THIS is published to clear up any confusion in the public mind about this amazing, new "patented flavor" bread. Which has already taken the place of ordinary white bread in over 540,000 American homes. For these two reasons:

1. Because it brings more of the rich, natural flavor of wheat full-ripened in the sun than white bread robbed of Nature's bounty. Thus, is better for taste.
2. Because it contains more natural vitamins and minerals of wheat now than ever before thought possible.

You can see the difference at once. Gone is the chalk-white look of the ordinary baker's bread. Instead, this new "patented flavor" kind has the color of cream on milk.

A Remarkable Discovery

Everybody knows the trouble with ordinary white bread. Made from flour bled white in refining to make a whiter loaf. Then Theodore Earle patented his discovery (U. S. Pat. Nos. 2143306, 2232697, 2155219, 2232696). And here is the secret of "patented flavor."

By removing the bad-tasting outer skin of the grain, you get this richer, better tasting loaf. A bread the color of cream; tender in texture and crust. And with more natural vitamins and minerals of the wheat.

To obtain this amazing new "patented flavor" loaf—ask your grocer for the new Wonder Bread. And see for yourself why women everywhere are quitting ordinary white bread for this remarkable new kind at the rate of over 5,000 a week now.

A Great Thrill

Most people are astonished and thrilled by their first taste of this new "patented flavor" Wonder Bread. Not the flat, insipid flavor of the usual chalk-white kind. But refreshingly different! Like the taste of fresh fruit after canned. You'll say it's marvelous!

But discover for yourself how much better this new "patented flavor" kind of Wonder Bread tastes. Mothers of growing children and wives of men who work should serve it instead of any ordinary vitamin-deficient kind.

Then, too, this new "patented flavor" Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it. Because slo-baked for lasting freshness — baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds.

Ask your grocer for the bread with "patented flavor"—the new Wonder Bread—today sure. You, too, will be delighted with it.

New Fall Hats Go High, Wide and Handsome

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Higher, wider, and sometimes handsomer hats are popping up all over New York this week—both in fashion shows and on heads.

Obviously, this fall is destined to be the heyday of hats.

It's because hats, almost alone in the fashion world, are free to follow their wildest fancies without government interference. They alone are priority free. Felt and feathers are of no use whatever to the armament makers, it seems.

With dresses restricted as to length and width, with all the women out buying practical little black frocks and workaday little wool suits, hats are the chief upholders of feminine frivolity.

The milliners, who had quite a time awhile back combating the hatless trend, now are jubilant. The millinery stabilization commission, representing hat manufacturers, anticipates a 20 per cent increase in fall hat sales.

As one maker of frothy top pieces, says, "if a woman wishes to be dressed, instead of merely covered, she must come to us for help now."

Helpfully this maker offers a hat called plum crazy. Oddly enough, it is plum colored, covers one eye, and has feathers and a tattoo veil.

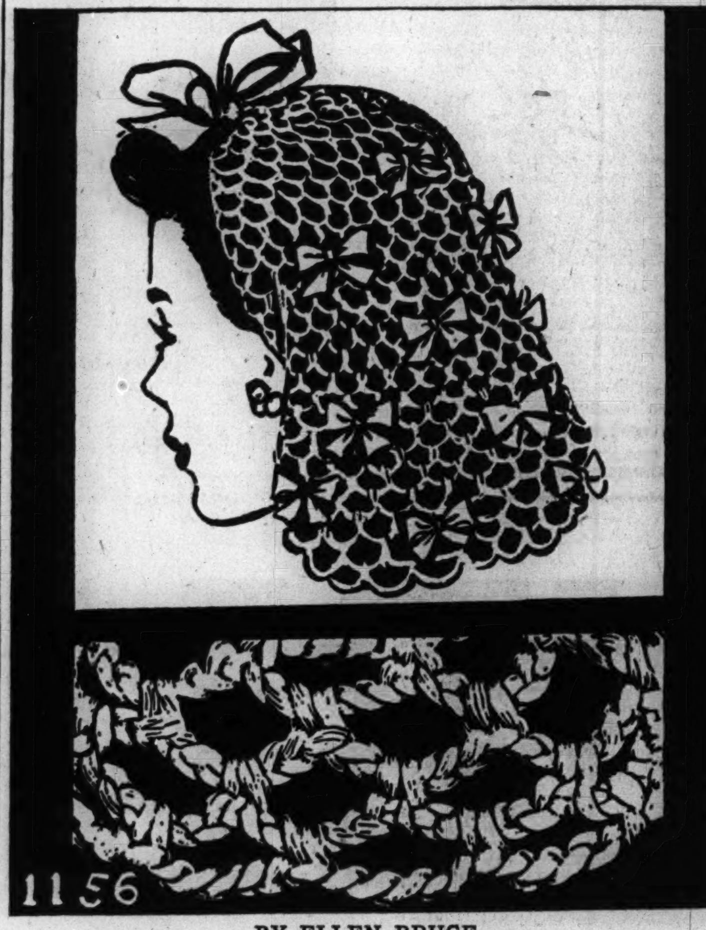
The products of still other designers include enormous head-swathing nun-coifs of brilliant felt and umbrella size berets with an over the forehead V-dip.

Unanimously all the milliners declare, "the day of postage stamp hats is gone forever. No longer can you buy a flower at the dime store and call it a hat."

Crocheted Ribbon Snood



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This is the season when one doesn't care to go without a hat yet can't decide which style is becoming to her type. Why not crochet one of the ribbon snoods, which boast a fascinating bow at the top center front, and matching bows scattered thruout the crocheted snood? They are simple to make and attaching the ribbons is no problem.

For instructions in crocheting the ribbon snood, No. 1156, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Glenn Miller, Swing Band Leader, Now Army Captain

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Glenn Miller wound up a meteoric four year career as one of the nation's top swing band leaders today by accepting a commission as captain in the army specialist corps. His press representatives announced that the orchestra, which they said grossed a million dollars last year, will be disbanded. The 38 year old musician is a native of Clarinda, Ia.

On the House

In converting basement spaces to livable rooms for sundry house needs it is not necessary to conceal piping if costs must be kept down. . . . Pipe may be cleaned of rust with wire brushes, or chemicals for removing rust, and then painted. . . . If one prefers to conceal them, pipes along the ceiling may be boxed in or the ceiling may be dropped to conceal them. . . . As for vertical pipes, it is always possible to inclose them in a cabinet or build lattice work around them, painting the lattice work to harmonize with the room treatment.

Casual Coats Favorites with Career Girls

BY REA SEEGER.

Casual topcoats are more in demand than ever before. Wartime wardrobes for the career girls are not complete without classic all-purpose coats to wear from dawn till dark. This fall it is the smart chesterfield designs that are favorites of many shoppers. Dull, black wool models with velvet collars, some with velvet cuffs, are cut in the true chesterfield manner. They have suave details, wide, handsome shoulders, easy to slide into sleeves, deep pockets, and fit snug thruout.

These coats may be worn over suits, dresses, and with dress parade clothes such as cocktail costumes. They also may be worn with the new short dinner clothes and evening party gowns. Because they're black, unostentatious, and smart, as only such dull black affairs can be, they are very popular.

If the chesterfield models don't complete your wardrobe consider the bright red coats cut in straight lines and the caramel beige designs made of soft, fleecy woolens. The rather new coats made of the new fabric Aralec, a byproduct of milk, also might interest you. Many of the smartest coats are finds at small prices. Many are furless and lots of them can easily go dress parade with a fur scarf or two and are even more dressy with a fur scarf and matching muff.

Dark colored coats in midnight blue, brown, and black, usually in form fitting silhouette, make ideal foundation coats ready for immediate wear without furs and later with furs. Price marks on the first models for fall are unexpectedly low. There was one model in flattering brown wool that had a four skin fur scarf attached that was exceptionally low priced.

Jewish Rites to Mark Start of Year 5,703

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Twilight tonight, marking the beginning of the Jewish year 5,703, will see Chicago's synagogues crowded with worshippers for the traditional rites of Rosh Hashana. This holy day, marking "the head of the year," is described as being the most meaningful in the calendar of Judaism.

While the observance grew from ancient agricultural ceremonies, it evolved over the years to anticipate and include many religious elements of the Christian season of Lent with its emphasis on self-examination and judgment. Altho the dietary regulations of the Sabbath are observed, for the Sabbath begins tonight, yet symbolic customs heighten the observance in homes.

These customs, almost universally observed among the Jews, include the recital of the kiddush or sanctification prayers, and the kindling of the festive lights. A piece of sweet apple is dipped in honey during the eve of the holiday with the person performing the ritual saying, "May it be God's wish to grant us a good and sweet year." Bread is dipped in honey also in the hope that as the bread is sweet, so will be the experiences of the new year.

On the second night members of the family taste some kind of fruit which has not been eaten during the year while an appropriate benediction is uttered. Along with the solemnity of Rosh Hashana there are joyful notes. It is a time for the exchange of greetings and for the pardoning of grievances among neighbors.

Together with the devout practice of self-examination, when the individual strikes a balance between his misdeeds and his probity and his resolve to abstain from his wrongs of the last year, is the binding more closely of family ties.

The holidays open a period of repentance which culminates in the day of atonement, or Yom Kippur.

In the synagogue the blowing of the ram's horn is a dramatic feature of the devotions. This horn, or shofar, is blown in token of the summons of all creation to appear before the Creator for judgment.

Enlistment of women in the noncommissioned ranks of the WAVES will begin during the latter part of next week, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. Mary Daily of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, with headquarters in the Board of Trade building.

Applications for the class, which is known as V-10, are being received now, Lieut. Daily said, but will not be acted upon until the officer complement is filled. North Shore Clubs Aiding with Dahlia Show in Winnetka

A number of north shore garden clubs are taking part in the Dahlia show to be held on Sept. 19 and 20 at the Winnetka community house, sponsored by the American Gardeners association. The various clubs will show table settings, among them the Winnetka Garden club, the Winnetka Weeders, the Garden department of the Winnetka Woman's club, the Woodley Road Garden club, the Glencoe Garden club, and the Kenilworth and Ravinia Garden clubs. Thru the Looking Glass

The present day concept of feminine beauty is quite different from that of a few years ago. There is tremendous emphasis on simple cleanliness and good health. Clear, fresh looking skin is rated above the most chic of stylized makeups and the shining cleanliness of hair counts for far more in a woman's beauty score than the way it is dressed. Fastidiousness and perfect grooming—that brushed, spic and span look—make plain clothes royal raiment.

It's no longer fashionable to look pale and wan and bored with it all. Healthy vitality rates high. It seems that in the popular conception of what constitutes good looks we're happily getting back to basic things.

Nowadays women are quite frankly styling themselves to please men and they're watching their budgets while they do it. Simple clothes, very clean, and with feminine touches . . . simple, artful makeups over clear, healthy skin . . . hair that gleams and is arranged without fussiness. It all comes back to cleanliness.

Scrubbing is the most important ritual in keeping skin healthy and glowing; scrubbing—given just before it needs it—is the thing that keeps scalps healthy and hair gleaming. Scrubbing of your own person is the secret of daintiness. The silly season of mud packs and the mad pursuit of purely superficial glamor is over; this is a season of baths and more baths, and clothes brushing and hair brushing.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Tragedy in the Office.

Then there was Suzie — "our Suzie," as D. M. Seaberg designates her. She was putting something away in the bottom drawer of the files when suddenly she jumped up with a look of acute distress . . . . tears in her eyes and all that sort of thing.

The men stopped working. The chief came running out of his private office saying, "Good heavens, girl, what's the matter?" The The other office workers clustered 'round.

Susie sat down and finally found her quavering voice: "I've got a run in my last pair of Nylons and they cost $3.50 a pair," she said.

"Suzie," writes D. M. Seaberg, "is now definitely in favor of business girls wearing neat slacks and socks [plus sensible shoes] to the office."

What to Do in Chicago.

Many letters have come to this column from girls a bit on the lonely side. What to do this fall and winter? What new interests? What little "props" to help the busy-by-day girl thru these difficult wartimes?

A large city, like Chicago, offers many avenues of interest. No one column could enumerate them all. But here are a few suggestions:

Why not take a Red Cross course in nutrition? There is one beginning on Tuesday, Sept. 15, at 6:30 o'clock in the evening, in Room 405, at 529 South Wabash avenue; another begins Sept. 17, at 6:30, at the same address. The cost is $1 for eight classes, which meet once a week for two-half hours.

Why not attend the delightful "Adventures in the Arts" series of free lectures in Fullerton hall, at the Art institute, on Thursday evenings at 6:30 o'clock, beginning Oct. 1? The gifted and much loved Helen Parker conducts the classes. She conducts a Tuesday evening class once a week, 12 lectures for $5, on "American Art Heritage."

Why not offer your services at the Service Men's center, 176 West Washington street? If the list of workers is full, you can register with Miss Kay Nelson at the center for future service.

Or, why not register for the next Travelers Aid group of trainees for information booths in railroad stations [to help service men]. The address is 608 South Dearborn street.

Why not make it a point to attend the noon hour book talks at the Public Library [at 12:15]? Or the Saturday afternoon concerts of recorded music at the main library, which will start later in the fall? Or why not join one of the discussion groups in your local public library? You'd be surprised how interesting things are available.

Why not get in touch with Mrs. Martha White, who is in charge of the education workship [where you can pursue any number of interesting hobbies] at the YWCA? Or write to Miss Lenore Pennington at the YWCA [59 East Monroe street]? Never before have so many inviting, tempting things been offered to the business girl as this fall and winter in the program for "Women at Work and Play."

Why not plan to go to the symphony regularly? The climb to the gallery is wonderful to your figure!

Why not subscribe to the "History and Enjoyment of Music Concert Series" at the Civic Opera House, beginning Nov. 8?

Why not?

Private Schools Are Adapting Programs to Wartime Needs

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE dear old golden rule days that are about to start for Chicago's youngest generation have had a good overhauling this summer. The need for new classes to prepare young people for the war effort was uppermost in the minds of members of private school faculties while on vacation, and many schools, like the Francis W. Parker school, have been receiving suggestions all summer long from teachers with progressive ideas.

The exact changes the Parker school will make won't be decided until a faculty meeting the night before school opens, next Wednesday. The science work is to be expanded, however, and will be taught in new quarters. The school's new building, in which the kindergarten and first three grades will be located, has been completed and will be put in use next week, but its dedication is being postponed until October, so that parents of all pupils surely will be back from summer holidays to participate in the event.

The Harris schools will offer a preflight aeronautics course and basic military training to the boys of the upper school. The girls will have first aid and nutrition courses. The boys of the lower school will have elementary airplane work, and lower school girls will do work for convalescent soldiers thru the Red Cross, making table mats and writing portfolios and other cheering items. The Harris schools open next Wednesday.

Offer Automotive Course at Latin School for Boys.

Automotive engineering and mechanical drawing are to be part of the high school students' work at the Latin School for Boys, which opens on Sept. 22. The kindergarten will open on the 28th. Science and mathematics will receive special emphasis at the Girls' Latin school, which opens on Wednesday for classes from the fifth grade up. The kindergarten and lower classes will open on the 21st.

The Girls' Latin is introducing some new history courses, including Asiatic cultures, and classes in elementary economics, in the belief that the more training the students are given now the more useful they will be in the future when this generation takes hold. Some of the children who will be off to school for the first time this fall as pupils of the Girls' Latin kindergarten are "Wiggy" Farnham, the Wells Farnhams' young son; Carol Dunham, Peter Van Alyea, and Mrs. Rebori Frothingham's children, Betsy and Nat. The North Shore Country Day school also will have some new classes with bearing on the war effort. The school will stress scientific studies for the boys and first aid classes for its girl students.

Junior Eugene McDonalds Lease Home in Winnetka.

Commander and Mrs. Eugene McDonald Jr. have become landlocked at last. Having spent the greater part of their married life on board their yacht, the Mizpah, which was sold to the government last spring, the McDonalds and their children are to become suburbanites. They have leased for one year the beautiful French provincial home of Mrs. George B. Everitt in Winnetka.

Mrs. Everitt's home, one of the loveliest in that area, will be the scene of one last young people's gathering on Sunday, when Miss Mary Lois Everitt, who is a debutante this year, gives a farewell party for her brother, Ensign George B. Everitt, who leaves next Tuesday for further naval training at Dartmouth. Miss Everitt will study at Northwestern university this year, and her mother will be at the Homestead in Evanston just for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Metzman of Chicago gave a reception in New York recently to announce the engagement of Mrs. Metzman's daughter, Miss Nancy Marie Hutchinson, to Arthur James Pegler II., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Pegler of South Salem, Conn., and Tuckahoe, N. Y., formerly of Chicago. Miss Hutchinson, whose father was the late William S. Hutchinson, is a granddaughter of Capt. and Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson of Lakewood, O. She is a graduate of Miss Hall's school and now is attending Pine Manor Junior college.

Mr. Pegler is a graduate of the Taft school and now is at Dartmouth, where he is a seaman first class in the V-7 program of the navy. Mr. and Mrs. Metzman, who have been living here for three years, are in the

Noted Canvas At Congress Brings $3,000

The Congress hotel's most famous painting, once insured for $50,000, was sold for $3,000 yesterday as the three day auction of the hotel's furnishings ended.

The painting, "Admiration," by W. Bouguereau, was purchased by Mort D. Goldberg, 3270 Lake Shore drive, an attorney. He is a former resident of the Congress. Goldberg said he will enter the army soon, and will store the painting.

The picture, which won first prize at the Paris Salon in 1885, had hung in the hotel lobby more than 30 years, officials of the Michigan-Congress corporation, which operated the hotel, said.

The next highest price for the famous paintings sold was $850 paid by Buford Russell for "Blind Man's Buff," by G. Achille-Fould. An unsuccessful bidder was Walter A. Schmidt, Los Angeles, who said he made a special trip in an attempt to purchase it because it resembled his wife.

Thousands of dollars worth of draperies, carpets, and finer furniture also went under the auctioneer's hammer yesterday.

Auctioneers said a widely known Chicagoan, who refused to permit his identity to be revealed, paid $100 for a number of the hotel's marble pillars, weighing several thousand pounds each. Auctioneers said he plans to give them to the city for an unknown soldier monument. They said moving the pillars from the building will cost several thousand dollars.

Goldberg bought the bar and draperies of the elaborate Glass Hat, formerly a cocktail lounge, for $750.

Auctioneers said the portion of the hotel's furnishings sold publicly had brought at least $150,000, and that the figure might exceed $200,000. Definite results had not been tabulated.

Proceeds will be held in escrow to be divided among interested parties.

While on a recent holiday in Canada, Mrs. Arthur Cutten had occasion to visit the cemetery in a small town near Niagara Falls. In one of the plots were three tombstones, and on the center one this inscription: "Here I lie between two of the best women in the world, my wives. But I have requested my relatives to tip me a little toward Tillie."

Tin Can Campaign.

The tin cans stood in little piles
Before each home for miles and miles.
The trucks were coming on that day
To cart the salvaged tin away.
Some heaps were large and some were small,
But the very biggest stack of all
Was one in front of a new white house.
This pile of cans was six feet high;
A young bride lives there, so that is why.

"Darling: I am slightly dizzy. I've spent two days—after work—playing checkers with the furniture. Have read household magazines with avidity [that's my new word for this week—like it?], but the beautiful pictures never seem to be taken with my possessions in mind. . . . Did I ever tell you that all my figurines are named? I tried to separate Babette and Pierre for a very swank arrangement, but they looked too sad. . . . I think I have too many ash trays. They are all my favorites, except the deep blue one, which must have been bought with a cigar or pipe in mind, but I don't use either. I like the fragrance of cigar smoke, tho. . . . I still haven't found just the right wall paper for the front hall. When I feel gay and frivolous I think that scattering huge red cabbage roses on all that flat whiteness would be just right. But in my more sober moments I think a more conventional design—perhaps just on the door panels—would be more dignified. But I never seem to stay in one mood very long. In moving the lamps I've achieved a complicated wiring arrangement. Why did I never take up electrical wiring? I think that problem is typical of all our lives. We arrange the lamps to fit the wall plugs rather than fitting our lives to our activities, or is it the other way 'round? Involved, isn't it? As ever. Me.".

Women in War Work . . . . By India Moffett

"A Knitter" writes:

"I understand the Red Cross no longer awards a pin, due to metal shortage, after one has accumulated the number of hours necessary by knitting. I have acquired the necessary hours for a pin and, like many others, have been greatly disappointed in not obtaining one.

"Many of us are unable to serve our government in other capacities. We knitted without complaining the 72 inch mufflers when the call arose for 17,000 of them by August 15. I do not intend to quit knitting, but somehow there is no goal to reach. Pins are being purchased for other nondescript accomplishments."

It is surely a tribute to the integrity and worthiness of an organization when a tiny pin can mean so much. We sympathize with the disappointment of "A Knitter," but that very disappointment is also translated into patriotic service. This may be interpreted from the statement of Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the Red Cross Volunteer Production corps. It follows:

"Due to the shortage of metals which will take enamel, the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross has been unable to fill requests of women who have earned production pins.

"Every month the chapter receives a few pins, and these are given out in order of registration for same. The last ones that came in were sent to our two depots [North Shore and Hinsdale] for distribution as they had had none previously. We are still hopeful that our orders may be filled, but it will take time. Meanwhile we are working on a plastic."

Twenty-two young women who have completed their first three weeks of training at St. Luke's hospital as Red Cross nurses' aids will receive their caps this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The capping ceremony for nurses' aids was inaugurated a couple of weeks ago at the Evanston hospital, with the chairman, Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, officiating. Registration for nurses' aids is going on daily at the new Red Cross headquarters, 529 South Wabash avenue.

This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Chicago Historical society more than 400 Red Cross home nursing chairmen and nurse-instructors from Chicago and suburban towns will meet to learn the details of classes to be held in their areas. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, home nursing chairman for the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, will preside, and the speakers will be Walter Roy, liaison officer of the Office of Civilian Defense; Mrs. James A. Cathcart, chairman of volunteer special services of the Chicago chapter, and Mrs. Estelle Weltman Blatt, R. N., home nursing director of the chapter.

Thirteen classes in home nursing will open next week in room 404 at the Red Cross headquarters. The public is invited to join the classes, which will be held for two and a half hours once a week for 10 weeks. A graduate nurse who has completed training as an instructor in home nursing will instruct. Registration for all classes is now open.

Twenty-eight of the 56 students who today will complete a government sponsored course in topographic map drafting at the University of Chicago are women. These women will qualify under civil service examinations as junior engineering draftsmen, with annual salaries beginning at $1,440. Because women cartographers are needed so badly to replace men going into active service, women will be given preference in two free courses in mapping which will be repeated at the university in the autumn quarter.

Both courses—one in topographic map drafting and one in photogrammetry—will start Sept. 28. To enter the topographic map drafting course an applicant must be a high school graduate, and to enter the other one she must have had two years of college training, with major study in engineering, architecture, physics, chemistry, mathematics, forestry, or geology; or two years of civil engineering experience, or three and one-half years of college with trigonometry and mechanical drawing.

Both courses will take 12 weeks, with classes five days a week. Interviews for admission will be held Thursday and Friday, Sept. 24 and 25, from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening, and on Saturday, Sept. 26, from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The interviews will be held in room 2, Rosenwald hall, 58th street west of University avenue.

200 Army Nurses to Be Entertained in Chicago Today

Two hundred officers of the army nurse corps will be guests of the city today as Chicago celebrates its Army Nurse day.

Mrs. Dwight H. Green, wife of Gov. Green, will be hostess to the nurses at a luncheon today in the Hotel La Salle. The American Legion and World War nurses will entertain them at a dinner this evening in the Hotel Sherman. The nurses will be guests tonight of Miss Jeannette McDonald, screen and radio songstress, at a concert she will give in the Civic Opera building to benefit Army Emergency relief.

Several radio appearances have been scheduled for the nurses thruout the day, and 50 of them will participate in the army and navy production award ceremonies this afternoon at the Bauer & Black division of the Kendall company. Guests will include nursing corps officers from posts thruout the 6th service command.

SYNOPSIS.

Covering the Spanish civil war, James Milcom, English journalist with Loyalist sympathies, meets Raquel, the Condesa de Verdura, in Madrid, seeking food for her starving child. James befriends her, but the child dies. He then helps her escape into France to a frontier hotel where her sister, Olivia, is staying. Rosemary Oldhead, a young English girl, is vacationing at the same hotel wth her parents. Rosemary has made friends with a number of newspaper men including: Crumpaun, Hever, Crossman, and Carrow. Thru them she meets James and Raquel and falls in love with James even tho she knows he loves Raquel. James and Raquel acknowledge their love before he returns to Spain. Raquel asks him to visit her husband, Pascual, who is in prison, and to try to get news of her brother, Juanito. James finds Pascual, once notorious for his infidelities, a greatly changed man, who has repented of his past sins and is almost a saint now. He also learns that Juanito and Olivia are White spies. In the meantime, Rosemary's father, a Loyalist sympathizer, has unwittingly taken pictures of a frontier pass used by the White organization. Rosemary learns that the Whites have stolen copies of the pictures and when she finally tells her father, he reports the theft and the pass is closed. Later, Rosemary and her parents visit a cave under the frontier and she notices steps worn on a rock leading to the Spanish side. Outside the cave she meets an aristocratic young man in peasant's clothes and is suspicious that he is a spy. When James rejoins Raquel, she tells him she will be his. But in spite of his great love for her, James cannot bring himself to injure the man he knows Pascual has become. He refuses Raquel's love and tells her of her husband's change of heart, advising her to return to Pascual, whose prison release James has arranged. Heartbroken, she accepts his advice and goes to Paris to get a permit to return to Spain. After she leaves, Rosemary sees James, grief-stricken, walking alone on the beach. She goes to him and confesses her love for him. He considers her confession an adolescent impulse, but it soothes and distracts him. Mr. Oldhead reports the stone ladder in the frontier cave and it is closed. Rosemary encounters the aristocratic looking peasant she had previously met. He is talking to the man who stole her father's pictures.

MESSAGE.

Instantly, without a thought of the risk she might be running, Rosemary decided to intercept this aristocratic looking young man, whom she felt sure was a spy. She popped up over the wall, copybook and all, and sat down under the lee of one of the loose concrete blocks with which the wall was, one day, to be finished, but which now lay scattered by the shore track.

Opening her copybook on her knee, pencil in hand, she pretended to be absorbed in her work. If only he would come as far as where she sat!

He did. Slowly, moodily, dawdling along with many pauses, as if anxious to kill time, he was presently within about 50 yards of her. Crouched under her block, Rosemary's small figure was not very conspicuous—it was only then that he appeared to see her. When he did, once more that curious tenseness seemed to make all his body taut. He walked rapidly up to her. When he was quite close, he evidently recognized her, for his rather stern expression broke into a swift smile. But his eyes remained watchful.

"Bonjour, mademoiselle! We meet again!" he said.

"Mais oui, monsieur," Rosemary said, smiling too.

"May one ask from where you come?" he asked, and now his eyes were not only watchful, they were suspicious.

"I came down from the road," she said. "My father has gone to play golf at Chiberta—I shall join him for tea."

"Tiens," he said. "And you sit out in the cold, on such a day? For what?"

"I'm doing my Spanish," she said, still easily, altho by now his expression was beginning to frighten her a little—and she held out her copybook.

"Alors, you learn Spanish?" he said, taking it from her, with an air of casualness, and a faint smile—and as if in idle curiosity, he began to turn the leaves. As he did so, a remarkable change came over his face.

"Who wrote this?" he asked sharply, holding the cheap copybook out to her.

"My friend, the condesa de Verdura. She often sets me things. She makes them better, more colloquial than my teacher," she answered.

"Tiens," he said again, and sat down beside her under the block of concrete. "And since when is she your friend?" he asked.

"Since she came to S. Jean from Madrid. She is staying in our hotel. Why, do you know her?" the girl asked curiously.

An oddly wistful expression came over the man's fine face—he paused for a moment before replying.

"She is—a very old friend," he said slowly. He smiled, a sudden brilliant smile. "I am glad that she has found a friend in her exile. You like her?"

"I love her," the girl said eagerly. "I think everybody must. She is so beautiful and so sweet. I wish she were not going away."

"Is she going away?" he asked, casually—but his eyes were suddenly intent. The girl studied his face curiously—an idea, a suspicion, was beginning to form in her mind. This man had a delicate, high bridged nose, and those surprisingly blue-gray eyes under his black hair and brows. What was it Raquel had said about Juanito?—"Like me, and with blue eyes; but black hair."

But she remembered to go on playing her part.

"But yes—she is returning to Spain, to Burgos or to San Sebastian. He is released, you know—the conde, I mean."

"It is true? No, I did not know. Since when?"

"Since a few days. It is Mr. Milcom who has arranged all that—her friend—the one who brought her out from Madrid."

"Ah yes. And you know him also, this Milcom? What is he like?"

"He's a fascinating person," Rosemary said, thoughtfully. "Very clever, and good—and very sad, somehow. He's a journalist, of course." She smiled suddenly. "In Madrid they call him 'El Melancolico.'"

"Vraiment? And why?"

"His face—because he looks so gloomy. But he isn't gloomy in himself. Not always. I think it's that he sees the—the dreadfulness of things so clearly. He's—" she hesitated. "He's a pitying person," she finally brought out.

He bent dark brows upon her.

"You are a close observer," he said. "Is this Milcom also a friend of yours?"

A curious expression, brilliantly triumphant, came over the young girl's face.

"Yes," she said, ringingly. "Not so much as hers, of course—who would be? But we are friends."

He looked at her clear face, her fully candid expression, and smiled his sudden smile again.

"I should like to be your friend," he said. "Perhaps one day, after the war, I shall be. Meanwhile"—he stretched out his hand for her copybook. "May I begin by writing you a devoir in Spanish? If you cannot translate it, I am sure your friend the condesa de Verdura will help you. Perhaps you will show it to her?"

"Of course I will," the girl said a little breathlessly. Her heart was beginning to thump again. Was it? It must be. Incredible as it seemed, it must be. "Will it be very difficult?" she asked.

He looked up—he was already scribbling away on his knee.

"Fairly difficult," he smiled. "It is a story."

They sat for some minutes in silence, the man writing, the girl examining his face, bent over the book. In profile, the likeness to Raquel was really marked. No, there was no doubt at all in her mind. But, as usual, she decided to say nothing to him of her knowledge. Probably he guessed that she must guess, she thought, but considered that she was too young and insignificant to matter. Being young and insignificant was very convenient, and made life very amusing, Rosemary had long ago decided.

"Tenez," he said at last, handing back the book—"there you are. You must try to do it yourself first, and only when it is finished, show it to her. When will that be? Tomorrow?"

"I don't expect she'll be back by tomorrow," Rosemary said.

"Comment? Is she not at S. Jean?"

"Not at this moment—she has gone to Paris to see about getting her exit permit for Spain. She only went three days ago, and Mr. Milcom thought it might take some time."

His face clouded at her words.

"So—so," he muttered to himself—"and of course I do not hear! Inhumanity!" Then, recollecting himself, he turned to her with a little smile.

"The French are very difficiles, these days," he said—"so many restrictions!"

Rosemary agreed—but she did not think it was the inhumanity of the French that he had been muttering about. She thought his vexation was much more probably—and more reasonably—directed at the duquesa and the Old Parrot. The one certainly, the other probably, must have known both about Raquel's immediate journey, and her impending departure—and evidently had not told him.

"Alors," he said, getting up—"I must go. Au revoir, mademoiselle. Give Raquel my love, and tell her that I shall see her soon, in Spain."

Rosemary decided to risk it.

"Whose love?" she asked.

He tapped the copybook in her hand.

"That will tell her," he said. "Au revoir, mademoiselle!" And walked off.

It was another three days before the condesa returned from Paris, armed with her exit permit. Rosemary had in the meantime, as may be supposed, made as complete a translation of the devoir as she could, and with the help of a dictionary it was pretty accurate. It was really in the form of a story, and began simply, "Once upon a time there was a man called Manuel Jereda who dearly loved a woman called Raquel, but for reasons of duty he could not always see her when he wished to." It was couched in terms which might just as well have referred to a lover as to a brother, except for certain references to their children. He hoped always—"perhaps even on her next birthday, to strew flowers over her where she lay sleeping, as in the old dear days." The references to his "work" and his "duty" were such as he might well have supposed would convey nothing to a third party—but to Rosemary, knowing what she did, they were significantly clear. When he had accomplished "one last and most important task" he hoped to return to his own people. The little tale was elegantly, even brilliantly done—but at the last his love and longing had broken thru. "O, my dearest, my little darling one," he wrote in a final paragraph, "all this has been so hard, for you and for me—but soon, soon, we shall be together again."

Rosemary chose her moment rather carefully to show this document to Raquel. Even when the condesa was in her room, the duquesa had a way of popping in and out all the time—so much so that Rosemary wondered if she herself had fallen under suspicion of the alert Spanish woman.

Long View Is Best in Child Management

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There was an old play once, called, as I remember, "The Easiest Way." It was supposed to be daringly frank, and proved that the path the young girl took to "furs, jewels, etc.," was in the end not the "easiest" but the hardest way. That was the moral.

My moral today is that, while it is human for us to follow what is, at the moment, the easiest way of managing the children, it isn't easiest in the end. It really makes things harder.

Whenever you are tired and the children are difficult, a little snipping off of the truth here, a white lie there, a harmless deceit somewhere else would smooth the path for the moment. It is a habit that it is easy for parents to fall into if their children are hard to manage, that is, if they have allowed them to become hard to manage. But nothing will be gained by it in the end, because the result will be that the child will lose faith in her mother's or father's word. And such loss of faith makes a difficult child only more difficult.

There are times, to be sure, when we are at our wit's end as, for example, when certain medicines have to be given. Many children are little mules when it comes to taking medicine, or else they are excitable about it. The first thing they want to know is: "Does it taste bad? Tell me, does it taste bad? Because if it tastes bad I'm not going to take it."

It IS a temptation to say, "No," but you can't do it.

Or perhaps they've been injured and you know they have a painful ordeal with the doctor ahead of them.

"Is it going to hurt, mother? Tell me really, will it hurt? I'm sure it's going to hurt."

It may be that, in a case such as this, you can change their thoughts, tell the truth, and then divert them in one of the many ways mothers have learned, because even for a grown person the anticipation of great pain is hard to endure. If you don't succeed in this and they pin you down again, you will have to answer truthfully.

Or it may be that your child hates to have you go out for long stretches of time.

"But mother, how late will you be? Will you be home before I have my dinner, will you be home before I go to bed? Will you be here to tuck me in? Please mother, do, will you?

Don't wabble and weaken. Tell him the truth, and then cheer him up the best you can.

I realize that often this means a trying session, but each time you do it, it will be easier. And it's worth it, because your child will be learning to trust you. He never will be able to turn reproachful, tear-filled eyes on you and say, "But mother, you SAID it wouldn't hurt and it did. I'm never going to believe you any more, never, never."

How can the teacher help the self-effacing child? What can be done for the left-handed boy or girl? UNCLE IKE, I'VE COME TO SEE IF YOU DON'T KNOW OF SOMEONE I COULD GET FOR THE FARM IN SNIPWOOD'S PLACE.
SO HE TURNED OUT LAZY AND NO-ACCOUNT LIKE THE REST OF THEM, NINA?
NO. HE WORKS VERY WELL BUT HE IS SO FRESH I CAN'T STAND HIM.
I WISH I COULD SUGGEST SOMEBODY ELSE. BUT EVERYBODY IS WORKING SOMEWHERE. YOU'D BETTER TRY TO GET ALONG WITH HIM. CAN'T YOU SLAP HIM DOWN?
I'VE TRIED IT EVERY WAY EXCEPT WITH THE FLAT OF MY HAND. THAT MAY BE NEXT.
YOU MAY HAVE TO TAKE SOME SASS, BUT I'D ADVISE YOU TO KEEP HIM WORKING. THERE ARE TOO MANY MUNITIONS PLANTS WANTING HELPERS.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Kindly suggest the correct bidding on the following hand:

"South, dealer.
"North-South vulnerable.
"Match-point duplicate.

♦ None

WEST

SOUTH
♠ 8 5 2
♥ Q 7
♦ K 10 9 5 2
♣ A K J

"Contracts varied from three no trump to four no trump, with most tables carrying the bidding to four hearts. However, one table went to five hearts and made the hand in this manner: The opening lead was the seven of diamonds, South playing the nine spot and North trumping. A lead to the heart queen and a spade finesse dropped West's blank king. North then played two rounds of trumps and led a club to dummy's king. On the lead of the diamond 10 from dummy, West played the jack and North discarded a losing spade, putting West on the spot. Any lead West makes insures the contract of five. Other tables that trumped the diamond jack were held to four, their bid.

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

North might think about a slam but, void of partner's bid suit and with no high cards in clubs, would be over-aggressive if he took the bidding past the four level. Thus, altho he would be tempted to bid four spades over South's four hearts, such action would involve considerable risk.

In the matter of play, no improvement can be offered on the plan that resulted in an overtrick. It was supremely logical to make West a present of a diamond trick, thereby keeping him on lead and insuring a return that was bound to benefit the declarer. Perhaps it would have been wise for the latter to cash the spade queen before embarking on this line of play, thereby increasing the odds against West's being able to exit with a spade. [West might have dashed up with the spade king from a holding of K-x.] But this is a minor point and does not alter the fact that North deserved credit for a well played hand.

Two Romances Complicating Girl's Life

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Before he left for the army, he confessed his love for me, and promised to write often. This he has done. In the interim, however, I have met another young man, who works in a defense plant. Every week-end he comes to see me. I have met his family, and have grown very much attached to him. Yet, I constantly think of the fellow in the army. He urges me to meet his family, and writes often of how much he loves me and misses me.

"They are both wonderful men, Miss Blake, and I would not want to hurt either. Could you advise me as to what to do? Which one should I marry? PERPLEXED."

It seems that the uppermost thing on "Perplexed's" mind is marriage. She has a chance with two men, and she cares for them both. The man in the army is thinking of her as the girl he left behind, and hopes to make his wife. Can't you picture him taking a weary, many miles long hike, sustained in his effort by the thought of her loving encouragement? No matter where he may be sent in this war torn world, the vision of her loveliness and dependability will urge him on to heroic deeds.

On the other hand, there is the man with the defense job, probably as important as that of the man in the thick of the fighting. For without him to help supply badly needed arms and ammunition, the war could not be brought to a successful conclusion for the allies. He, too, deserves consideration.

The woman they both love is faced, not only with a personal problem, but a patriotic one. Should she dampen the fighting spirit of one of these men by marrying the other? Too bad she has let her emotions get her so entangled. But she's not the only woman who has met with this situation.

Which one should she marry? It's plain to be seen that she should not marry either of them until she is sure in her heart that he is HER MAN. It might be better if she should forget marriage for the duration, and would be just good friends to both. The only war marriages that should be made are those that are founded on real love, with no room in either's heart for love thoughts of another. There's enough worldly confusion, without adding to it in this manner.

Chicago English Union Has Yank Club in London

The Chicago chapter of the English Speaking union has received enthusiastic reports of the big new reception center and information bureau the union headquarters has opened at Dartmouth House in London for the use of American service men and civilians. The center was opened on July 14 with Mrs. John G. Winant, wife of the United States ambassador to England, officiating at the formal ceremonies, and army and navy officers, members of parliament, and other dignitaries present.

Mrs. Winston Churchill is the head of the hospitality committee of the center. Among its services to Americans in England on war duty is to contact friends and relatives in England. It also tells visitors how to get to points of interest and serves as a clearing house for the hundreds of families who want to entertain the American doughboys.

The work that is carried on is similar to the program the Chicago chapter of the union and the British War Relief society arranged for the royal air force men who pass thru Chicago, tho on a vastly larger scale. The center's rooms have a special entrance from the street.

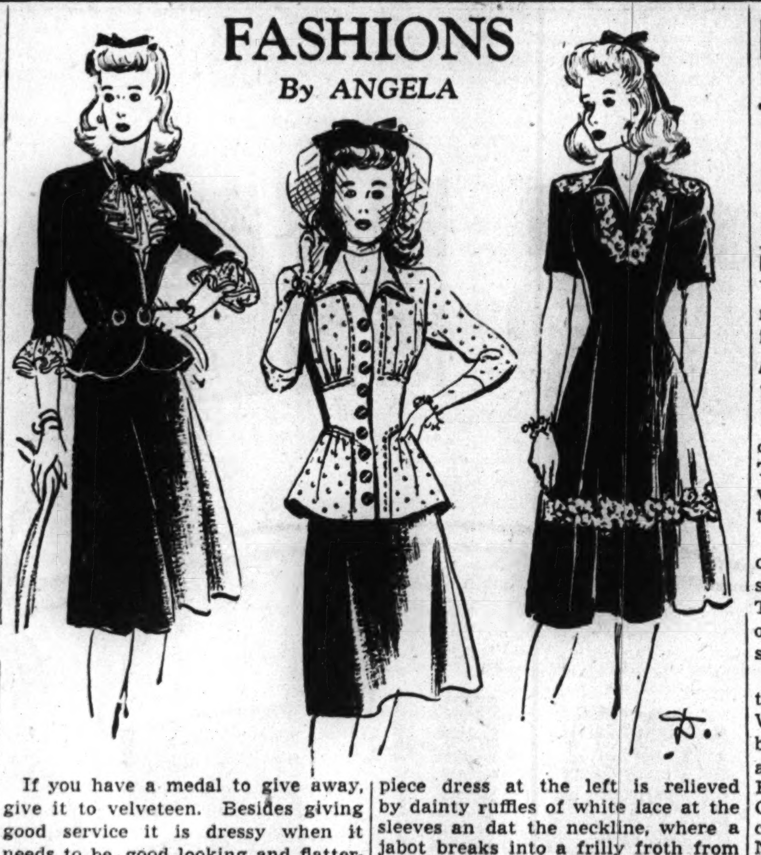
New Zealand Women Near Last of Permanent Waves

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Sept. 10.—Unpermanent waved womanhood is the latest war hardship facing New Zealanders, it was learned today. Supplies of solutions to put waves in women's hair now are strictly limited and foreign shipments have stopped. Present indications are that New Zealand women will be getting their last permanents in December. The women also lack bobby pins, hair nets, and combs.

FASHIONS

By ANGELA



If you have a medal to give away, give it to velveteen. Besides giving good service it is dressy when it needs to be, good looking and flattering and is now enjoying one of its most popular seasons. The three dresses sketched today are for junior girls size 9 to 15. But that doesn't mean that velveteen is limited to that group. Young and not so young, small and not so small wear velveteen.

The rich sooty black of the two piece dress at the left is relieved by dainty ruffles of white lace at the sleeves an dat the neckline, where a jabot breaks into a frilly froth from under the little collar. The flaring peplum had additional fullness in the back. Under $17.

Velveteen and wool is a favorite combination. A plain, slightly flared skirt in black velveteen sets off the red wool bodice. It is also available in brown skirt with gold colored top. The wool bodice is studded with nailheads.

Two Cycle Clubs Will Go on 15 Mile Rides Tonight

The Oak Park Cycle club will take a 15 mile ride at 8 o'clock tonight, leaving from 6916 West Roosevelt road. A half hour earlier the Wandering Wheelmen will leave the Green Briar fieldhouse, 2650 West Peterson avenue, for a 15 mile ride.

midst of moving to Cincinnati, which is to be their home.

Mrs. C. Daggett Harvey Will Join Lieut. Harvey.

Mrs. C. Daggett Harvey and her children are leaving next Tuesday for Traverse City to join Lieut. Harvey, who is stationed there. They have taken a house.

Mrs. Arnold D. K. Mason and her children have just returned from spending the summer in the east. They came back to Winnetka by way of Camp Lee, where Lieut. Mason is stationed with the army.

Timothy and Todd are the names the Edward C. Nicholsons [Roberta Wills] have given their twin sons, born early in August. The babies are great-grandsons of Mrs. Arthur B. Hull, the former Mrs. Edward F. Carry of New York, formerly of Chicago, and nephews of Miss Peggy Nicholson. Miss Nicholson is remaining in Chicago this winter with plans to work for the Red Cross.

Mrs. Ednyfed Williams is entertaining Maj. Charles Spencer Hart and his staff from the headquarters of the Army War show at the opening from 5 until 8 o'clock this afternoon of the new Mural room at the Tavern club. After the performance in Soldiers' field Mrs. Williams' guests will return to the club for dancing. Mrs. Williams has been active in selling box seats for the war show. Her husband, Maj. Williams, is vice chairman of the Chicago citizens' committee for the show.

Suzanne North Hazelet to Be Wed on Sept. 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Potter Hazelet of Libertyville, formerly of Winnetka, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Suzanne North, to John Hallett Clark III., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark of Essex Falls, N. J., at 8:30 o'clock on Sept. 19 in Christ church, Winnetka. A reception will follow at the Orrington hotel.

Miss Sally Hazelet will be her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Dorothea Clark, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary Cowap of Evanston. Mr. Clark and his bride will live in Dixon, Ill.

The Little theater party planned by the College club players for tomorrow night has been cancelled. It was called off because the leading lady and another member of the cast of the Delaware Players' production scheduled for tomorrow both have taken professional rôles in loop theaters.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 10.—Since the "For Whom the Bell Tolls" cast members are back making interiors at the studio, I went over to chin with them. There was Ingrid Bergman, looking soft and feminine in a pair of men's wool pants two sizes too big for her, a faded green wool shirt with black stitching showing, her hair an inch long, her legs bruised from rocks and boulders she climbed over at Sonora, but beaming over her luck in getting the rôle of Maria in her first million dollar picture. . . . Gary Cooper told me the rarefied air [it's 10,000 feet up in Sonora] was so perfect he gave up cigarets. He said you'd go to sleep on any old rock in any old position, and after a five minute nap, you woke up feeling as tho you'd had two hours. Said location was like the old days, when we had so much fun but also brought home the bacon. Gary doesn't know whom he'll sign up with next, or for what picture. Mrs. Cooper arrives home tomorrow. She has been visiting her mother at Southhampton. . . . Akim Tamiroff comes into his own as Pablo. Even his back acts. He wears large, droopy drawers with leather patches on the seat, and as he walks away, he has all the power and grace of Gargantua. . . . Sokoloff's eyes will haunt you. They're so intense they throw out sparks. Katina Paxinou in makeup looks 50; she's only 39. I can only describe her as part woman, and the rest pure animal. [I can hear you men chuckle—doesn't that describe every female?] . . . Director Sam Wood whistles while he works. They all do If this doesn't have Hemingway shouting from the housetops, then I've misread all the signs and I don't know a blooming thing about pictures.

Ingrid Bergman.

Well? I Swan!

When I asked John Wayne who his favorite director is, I naturally expected him to say John Ford, who brought him out of the doldrums with "Stage Coach" and "The Long Voyage Back Home." But John claims his favorite is Dave Miller, who did "Flying Tigers." . . . Addison Richards, who's played 300 pictures, says a talent scout is some one who'd give an old lady a seat on the subway—if she had picture possibilities. . . . John Davis knows an actress who's charging a 10 cent defense stamp every time she gets kissed. Has so far kissed herself thru a battleship, two tanks, and a jeep.

Flash Flash.

Mary Byrne [Washington secretary to Hugh McDiarmid, the OPA lead and zinc man], who came here to play in Bob Hope's picture, "They Got Me Covered," took out a marriage license in Washington, D. C., today. Three weeks hence she'll be married to F. Edward Smith, deputy marshal with the FBI. Seeing Mary's name in print with our Hollywood Romeos, Edward decided to take no chances—so little Mary becomes Mrs. Smith.

Right Gal.

Betty Hutton has the inside track on the life of Texas Guinan. She'd be terrific. But she has to do "The Miracle of Morgan Creek," with Eddie Bracken, first. That's the one Preston Sturges wrote especially for her. . . . I knew it would happen. The minute Richard Whorf goes to Metro, they want to show Warners how good he is, so he's in two pictures at once—"Keeper of the Flame" and "Assignment in Brittany." . . . Elliott Nugent opens in Detroit with Katharine Hepburn in the near future, then to New York a few weeks later. I suppose Katharine will carry on by long distance telephone that romance she started here. But determined as she is, I don't believe that in the long run anything will come of it.

Betty Hutton.

Father's Pride.

Russell Gleason is an associate producer at Metro, so Father Jimmy is oozing pride. The other day, when Jimmy finished work early on "Crash Dive," he started to run off the set. Archie Mayo yelled, "Why the hurry?" "O, I'm dashing over to Metro to ask my kid for a job!" . . . Coast Guardsman Victor Mature called Charles Rogers, producer of "The Powers Girl," threatening suit if his ex, Martha Mature, used the Mature name in the picture. What Martha Kemp said can't be printed. As tho she needed his name to make a hit anywhere!

Only the Best.

Dame May Whitty plays Tyrone Power's grandmother in "Crash Dive." Studio wizards contrived a glass bell which covered a camera and sealed it on top of a submarine, had a switch below, and when they submerged, the switch was turned on—and I'll be darned if you won't see the whole performance of a submarine descending—and underwater scenes all in color in that picture. . . . Before Bob Hope left for Alaska, he, Frances Langford, Jerry Colonna, and that great accordion player, Anthony Romano, had to be finger printed, and when Frances asked why, Bob cracked, "to make certain no criminals get out of the country." . . . Because Ray Milland does six broadcasts in New York [three in Spanish] and will have no playtime, his beautiful wife decided to remain at home and continue with her war work.

She'll Make History.

Charlie Chaplin is still seen about with bits and pieces, but when he's asked to bring a glamour girl to a party, he takes Paulette Goddard. She's leaving tomorrow on a war bond selling tour, will stop off in Washington, and when I asked her if she'd see the President and Harry Hopkins, she said, "Why not? They like to laugh, too." She'll cover three towns a day and ends up Sept. 30 at that big Madison Square Garden rally which Ed Sullivan is working like a galley slave to put over for Army Emergency Relief. In fact, all our star war bond salesmen who are east will be there, too. . . . Paulette still wants to do a picture in England. . . . I asked her about her stocking her eastern farm with live stock. She said, "I've got to do something. Planted five acres of corn. It's ripe. You've got to have something to feed it to. While I like corn, I can't eat that much."

PACKERS, HURT BY LOSSES, ARE FULL OF FIGHT

Play Western Army All-Stars Sunday.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 10.—In September every football team, from Mickey Jones' Estes Avenue Tigers to the world champion Bears, has a new sensation. By November, disillusionment in many cases may set in, but that's another story. This is September, pre-season, and the Green Bay Packers have a fair haired boy or two.

One of them is Paul Berezney, and Coach E. L. [Curly] Lambeau had quite a time coaxing him to play professional football. But Paul will be in there at right tackle Sunday when the Packers make their first Wisconsin public appearance of the new season against Maj. Wallace Wade's Western Army All-Stars in Marquette stadium, Milwaukee.

A Giant Fordham Product.

Paul is one of those giant linemen Fordham university has been turning out in recent seasons. He is two inches over 6 feet tall, weighs 220 pounds, and—get this—is 25 years old. Jim Crowley, the Fordham coach who used to be a Green Bay citizen, recommended Berezney to Lambeau two years ago. But Paul decided to enter Marquette medical school and as a sideline play with Johnny Blood's Kenosha Cardinals. At the end of last season, Johnny, a former Packer, told his old boss that this big tackle was the only member of his team qualified to play big league football.

"He looks like the best tackle we've had in years," chips in Richard [Red] Smith, the roly poly line coach, who is starting his ninth season as Lambeau's right hand man.

Fellows like Berezney, and maybe this fellow Ted Fritsch, a full back from Stevens Point Teachers, help soften the blow of 19 Packers from the 1941 team gone off to war or elsewhere.

Kotal Sponsors Fritsch.

Eddie Kotal, a former Packer player, brought Fritsch along when he chucked his post as football coach and athletic director at Stevens Point to join Lambeau's staff.

"He is going to make us a good full back," was Lambeau's estimate today of the 21 year old chunky 205 pounder. "The boy has natural ability and maybe he'll come close to replacing Clarke Hinkle. You know Clarke kicked off, booted placements, blocked, tackled, carried the ball, and generally made himself useful.

"We think Bob Ingalls, the center from Michigan, will give us some much needed help, too. Bob Flowers from Texas Tech also looks good at center. He played 59½ minutes against Brooklyn the other day when Charley Brock was hurt."

24th Season for Packers.

The Green Bay citizenry today became conscious of a new season, the 24th since Lambeau, then a stripling out of Notre Dame, organized the team and placed it in the then pioneer National Professional Football league. A sedan made the rounds of the downtown district today, a loud speaker blaring: "Buy your season tickets now." It carried a banner, "Go you Packers, go." Out on East Walnut street, on the practice field of East High school, the Packers went thru a two and a half hour session in the morning.

They were running and passing, preparing their offense for Sunday's showdown with Maj. Wade's powerhouse which has rolled over the Chicago Cardinals and Detroit Lions after losing to the Washington Redskins in California.

"That team is tough," exclaimed Curley, blinking in the sunshine, "they are coming up and up," and he raised his hand by degrees to demonstrate that they will get better with each game. "If an end gets hurt, all they have to do is turn the crank and out pops another one just as good. They really have the material and we'll be lucky to beat 'em."

Four Right Ends Gone.

Curley is philosophic about the loss of so many players. He points out that his full back and end department, with the exception of Don Hutson, has been virtually wiped out. He lost four right ends—Carl Mulleneaux, Ray Riddick, Ed Frutig, and Harry Jacunski. Alex Urban and Bill Johnson, left ends, are gone. So are Charles Schultz and Del Lyman, tackles. Among the missing guards are Lee McLaughlin, No. 1 man, and Howard Johnson. Tom Greenfield, and George Svendsen, centers, aren't around. Bob Adkins and Larry Buhler, quarter backs, didn't come back. Ed Jankowski, George Paskvan, and Hinkle made it a clean sweep for the full backs. Half backs who have departed are Hal Van Every and Herman Rohrig.

With all the evidence, you have to believe the Green Bay coach when he predicts that the Bears will win the western title and meet the Redskins for the league championship.

There is one consolation—Slippery Don Hutson and Pitcher Cecil Isbell are among those present. And there's the chance that freshmen like Berezney, Fritsch, and a few others will do all right.

Fritzie Zivic Wins Decision Over Cochrane

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Fritzie Zivic easily won a 10 round decision over Welterweight Champion Red Cochrane in Madison Square Garden in a bout that was a nontitle affair by a mere quarter of a pound. Zivic weighed 147¼; Cochrane 146.

Finally getting the revenge for which he's waited since the Jersey redhead took the 147 pound crown from him a year ago last July, Fritzie handed Cochrane a boxing lesson, puffed his face up and won going away in a rough and tumble bout that had most of the 13,259 hopping to their feet time after time. Receipts were $30,817.

The flat nosed Pittsburgh fighter won eight rounds against two for Freddie, who came out of the navy to take on this bout for the benefit of the USO and goes from here directly to active sea duty.

WHITE SOX ROUT SENATORS, 7-1; THEN LOSE, 5 TO 4

Lyons Gets 13th Victory in First Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox rose up last evening to shake off a losing streak that had extended thru five games, but there was more work to be done and they didn't handle it successfully. They broke the string by triumphing in the twilight, 7 to 1, probably because of the presence of the valiant 41 year old Ted Lyons. When the Comiskey park lights were turned on the Senators picked off an even break for themselves by nosing out Johnny Humphries, 5 to 4, before a slim gathering of 2,581 customers.

For a while, the twilight meeting appeared to be a question of Uncle Ted getting to his 13th victory of the year on a minimum of batting aid from his pals. They presented him with two runs in the third, half of the production being due to a triple furnished by Jim Grant, mak[ing] his debut as a third baseman. Later on, Lyons was bolstered by a five run fifth inning assault that polished off Emil [Dutch] Leonard, the knuckle ball expert who suffered a broken ankle early in the season.

Bill Zuber Yields Five Hits.

The Sox got only five hits off Bill Zuber in the night match but, even with that light tapping, were in the money until close to the finish. They picked up three runs in the fourth, principally because of Zuber's wildness. As soon as they were knocked back into a 3 to 3 tie in the sixth, they grabbed a lead of one run. This slim edge stood up until Humphries, mainly because of his own slight blunder as a fielder, precipitated a situation that wound up when two Senators crossed the plate with the decisive runs.

FIRST GAME

The twilight affair was uneventful until the Sox let go with a couple of extra base thumps after two were out in the third inning. Kolloway aimed a two bagger into left center and a passed ball invitation from Evans put him on third. After Moses had walked, Evans couldn't locate one of Leonard's knuckle balls, so Kolloway sauntered home with the first run. A moment later, Grant, who had singled in the first inning, slipped a triple thru the right center field opening and Moses scored, but Appling fanned.

The five-run fifth began with Tresh getting a single on a looper in the vicinity of Clary. Lyons sacrificed and Kolloway singled to send in Tresh. Moses walked. Grant fouled out and Appling doubled over Case's head, both Kolloway and Moses scoring. Hoag blooped a two bagger into short right and Appling went home. A single by Mueller chased Hoag across the plate with the last run of the inning.

The Senators escaped a shutout in the seventh on a single by Sullivan, Moses' fumble of the hit, a single by Clary, and Tresh's failure to stop

Buckeyes Face Season with 24 Sophomores on Squad

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Sept. 10.—One year ago the alumni and friends of Ohio State university were debating the question: "Will Paul Brown from Massillon, O., make good as football coach of the Buckeyes?" Today, as Ohio State prepares for its most comprehensive schedule in history, Brown has added to his already unusual achievements in coaching football, a first season in which Ohio State was beaten only once and tied Michigan for second place in the 1941 Western conference campaign.

That one defeat by Northwestern, incidentally, was only the eighth registered against Brown's teams since he began coaching in 1930 at Severn Prep school in Maryland. Ohio State defeated Missouri, the Big Six champion; Southern California, Purdue, Pittsburgh, Wisconsin, and Illinois, and tied Michigan, 20 to 20, in the climax of a brilliant campaign.

Exceeded Highest Hopes.

It is not our intention to review Ohio State's surprising 1941 record further. It suffices that Brown exceeded the highest hopes of those who had urged he be brought to the state university from Massillon High school. It is our purpose to remind those who, a year ago, talked in terms of "building for the future," that they might have saved their remarks for 1942.

The Ohio State squad of 43, of whom 24 are sophomores, logically should build for another year. It is likely, however, in view of 1941, that Ohio State now expects from Coach Brown victories deemed impossible when he first took over.

Ohio State's 1941 team was composed of veterans. Coach Brown and and his assistants instilled team spirit. They developed cohesion by studious effort of players and coaches. But the stars of the first eleven — Jim Daniell, Jack Stephenson, and Thornton Dixon, tackles; Sam Fox, end; Jack Graf, Tom Kinkade, and Dick Fisher, backs, and Fritz Howard, guard—are gone. On the first eleven that practiced today there were eight letter men. Only two can be called regulars from last season and one

POLLET YIELDS 4 HITS AS CARDS BEAT GIANTS, 5-1

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—With the help of an error charged against a fielder for doing the right thing, the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Giants, 5 to 1, today to breathe even more fiercely down the necks of the Dodgers in the National league pennant race. Howard Pollet, the southpaw who always finds his "cousins" in the Giant lineup, pitched a four-hit victory.

The Cardinals pushed over three runs on Hal Schumacher in the first inning, largely thru that unusual "error," added another on a pair of hits in the fifth and wound up their run making when Terry Moore smashed his fifth homer of the year in the eighth.

Ott Hits No. 27.

Meantime, Pollet was having the time of his life chalking up his sixth victory of the year, five at the expense of the Giants. From the first, when the New Yorkers connected for two of their safeties, until Mel Ott hit his 27th homer in the seventh, not a man got on base.

In the first inning Jimmy Brown walked and Terry Moore scratched a hit down the third base line. Enos Slaughter then singled to right, scoring Brown. Ott fielded the ball and threw to third—the proper play with two runners on base. However, Dick Bartell had run in to back up any play at the plate, and the bag was unprotected. So the ball rolled all the way to the box seats, and Moore came home and Slaughter went all the way to third. Slaughter came home on Walker Cooper's fly.

Schumacher a Sub.

Just for the records, Schumacher was only a substitute going into today's game. Carl Hubbell was slated to do the pitching, but he was hit on the head by a ball thrown by Stan Musial in the St. Louis fielding drill.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The Cubs ruthlessly jumped on a gasping, terrified, and thoroly surprised band of Brooklyn Dodgers this afternoon, reducing their first place lead over the St. Louis Cardinals to two games by administering a 10 to 2 thrashing to the proud champs.

The Cards will come to Ebbets field tomorrow for a two game series, and if they can awe the trembling Brooklyns as the Cubs did this afternoon, the standings Saturday night will be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Brooklyn	94	46	.671
St. Louis	94	46	.671

At that juncture each team will have 14 games to play, no more with each other.

Brooklyn will rely on Whitlow Wyatt tomorrow. The Cards will start their ace, Morton Cooper.

Warneke Gets Early Lead.

The Cubs made enough runs in the first inning to assure Lon Warneke of victory, the way things turned out. They made three runs off Kirby Higbe and Hugh Casey in the first inning and they doubled their total off Casey and the third former Cub caster, Larry French, in the second inning. Thus, our lads had a 6 to 0 lead when the Dodgers managed to accomplish their only runs with two out in the third.

These two Brooklyn runs, by the way, were produced on a single by French and the first Ebbets field homer Arky Vaughan has made as a Dodger. All the rest of the time Ol' Lon was almost ashamed of himself pickin' on the quaking champions the way he was, and sorta watchin' the scoreboard tell about his former Card mates kickin' the stuffin's out of the Giants over in the Polo grounds.

Allen Suffers Some, Too.

Except in that scoring foray, only one Dodger runner got to second base. That was in the ninth, when the Cubs fully were possessed of their eight run margin, having just polished off Johnny Allen for a couple of farewell runs in their ninth.

Everybody in the Cub starting line-up, plus Jimmy Foxx, who replaced Phil Cavarretta in the first half of the first inning, contributed to the Cubs' breathtaking offensive. Stan Hack scored three runs, one each after

DUCKS—OVER 100,000,000, TO BE ON WING SOON

Gain Is 22,000,000 Over 1941 Population.

BY BOB BECKER.

By enlisting the aid of hundreds of observers, Ducks Unlimited in Canada has just completed its annual fall census of the waterfowl in the provinces and Tom Main, general manager of that organization, is ready to advise American hunters that at least 97,000,000 ducks will head south this fall from the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and the northwest territories.

This number added to an estimated 15,000,000 to 25,000,000 hatched south of the Canadian border is going to put a big migration of birds in the air during the coming months.

The Fish and Wildfowl service estimated that 100,000,000 ducks went north this spring. It is believed that several millions of these nested in the United States. Reports from the northwestern states indicate that they have a heavy local hatch of birds this season.

It's Gain of 22,000,000.

The close to 100,000,000 waterfowl scheduled to leave Canadian marshes this fall is the largest duck population produced by the provinces in 14 years, represents a net gain of 22,000,000 this year, and is double the 1938 population.

Altho rumors have been prevalent in the Illinois river country that hunting might be restricted this fall along that famous duck stream, judging from latest information received by this department from officials of the Coast Guard there is nothing behind such rumors. We asked one of the officers in the public relations department if the Coast Guard was worried about duck hunters chugging up and down the river and were restrictions against hunters being considered. The answer was "no."

The only [but very important] thing all waterfowl hunters along the Illinois or Mississippi must keep in mind is this: don't do any shooting or cruising around within 100 feet of any shipbuilding yard, power plant, arsenal, warehouse or depot, freight pier, or any other similar places on a river where Uncle Sam is mighty busy. Those spots are out of bounds for everybody.

Need Identification Cards.

The Coast Guard advises us that any hunter who will be cruising around in waters where he believes he may be checked by patroling members of the Coast Guard can obtain an identification card from the service without charge. We can't figure out how or why any duck hunter minding his business along the Illinois would need such an identification card but the Coast Guard says it will issue them upon application. Information on how such a card is obtained can be learned by calling the Coast Guard district headquarters office, 610 S. Canal street, or at any Coast Guard station.

Notre Dame Cuts Practice to One a Day

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 10 [Special].—Notre Dame's football squad was cut to one workout a day with the opening this morning of classes for the fall semester. The Irish have had double drills only since Sept. 1.

Freshman Coach Bob Snyder, who will be assisted by Coach Clarence [Jake] Kline of the baseball team and Jack Warner, met the frosh squad for the first time today and began preparations for the annual freshman—varsity game to be played in the stadium Sept. 19. Warner, who won a letter at left half back last fall, is a senior. A knee injury received late in the season failed to respond rapidly to a recent operation.

It was announced today that Will Riordan, second string guard last fall, will not be back. He advised Coach Frank Leahy by mail that he has been unable to obtain a deferment to continue his studies and will be inducted soon. He is from Sioux City, Ia.

The list of returning lettermen from 1941 has been cut from an expected 15 to 12, with none available at left end or full back.

PURDUE SPEEDS UP.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 10 [Special].—Purdue's varsity squad scrimmaged today against the freshmen for Saturday's regulation game with the "B" team.

Altho the yearlings kept shifting defenses, the varsity combinations managed to make many gains, and Coach Elmer Burnham expressed himself as being fairly well satisfied with the progress made in mastering the new offense.

HARRY GILMORE, FAMOUS BOXER, IS DEAD AT 88

Santa Monica, Cal., Sept. 10 (AP).—Harry Gilmore, featherweight boxing champion in the '80s and father of Freddie Gilmore, welter weight title holder in 1914, died today. He was 88 years old.

Gilmore, who spent many years in Chicago after retiring from the ring, was given a testimonial party by his local admirers in the old 1st Regiment armory, 16th street and Wabash avenue, on Sept. 9, 1924. The occasion was Gilmore's departure for California because a change of climate had been recommended for Mrs. Gilmore. She died on Nov. 4, 1924.

Gilmore's most famous fight was a 28 round duel with Jack McAuliffe in Lawrence, Mass., on Jan. 14, 1887. The fighters, their handlers, and some 50 spectators had been pursued by the authorities thru three states before finding a small hall in which to meet. Gilmore's handlers threw in the towel at the end of the 28th when they thought their man was suffering internal hemorrhages.

Sgt. Joe Arrives

Louis Stops Off a Day on Way to Conn Battle

Sergt. Joe Louis of Fort Riley, Kas., stopped off in Chicago yesterday en route to Greenwood Lake, N. Y., where he will open light training Sunday for a 15 round heavyweight championship defense against Pvt. Billy Conn in Yankee stadium Oct. 12. Louis, who was promoted from the rank of corporal shortly before he left the cavalry base at Fort Riley on Wednesday, will go on to New York today to be on hand for the eastern Army All-Stars and New York football Giants game there tomorrow night.

Louis said he weighs 212 pounds at present, only four and a half more than he carried when he knocked out Abe Simon in Madison Square Garden on March 27. The champion spent yesterday playing a round of golf at a south side course.

CONN'S HAND HEALED.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP).—Private Billy Conn, beginning workouts for his fight with Joe Louis, said today his left hand, which he broke on his father-in-law's head last May 11, is as good as ever.

Billy went three fast rounds with the big bag, punching it at a terrific pace.

MacPHAIL READY TO ENTER ARMY; WARNS DODGERS

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP).—Larry MacPhail, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, arranged to leave tonight for Washington to complete plans for his entry into the army.

After watching his ball club humbled by the Chicago Cubs 10 to 2 MacPhail told newspapermen "I warned this ball club when it was 8½ games in front that it couldn't win the pennant unless it played better ball and the way it is going now I doubt if it does win."

A captain in the field artillery in the last war, MacPhail said he had been accepted for service again several days ago, but still was arguing for assignment with combat troops.

Ben Hogan Shoots 68 at Skokie; May Enlist

Ben Hogan, the leading money winner among the play for pay golfers, stroked his way around the Skokie Country club with a four under par 68 yesterday afternoon as he played in a foursome with Fred Corcoran, PGA tournament manager, who shot an 80; Bob Stupple, pro at Skokie, who had 72, and Thomas McMahon, president of the Chicago District Golf association, who had an 81. Hogan left last night for the coast for a brief tour of exhibitions, after which he plans to enlist in some branch of the service.

JOE GALL, GIANT JUNIOR TACKLE, LOST TO INDIANA

Quits to Enter Service; 37 Players Left.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 10 [Special].—Indiana's football squad was further reduced today by the withdrawal of Joe Gall, 230 pound, 6 foot, 3 inch tackle from Mishawaka, Ind. Gall, who was an Indiana all-state high school center three years ago, will enter the armed forces. He was a junior, having been kept out last fall by a knee injury.

Fearful of injuries to his squad, which now numbers only 37 players, Coach Bo McMillin postponed body contact scrimmages and drilled it on fundamentals and timing. Billy Hillenbrand, whose fractured arm was declared to be "healing very satisfactorily" by an Indianapolis specialist, ran thru plays with a back field composed of Capt. Bob White, full back; Lou Saban, quarter back, and Chuck Jacoby and Bob Cowan, alternating at right half.

FUNDAMENTALS AT MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 10 [Special].—Coach Fritz Crisler emphasized fundamental blocking and signal drills for the Michigan line today. The Wolverine coach indicated that weight would probably have to be sacrificed in the search for first string material in the line, possibly for lighter and speedier men. Crisler has several comparatively light but fast men on tap, such as 170 pound end Elmer Madar, and 190 pound tackle Jack Karwales, who have shown ability but are up against much heavier men at their positions. Paul White, half back from River Rouge, was out of uniform today, resting hips bruised in practice yesterday. The first scrimmage of the season will be held Saturday.

ILLINI PLEASE ELIOT.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 10 (AP).—"We'll be fundamentally sound, if nothing else," Coach Ray Eliot told Illinois football candidates today, and then sent the Illini thru their fourth day of double drills in which the staff stressed blocking. Toward the end of the afternoon session the Illini shook off their earlier sluggishness, and Eliot left the field fairly well pleased. The squad ended the day with a brief scrimmage.

Eliot's first string made good headway against a third team, but it took a group of second stringers to gain ground consistently. Half Back Dick Good tossed a thirty-three yard touchdown pass to Full Back Joe Astroth two plays after the seconds had taken the ball over on their opponents' 40. Then Good and Astroth led a sixty yard march on the ground to the second score, Sophomore Astroth scooting over on a sweep from the 8.

BLOCKING IS STRESSED

LITTLE POSTS 66; BETTERS RECORD AT FLOSSMOOR

Lawson Little bettered the Flossmoor Country club record by firing a 66, six under par, while shooting with Bing Crosby against Tommy Armour and Charley Penna yesterday. Play was under winter rules. The round was Little's second low scoring effort within a week at Flossmoor, the west coast star having fired a 67 Saturday to tie the record set by Bobby Jones and later tied by Russell Martin, current club champion.

Little went out in 32 and needed 34 coming home. He missed seven foot tries on the 4th and 9th and a nine footer on the 16th. Penna posted a 71, Armour, 72, and Crosby, 80. Armour's card included an eagle 3 on the 3d. Little's card:

Par—Out	535	444	344—36
Little—Out	435	433	334—32
Par—In	534	344	445—36—72

Dark Threads.

A weaver deftly wove upon his loom
  With shining threads of silver and of gold
A tapestry which gave a living bloom
But on the rack were strands of darker threads
  Which seemed so dull and strangely out of place
That some who saw him weaving shook their heads
The pattern must contain at least a few
  Dark threads to glorify the bright design.
And so, in life the need is much the same,

Fisher Happy; N. U. Ends Are Best in Years

Waldo Fisher, Northwestern's veteran end coach, believes the Wildcat end candidates are the best in recent years, and Fisher has turned out some pretty fair flankers since he joined the staff in 1928 after winning All-American honors at end on the Purple teams of that period. Among the players he has developed were Frank Baker, Dick Fencl, Eggs Manske, Henry Longfellow, Johnny Kovatch and others.

Five Are Letter Men.

But seldom have the Wildcats come up in a single season with two such outstanding flankers as Bob Motl and Bud Hasse, seniors who have been consistent performers for the last two seasons. Both are 6 feet 2 inches tall and in addition to being pass receivers are good blockers and tacklers. In addition to Motl and Hasse, the Wildcats possess three other lettermen, Bob Wallis, Bill Ohland, and Hal Colberg, who are certain to be in considerable action this fall.

The Wildcats received their second taste of partial scrimmage yesterday in preparation for what probably will be their first full scrimmage of the season Saturday. The contact work produced the season's first casualties when Ohland received a twisted ankle and Ernie Beck, sophomore full back, suffered a knee injury. Both will be out of action for several days.

DALEY MAKES TWO RUNS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 10 (AP).—Bill Daley scored for Minnesota today in the first scrimmage, romping for two touchdown runs of fifty and eighty yards against the third stringers. Coach George Hauser sent in Bud Higgins after Daley's second touchdown and Minnesota's Mite shot a forty yard pass to Bill Baumgartner, who took the ball on the reserve 10 yard line and loped over the goal line.

IOWA PLANS SCRIMMAGE.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 10 (AP).—The Hawkeyes worked on their aerial attack today and polished up ground plays in preparation for their first game next week against Washington university of St. Louis. Coach Eddie Anderson said the squad would probably get a light scrimmage or two next week.

Ted [Duke] Curran, sophomore back, threw a few passes tonight as Anderson sought more passers. Jim Youel and Tom Farmer, however, still did most of the passing. Youel worked most of the practice at quarter back while Farmer took a turn on the second team for the first time since the season opened.

PRACTICE GAME FOR SAILORS.

Smith's associates in the Blue backfield will be John Popov, half back; Herman Schneidman, quarter back, and Steve Belichick, full back. The line will be composed of Fred Preston and Carl Mulleneaux, ends; Jim Daniell and Jim Barber, tackles; Bill Radovich and Gust Zarnas, guards, and Bob Johnson, center.

The starting back field for the Orange squad will consist of Pete Kmetovic and Glen [Rusty] Cowart, half backs; Bob Sweiger, full back, and Rudy Mucha, quarter back. The linemen include Ralph Moeller and Omer Kelly, ends; Urban Odson and Ray Busler, tackles; Ken Robesky and Ted Ramsey, guards, and Bob Adam, center.

SEAHAWKS IN SCRIMMAGE.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 10 [Special].—The tempo of workouts for the Navy Seahawks at the Iowa preflight school was stepped up today closing with a long scrimmage between the varsity and "B" squads.

Coach Bernie Bierman said he still was in doubt in regard to team personnel. Ensign Al Couppe, ex-Iowa quarter back, was back after a day's absence in Chicago to make application for reëntrance into the navy as a cadet, rather than an officer. Couppee wants to be a navy pilot.

32 RIDERS ENTER 20 MILE BIKE RACE TONIGHT

Thirty-two riders will compete in the 20 mile point race which will feature the program tonight at the Humboldt park bicycle bowl under the auspices of the Catholic Youth organization. Heading the list will be Marvin Thomson, national champion, and Sears Taylor, winner of the last 20 miler at the bowl, both wearing the colors of the Barrett Athletic club.

BUCKEYES FACE SEASON WITH 24 SOPHS ON SQUAD

of these was unable to play after the third game because of injury.

Eight Letter Men on Varsity.

The Ohio State varsity is composed of eight letter men and three sophomores. The second eleven included eight sophomores and three members of the 1941 squad. Obviously the Buckeyes lack depth of material, since this is the smallest football squad in the history of the university, and they lack experience. Moreover, the varsity will average 14 pounds less per player than a year ago and Ohio State will be a faster team. The players are working as hard as their predecessors and Brown's thoroness in instruction may offset to a degree their inexperience. But only the early games can reveal whether Gene Fekete, a sophomore full back, can match the ball handling and passing of Graf, or whether Paul Sarringhaus, junior left half back, has the speed and skill of Fisher.

Sarringhaus is a 190 pounder from Hamilton, O., who may be ready for a stellar rôle. He can run and pass with the best. Fekete weighs 192 pounds and he is untried. Les Horvath, capable player, who has had a subordinate rôle for two years, should be ready for the right half back position. George Lynn, the captain of the team and its quarter back, was not a regular last year.

Shaw an Outstanding End.

Bob Shaw, at right end, is the only eight game regular. He is an outstanding wingman and headed for Big Nine honors. Lin Houston, a junior guard, is another top notcher. Houston was injured during the major portion of the 1941 season. Bill Vickroy is a capable center, but Danta Lavelli at end, and Bill Willis, 203 pound Negro tackle from East High Columbus, are sophomores. Incidentally, Willis' weight is top figure for the squad.

The tackle jobs are the problem. Charles Csuri, substitute last year, is capable, but Jimmy Reese and Jack Dugger, on the second eleven, are sophomores. Ohio State's tactical maneuvers will follow the 1941 pattern. Brown will use an unbalanced line, a backfield and line shift, and forward passes will be thrown by both the full back and left half back. The attack may have more air plays because of the lack of linemen to open up for power thrusts. In the first four days of double drills there has been the same intense effort and concentration we saw last fall on which we based our forecasts of a successful season for the Bucks.

Opens Against Fort Knox.

Ohio State opens its season, which includes seven home games, with Fort Knox, Ky. So little is known of the soldier eleven that one is inclined to believe it cannot match this well drilled squad. The Buckeyes close the year with the Iowa City preflight cadets. In between they meet six conference foes, Southern California, and Pittsburgh. Indiana on Oct. 3 will be the measuring rod for Ohio State's possibilities. The members of the first and second teams, with asterisks denoting sophomores, follow:

ENDS—Bob Shaw, *Danta Lavelli, Don Steinberg, *John White.
TACKLES—Charles Csuri, *Bill Willis, *Jimmy Reese, *Jack Dugger.
CENTERS—Bill Vickroy, *Gordon Appleby.
QUARTERBACKS—George Lynn, *Paul Friday.

Prep Football Opens Tonight with 2 Games

Prep football in metropolitan Chicago will start tonight when St. Patrick meets St. Philip in the St. Philip stadium at 8 o'clock. In Maywood, Proviso, of the Suburban league, will play Emerson of Gary, Ind.

St. Patrick's practice contest with St. Philip will be Claude Grigsby's first game as head coach of the Pats. Grigsby succeeded Bo Cuisinier, and will be assisted by John Carroll. St. Philip will be beginning its fourth season under the leadership of Coach Marv Adams.

Proviso, runner-up to Oak Park, Suburban league champion last year with a record of five victories and one defeat, will receive strong competition from Emerson, a member of the Northern Indiana High school conference, in its first 1942 test.

Two South Suburban league members will open their season with practice games tonight. Bloom of Chicago Heights travels to Whiting and Thornton will engage Hammond Tech on its home field in Harvey.

Two Games in Big Eight.

Two of the three games originally scheduled will be played in the Big Eight conference tonight. East Aurora travels to Decatur for a practice game and Elgin will be the guest of East of Rockford. Lamont and West of Rockford were scheduled to play the first game of a double header which also involved Elgin and East, but the game was canceled when Lamont could not arrange transportation.

Eight games are listed as the Big 12 conference opens its football campaign. One game is scheduled tomorrow when Kewanee, a non-conference team plays at Peoria Central.

A program of eight games, involving elevens from both the eastern and western divisions of the Northern Indiana conference will be played in the South Bend and Gary areas tonight. All games are nonconference affairs.

Two Start Sunday.

Leo, defending city champion, opens its football campaign with Loyola in Shewbridge field, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in a practice game. Despite the loss of Babe Baranowski and other letter men Coach Whitey Cronin seems to have another well-balanced team.

Two more members of the Catholic league are scheduled to get their seasons started Sunday afternoon in Shewbridge field, when Mount Carmel and Weber meet at 2:30 p. m.

In the Catholic league schedule printed yesterday St. Rita was erroneously listed as playing Mt. Carmel at Shewbridge field instead of at St. Rita, at 2 p. m. Nov. 1. De La Salle will play Leo at Shewbridge field, Sunday, Nov. 1, at 2 p. m.

PICK WAGNER AND FOREMAN TIE IN STATE GOLF AT 72

Play Double Match Round at Peoria Today.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 10.—John [Pick] Wagner, an accountant, and Harold Foreman, who is in the trucking trade, today pursued the patterns of their every day professions in sharing the qualifying honors in the annual Illinois state tournament with mutual scores of 72, even par for the Mount Hawley Country club.

Pick, the former Northwestern university star who registers from Chicago's Kildeer club, did some quick calculating on the front nine, inditing five threes, three of them in a row for birdies. That gave him a 35 out, one under par. Foreman, the large party who is Lake Shore's most faithful entrant in CDGA events, couldn't drive any faster than a 37 on the same side, but he started the homeward trip with a birdie three gained off a flying niblic shot from the banked side of a sand trap to the right of the green at the quaintly crooked dogleg 10th. He wound up with the 35 that enabled him to match Wagner's 72.

Play Two Rounds Today.

Harold and Pick thus earned the right to lead the upper and lower sections, respectively, into the first round of match play in the championship bracket tomorrow morning. Another round of man to man competition will be transacted in the afternoon, reducing the field of 32 championship qualifiers to eight tomorrow evening. These will be pared, via another double match play round on Saturday, to the finalists, who are scheduled to go 36 holes in Sunday's title argument.

Following the two leaders in the qualifying round was Gus Turner Moreland, a local citizen whom you may remember as the Texas native who once won the Western amateur and also shone on a couple of Walker cup teams. Mount Hawley happens to be Gus' home yard now, and the local audience was cheering for Gus, a late starter, to bring off the medal by himself. He was doing nobly in that direction until that 165 yard 17th, where he went for a sorry five, after fleeing one bunker and landing in another. Gus' only consolation was that the other three members of the foursome, including Jim Frisina of Taylorville, last year's runner-up, also took fives on the same hole.

Moreland Finishes with 73.

Moreland finally turned in a 73, one stroke in front of John Holmstrom of Rockford, the University of Illinois graduate captain who held this title as a prodigy back in 1938, and George Lundberg of Peoria. Amerigo Monti of Pekin, came in with a neat 75, earned off a back nine of 35, the only under par round on that section, aside from Foreman's. Bob McCord, the Great Lakes sailor who once earned his freshman numerals on Northwestern's golf team, turned in a tidy front nine of par 36, but couldn't keep the pace coming home and finished with a 76. Harold Mathisen of Chicago, recent winner of the Chicago city amateur for the fourth time; Bob Rosecrance of Rockford, three time victory in the CDGA junior open, and Bill Witzleb of Dixon, 1942 Western junior champion, and Ted Payseur, Northwestern coach, all made the grade in the championship bracket.

The tournament was greeted by adverse weather and by the time the field could see the first green, it was decided to curtail the originally planned qualifying round of 36 holes to 18. The next 16 scorers after the 32 championship qualifiers were placed in a separate flight of 16, who will go to work on the same pattern tomorrow morning.

Wagner's and Foreman's cards:

Par—Out	444	445	344—36
Foreman—Out	434	544	355—37
Wagner—Out	463	335	335—35

IWGA TOURNEY FURNISHING WAR PRISONERS AID

Play is under way in the Illinois Women's Golf association Victory tournament, an 18 hole event which the state women's group is using as a means of raising funds to aid prisoners of war. The proceeds of the tournament are to be paid to the Red Cross, which in turn will employ them in aiding service men who are axis prisoners.

The event is for all women golfers in Illinois, whether members of the IWGA or not. Each entrant plays 18 holes over her home course and is given her full handicap. Persons wishing to donate the entry fee of $1 and not play may do so. Each club is to be allowed a minimum of two prizes for low net. If the entry warrants more than the minimum, additional prizes will be granted.

Women wishing to compete must send their entries with the $1 fee to Mrs. Albert Pike, 103 Calumet avenue, Aurora, by Sept. 17.

Derringer and Reds Defeat Braves, 6 to 2

Boston, Mass., Sept. 10 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds were given two splendid pitching performances by Paul Derringer and Ray Starr today, but they won only one victory in their final appearances of the season against the Boston Braves. Derringer was credited with a 6 to 2 triumph in the first, but Starr's two hit performance was wasted because the Reds had to have the scoreless second game called at the end of the ninth to board a train for Philadelphia.

a throw to the plate by Kolloway after the latter had grabbed a foul off Pofahl's bat.

SECOND GAME

The Senators scored in the second inning of the night game on a double by Early and a single by Clary, but the Sox, with the aid of Zuber, took care of the deficiency in the fourth. Zuber did his share by walking Grant, Appling, and Hoag. Grant was cut down at the plate on Mueller's tap and, while Mueller was being forced on Webb's grounder, Appling scored. Dickey's single drove in Hoag and a single by Humphries refilled the bases. The third run was shoved across when Zuber walked Kolloway.

Estalella opened the sixth inning with a double to left which led to a tie. After two were gone, Kolloway fumbled Sullivan's roller and Estalella ran home. Sullivan dashed as far as second on the error and scored the tyiing run on a single by Clary.

Mueller Blasts One.

Rookie Mueller led off the home sixth with a clout to deep center but decided to play safe, so stopped at second. He scored eventually on Kolloway's fly, putting the Sox back in front by 4 to 3.

Except for a single by Vernon in the eighth, Humphries wasn't seriously distressed until after two were out. Sullivan slapped a hopper back at Humphries, but John kicked it into a base hit. Then Clary walked, filling the bases, and Bruce Campbell, batting for Pofahl, singled to register Vernoon and Sullivan.

Joe McCarthy's Yankees, who are putting the finishing touches to another pennant job and are not worrying whether they meet the Dodgers or the Cardinals in the world series, will be Comiskey park guests this afternoon and tomorrow. The official Sox greeter today will be Eddie Smith, 1942's unhappiest left hander. The Yanks will lead with Atley Donald.

Charley Berry's debut as a big league umpire was a matter of peaceful quiet. Even Jim Dykes, who usually sees things the umpires miss and thus has become a nuisance for the league office, failed to complain.

Browns Deal Yanks Worst Beating, 9 to 0

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 10 (AP).—The Browns subjected the pennant bound New York Yankees to their most humiliating defeat of the season today, shutting them out, 9 to 0, behind the three hit pitching of Denny Galehouse.

It was the fourth time the Yanks had been whitewashed this season and the other three were 1 to 0 affairs. It also was the third time Marvin Breuer, who suffered his ninth defeat, had lost by a shutout. Walt Judnich of the Browns hit two home runs, one in the first inning and one in the sixth, with Chet Laabs on base each time.

ROLFE TO COACH YALE BASEBALL, BASKET SQUADS

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 10 (AP).—Robert [Red] Rolfe, slugging third baseman of the New York Yankees and, at 33, veteran of five world series, is Yale's new baseball and basketball coach.

Ogden Miller, athletic director, announced Rolfe's acquisition tonight. He did not disclose terms of the contract beyond the fact that Rolfe, now apparently headed for participation in his sixth championship series with the Yanks, would not be required to report here until Nov. 1.

As diamond coach, Rolfe will succeed Smoky Joe Wood, one time Red Sox pitching ace, who was dismissed last spring after 19 years' service. As basketball coach, he replaces Capt. Ken Loeffler, U. S. A., now in charge of physical training at Roswell field, New Mexico.

Rolfe, a native of Penacook, N. H., starred at Dartmouth in the two sports he will coach at Yale, captaining the baseball team in his senior year.

walks in the first and second innings and one after singling in the ninth. Cavarretta stayed in the game just long enough to bash a double which drove in the first Chicago run and bloomed into the second marker. Foxx contributed to two scoring forays with a single and a double and Bill Nicholson knocked his 20th homer of the year off French in the fourth inning. Bill also had scored after Larry hit him with a pitched ball in the second inning.

Dom Drives in Pair.

Dom Dallessandro didn't make a hit but drove in two runs on fly balls.

Lou Novikoff had a single in the first inning to drive in the second Chicago run and he drove in two more with a triple in the second. Chico Hernandez figured in two scoring outbreaks with singles and Lou Stringer was a factor with two singles and a sacrifice. Lenny Merullo got a double and barely missed a theft of home. Pretty consistent attack for a bunch of sixth placers, eh!

The Cubs and Dodgers thus finished their business for the year. The Dodgers won 16 and the Cubs only six, but they'll long remember the last two, Warneke's 4 to 3 victory in Chicago Aug. 29 and the one Lon turned in today.

And they said the Cards surrendered in the pennant race when they sold Lon back to the Cubs.

The Cubs will move over to the Polo Grounds tomorrow for another one game "series." Hi Bithorn is to pitch for the Cubs and will be honored by a delegation of neighbors from Puerto Rico.

...AND ONLY $6.60 TH' PAIR!

It's FIRST COME-FIRST SERVED with these REGAL SHOES made of imported MARTIN'S SCOTCH GRAIN!

• Recently several shipments of Martin's Scotch Grain leather (made for generations at the Martin family's world-famous Glasgow tannery) arrived in this country. Shoe men were excited—because, lately, not much of this renowned leather has been available.

Because we were for years Martin's best customer, we were able to get enough of this fine leather for 25,000 pairs of shoes—now available in several different styles at Regal Shoe Stores. And because of our one-price-coast-to-coast policy, the price is only $6.60 a pair!

This great value is made possible by making Regal Shoes in our own factories, and selling them direct to you through our own Regal Stores (or by mail) at the one low price of $6.60—and by buying leathers in huge quantities, for cash and hence for less.

Naturally, it's "first come, first served"—so stop in a Regal Store soon, and have a pair of Regal Shoes, made of genuine Martin's Scotch Grain, "Prescription Fitted" to your feet. Then you'll know why 250,000 men have switched to Regal in the last 18 months.

BOLUS CAPTURES MY DANDY PURSE AT HAWTHORNE

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Bolus, the horse which Mrs. Emil Denemark claimed from John Marsch for $3,000 during the Arlington Park meeting, won again yesterday at Hawthorne. Racing at odds of 7 to 2, he beat a field of five rivals in the six and a half furlong My Dandy purse, main event of the afternoon. This was his third victory since the Denemark stable acquired him. In addition, he had taken four second places during the Washington park meeting.

Bolus had to show considerable gameness yesterday to beat Three Clovers by half a length while Valdina Groom was taking third place, for he led all the way and was put to considerable pressure in the later stages.

Valdina Groom was the 2 to 1 favorite in the betting, Three Clovers being the second choice. Bolus and Silvestra both were held at approximately 7 to 2. The winner's payoff was $9.40, $4, and $2.80.

Bolus Takes Early Lead.

Immediately after the break from the six and a half furlong chute, Jockey Nick Jemas sent Bolus into the lead. Silvestra and Three Clovers went right after him but the favorite, Valdina Groom, was rather slow to settle into stride.

As they went into the far turn, Bolus was maintaining a lead of a length and a half with Silvestra and Three Clovers running head and head forcing the pace. On the swing around curve, Silvestra lagged behind, but Three Clovers continued to challenge the leader. Jemas put on severe pressure. Bolus, under a drive all the rest of the way home, outfinished his rival.

Sunny Portress Wins.

A band of seven juveniles went to the post in a six furlong allowance race called the Colin purse. Sunny Portress, running at odds of somewhat less than 4 to 1, put on a strong finish to beat Philadelphia by a length and a half. Hoosier was third.

Sunny Portress had won during the Arlington meeting, but had been unsuccessful in two attempts at Washington Park. Her pay-off yesterday was $9.80, $5, and $3.20.

The afternoon began with a popular daily double, Captain Fury and Dark Advice taking the first and second races. So many of the fans had bet on this combination that the tickets were worth only $12.20.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By BEN MARKLAND

New Boss in Barnyard.

Sept. 10, 1942.

THERE'S a new boss in the barnyard of the Du Page county farm. Each year one of the members of the poultry flock [usually an aggressive turkey gobbler] takes charge of all barnyard affairs and issues rules for the behavior of the chickens, guinea hens and the rest of the turkeys.

This year, however, the kingpin of the barnyard is neither a turkey gobbler nor a domineering rooster. A peacock, the only one on the farm, reigns over the yard. When the giant gobblers see him strolling their way they get out of his path. If a group of turkeys or chickens is eating from a barnyard hopper and Mr. Peacock saunters towards them they scatter in all directions and let him eat alone—like a king who has banished his court.

Wins Without a Fight.

As far as the flockmaster knows there never has been a fight between the peacock and the turkey gobbler which bossed the flock last season. The establishment of a new barnyard reign usually is marked by a scrap to the finish. It appears that the peacock has just assumed his throne, perhaps because his feathers are so artistic, and as long as none of the turkeys is willing to oppose him he's the boss.

The peacock has made one slight concession to the turkeys. The flockmaster recently built a new outdoor roost which looks somewhat like a baseball grandstand, with elevated roosting slats on a wooden frame. On warm days the fowls use this roost because it is shaded by tall apple trees.

The King Roosts Alone.

If they are roosting and the peacock decides to join them he doesn't make all of them move, but he does chase those which want to stay on his slat. So the sight which may be seen by barnyard visitors on warm days is that of the peacock occupying one roosting slat and 8 or 10 turkeys on each of the other rows of this barnyard grandstand.

At night the peacock continues to exhibit his superiority complex. When the other members of the farm flock retire to their roosts the peacock flies to the highest spot over the barnyard—the top of the sheep barn. From his private ridgepole throne, 50 feet above the ground, he looks down on the common members of the barnyard family with an air of condescension befitting his regal position in farm society.

MEAT RATIONING TERMED OPA'S SUPREME TEST

Assails OPA Policy

H. M. Conway, agricultural economist with the National Live Stock Marketing association, Chicago, charged yesterday that government policies threaten to deprive the consumer of meat in 1943 under the guise of inflation control. He estimated the 1943 beef supply at 7 billion pounds, compared with 8 billion 600 million for 1942 and what he termed a "phony" estimate by the WPB of 9 billion 900 million in the coming year.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

If the federal price regulators succeed in equitably rationing meat to 130 million Americans and manage to keep prices under the forthcoming ceilings to be applied "on the hoof," they will be able to tackle anything, with reasonable chances of success.

At least, that is the opinion of Chicago live stock authorities and farmers in the market to sell their live stock, who expressed the almost unanimous view yesterday that the over-all control of their industry presents headaches far more severe than those which plagued the country in rationing other commodities and manufactured articles.

[August beef and total meat output set all-time records. Live hog prices dip on largest receipts in seven months. Stories on page 33.]

Methods of rationing and price control worked out for meat are expected to form a pattern for the rationing of other commodities when and if the government adds other articles to the rationing list.

Called Most Difficult Hurdle.

The view was based on the theory that, regardless of the article, nothing could present such difficulties as those encountered in the over-all control of meat, and that success in this direction would be certain to be applied elsewhere.

Men in the meat trade contrast the difficulties of grading, pricing, and equitably rationing that commodity—with its many grades and varying methods of arriving at quality standards—with the comparative simplicity of controling, for example, sugar.

Rationing of meat and federal price limits on the amounts packers will be allowed to pay producers for their cattle, hogs, and sheep are expected to be decreed soon—rationing presumably some time before winter and price ceilings before Oct. 1, the deadline set by President Roosevelt a few days ago in his ultimatum to congress.

Top Grades Held Down.

Federal price ceilings already have been applied to the finished product, with widespread disruption to the trade and bitter complaints of "price squeezing" which has affected different interests to varying degrees.

About the only success that live stock authorities will admit for the attempt to control meat in wholesale and retail channels is that the limits have prevented top grades of meat from pushing thru the ceilings.

Under a system of specific allocations of specific cuts, some adjustment obviously must be made to move perishable meat from dealer to consumer in the event a surplus develops, or much spoilage would result.

The problem of perishability will also be encountered in meatless days, if this World war development is repeated in this war to the extent some governmental officials have suggested, according to the packers.

Trading Not a Science.

Under Office of Price administration regulations, beef, for example, is graded AA for choice or prime quality, A for good, B for medium, and C for common. But grading is not a science and is largely a matter of opinion, based on experience.

Some of the packers in the last few months of price ceilings applying to the wholesale and retail trade have stuck strictly to the OPA standards, but many more reputedly have not. The government recently charged about 100 packers with evasion of grading regulations—a charge which brought prompt denials.

"Upgrading" to obtain higher prices for lower grades of meat was the charge. To prevent this, and in preparation for ceilings "on the hoof," the government is understood to be preparing to put 2,000 federal meat graders in the packing plants, taking this job away from the privately employed graders.

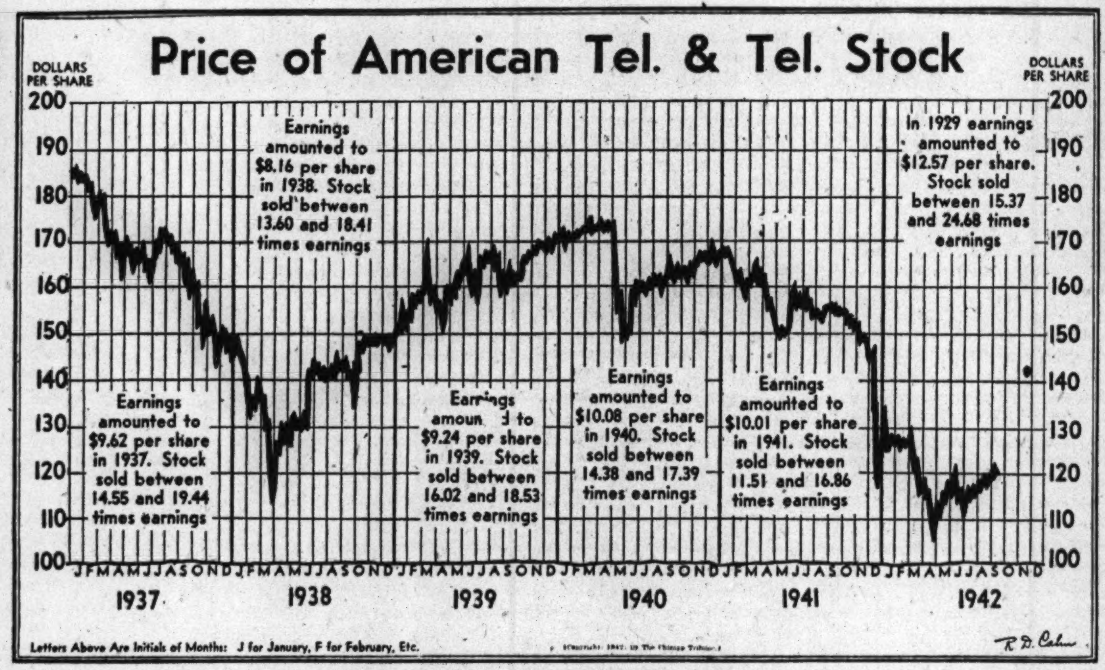
INDICT MEAT MEN

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 10 (AP).—A federal grand jury indicted two meat companies, two pork buyers, and the Indianapolis Live Stock exchange late today on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust act and conspiracy to fix hog prices on the Indianapolis market. Named in the indictment were:

Kingan & Co., Indianapolis packers; Kennett-Murray Co., Inc., a Delaware pork buying corporation; the exchange, and Charles J. Renard, Indianapolis manager of the Kennett-Murray firm, and Lewis H. McMurray, a pork buyer at the Indianapolis Union Stock yards.

Enjoins Upgrading.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 10 (AP).—Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey today granted preliminary injunctions restraining two Des Moines packing houses from violating price ceilings on beef and veal. The court found the Bookey Packing company and the Des Moines Packing company guilty of "upgrading" meat as charged by the OPA.



Builders Think Housing Ban Will End Soon

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago builders believe the government's decision to permit no new housing until Chicago utilizes all present dwelling units and its local labor supply will be automatically removed by this city's expected rapid industrial growth during the next few months. The ultimatum, delivered by Philip N. Klutznick, regional director of the National Housing agency, Wednesday evening at a meeting sponsored by the defense housing committee of the Office of Civilian Defense, set no definite date for its expiration.

Builders, however, were almost unanimous in the opinion that when the rapidly expanding industrial activities catch up with Chicago's residential facilities and its surplus labor building will have to be resumed. By that time, too, they expect building materials will be plentiful and priorities will be given.

Expect Shortages to End.

One builder said that when government building of army camps and other war work is completed more lumber will be available for home building, relieving the present shortage. Other building materials, including many of the critical ones, are expected shortly to be more plentiful than at present.

Meanwhile builders who are thrown out of work by the government order against new housing in the Chicago area will have little difficulty in getting new jobs, according to E. J. Brock, regional labor supply officer and head of the United States employment service.

Building tradesmen are in great demand for work in the erection of armament plants, army camps, and other government projects, he asserted.

Work Under Way Continues.

Altho the announcement that no more priorities would be issued for home building until conditions warranted it will stop new construction, work now under way under priorities already granted will be allowed to continue.

Builders commented that the federal order was not as drastic as it appeared because all priorities allocated for the Chicago area already had been issued and no new ones were expected for some time. Work therefore will go ahead as scheduled on residential jobs which are under way and the Chicago home construction program gradually will slow to a complete stop only when present jobs are completed.

NATION'S MONEY IN CIRCULATION CLIMBS SHARPLY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Money in circulation rose nearly a half billion dollars in August, the treasury disclosed today.

An official statement estimated that on Aug. 31 coin and currency in circulation outside of the treasury and the federal reserve banks reached the record high of $13,205,498,591—an average of $98.36 per person. At the end of July, the average was $94.95, and a year ago it was $75.02.

Money in circulation has been rising rapidly for more than a year. It is one of the factors behind President Roosevelt's demand upon congress Monday for powers to limit farm prices and to take other action to stabilize the cost of living.

U. S. SIGNS CONTRACT TO BUY ALL SURPLUS RUBBER FROM MEXICO

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The state department announced tonight the signing of an agreement with Mexico under which the United States will buy until Dec. 31, 1946, "any exportable surplus," of that country's tree rubber and all of its guayule and other plant rubber production.

This was the second rubber purchase agreement with a southern neighbor announced today, the other being with Guatemala. In all, 14 agreements have been made since the Board of Economic Warfare and the RFC Rubber Reserve company began looking for war needed rubber in Latin America.

Under terms of the Mexican agreement, Rubber Reserve will establish a "substantial development" fund to obtain maximum production of wild rubber. A provision "with respect to the limitation of use of rubber products in Mexico" was not explained.

TRANSIT MERGER WILL CUT COSTS, SAYS ENGINEER

The proposed unification of Chicago's surface and elevated lines would save at least $1,350,000 a year, or 2 per cent of the two systems' present operating costs, Bert H. Peck, consulting engineer for the surface lines, estimated yesterday in a statement submitted to Fred Kleinman, chief of accounts and finance of the Illinois Commerce commission, at a conference on the merger plan.

Peck submitted the following schedule of possible savings: $340,000 thru eliminating three street car routes; $250,000 by closing 50 to 55 elevated stations; $50,000 by operating fewer surface cars on Milwaukee avenue from Logan Square to the loop and shifting the load to elevated trains; $50,000 thru combining shop facilities; $125,000 thru discontinuing service on the Kenwood avenue and stockyards branches of the "L"; $360,000 thru elimination of payments to the city for street cleaning, and $600,000 in general administrative expenses.

Altho these savings amount to $1,775,000, Peck reduced the total estimated reduction to the "conservative" figure of $1,350,000. Hearings on the merger will be resumed Tuesday.

COURT APPROVES MPLS., ST. LOUIS RAILROAD SALE

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 10 (AP).—Sale of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad property under a reorganization plan in which the property will be divided into sections was approved today by Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye. The road had been in receivership since 1923.

Answering objections to the two corporation plan that the unprofitable section of the line would be abandoned the court said: "No showing has been made that abandonment of this section of the road under the two corporation plan is any more likely than if that portion of the road remained a part of the system under a one corporation plan."

The court reviewed the road's financial status, with indebtedness of $88,971,880 and $2,010,100 offered as a purchase price, and commented:

"Holders of general claims have no interest in the property of the railroad company which is of any value whatever. . . . Their exclusion from recognition in the plan is just and equitable."

Air Transport Line Reports Its Best Year

Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Inc., reported yesterday that the fiscal year ended June 30 was the most successful in its history as the result of a growth in all phases of business. The Western Union Telegraph company had a moderate increase in its profit for the first seven months of 1942.

Carleton Putnam.

Net income of Chicago and Southern for its fiscal year was $128,959, contrasted with a loss of $111,931 the preceding year. Passenger revenues increased 50 per cent to $1,321,017, while express and mail revenues of $45,394 and $629,561 represented gains of 51 and 54 per cent. Operating expenses of $1,798,439 were 20 per cent higher.

Part of Growth "Normal."

"The growth in our passenger and express business must be credited in part to the normal upward trend of this traffic as the public each year becomes more accustomed to, and familiar with, the advantages of air transportation, and in part to the heavy demand on all transportation facilities since the outbreak of the war," President Carleton Putnam told stockholders.

"We have carried our full share of military and civilian passengers and cargo. We are now engaged in a considerable expansion of our military transport division.

"The present extent of our cargo service and the plans of the air transport command for the future are necessarily military secrets, but it is proper to say that we expect this service shortly to outstrip our commercial operation in daily mileage."

Feeder Routes Sought.

Putnam also reported that the company is seeking authority for a system of feeder routes covering the smaller cities adjacent to present trunk lines. He said the line is taking an active part in industry discussions of an air cargo program for the post-war era. Chicago and Southern has its headquarters in Memphis, Tenn.

Western Union's net profit in the seven months ended July 31 was $4,420,560, equal to $4.23 a capital share, compared with $4,039,858, or $3.86 a share, in the corresponding 1941 period. Gross income for the seven months rose to $73,008,348 from $64,276,488 last year. Federal taxes, however, totaled $2,699,000, against $846,000.

SEASONAL TRADE GAIN SHOWN IN CHICAGO REGION

A seasonal gain in retail trade lifted department store sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district during the week ended Sept. 5 to 21 per cent above the preceding week and 16 per cent over the corresponding 1941 period, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Chicago volume increased only 3 per cent from the week before, but gained 19 per cent compared with a year ago. Indianapolis showed the largest increase over the 1941 week with a rise of 36 per cent. Milwaukee and Detroit had respective gains of 14 and 11 per cent.

Court Upholds Mexican Oil Sale to Pan-American

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed the District court dismissal of a suit against Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd., of Delaware, and Pan-American Petroleum company. The suit sought to set aside the 1932 sale of Mexican Petroleum's United States subsidiaries to Pan-American for $11,245,000. It was argued that the sale price was more than 8 million dollars less than the value of the assets sold.

TOTAL HARVEST TO TOP '37 PEAK BY 13 PER CENT

Corn Crop Put Third Best in History.

Prospects for an aggregate crop production of unprecedented proportions continued to improve during August, the department of agriculture reported yesterday in estimating the total harvest would be 13 per cent higher than the peak year of 1937.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard hailed the report as a "tremendous victory over the axis," but warned that in spite of the large production, "demands upon American food and fiber are so great that we will not have enough to give every one all the food he wants."

Many to Set Records.

In its report, the department said that with average weather the rest of the season, final surveys should show record production of grain, hay, oil seed, beans, peas, sugar, fruit, and vegetables, also a large cotton crop and about average crop of potatoes, sweet potatoes, and tobacco.

The largest corn crop since 1920 and third largest in history was forecast. On the basis of Sept. 1 conditions the department estimated production at 3 billion 16 million bushels, compared with a 2 billion 672 million bushel crop last year and a 10 year [1930-'39] average crop of 2 billion 307 million bushels.

It indicated that the nation's crops would produce per acre yields 35 per cent above the average for the 1923-'32 decade and 12 per cent higher than in any past year.

Acreage Cuts Offset.

The exceptionally high per acre yields more than offset the smaller plantings, the department said. Crop acreage this year is 6 per cent below the peak of 10 years ago, officials said. They predicted that total crop production will be 27 per cent above the 1923-'32 average and 14 per cent higher than last year.

Wheat	981	945	747
Oats	1,353	1,176	*1,007
Barley	419	358	225
Rye	59	45	38
Flaxseed	42	31	11
Soy beans	211	106	35

Per acre yield of corn in the big central corn belt states will be by far the largest on record.

Illinois' crop is forecast to yield 51½ bushels to the acre; Iowa's, 56, a new record for any state; Indiana's, 52, and Ohio's, 53. Iowa alone will produce more than 546 million bushels of corn, and Illinois, the second ranking corn producer, 413 million bushels.

Indicates Big Feed Supply.

The department's crop forecast indicated that the supply of feed grains and wheat on the farms, more than 7 billion bushels, would far exceed stocks of any previous years. Because of the vast feed supplies and forage crops the department said it looks for a continually increasing production of live stock and live stock products. It said this would result from the record numbers of live stock and poultry on hand with milk and egg production running substantially above previous levels.

Of the major fruit and vegetable crops, the department forecast apple production at 126 million bushels, compared with 122 million last year and a 123 million bushel average; potatoes, 378 million bushels against 357 last year and 370 million average, and sweet potatoes, 69 million against 63 million last year and a 73 million bushel 10 year average.

CANADIAN CROP AT PEAK.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10 (AP).—The dominion bureau of statistics today estimated Canada's total 1942 wheat production at 615,243,000 bushels—an all-time record. The estimate was almost double the 311,825,000 bushels produced in 1941 and exceeded by 48,517,000 bushels the previous record crop harvested in 1928.

RENEGOTIATION LAW ON WAR WORK ADDS TO ACCOUNTING WOES

The war contract renegotiation law, permitting the government to lower contract prices when it determines that a contractor is making too large a profit, has raised problems "of great difficulty" for accountants as well as corporations, the American Institute of Accountants said in a bulletin issued yesterday.

"The tentative character of current financial statements has been further accentuated as a result of the renegotiation provisions of the 6th supplemental national defense appropriation act, approved April 28, 1942," the bulletin said.

"To the difficulties heretofore existing in the determination of the costs, charges, and losses properly deductible from revenues in the income statement, there is added the difficulty that the revenues themselves are indeterminate."

The institute reminded accountants that a contractor may be required to renegotiate any number of times, and said finality of the price cannot be established until the act lapses three years after the war ends.

Largest Treasury Loan of War Period Gets Good Reception

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The investment market yesterday gave a good reception to the 3 billion dollar offering of United States government securities. Preliminary reports indicated a heavy oversubscription.

Yesterday's operation was the largest single flotation undertaken by the treasury since September, 1918, when a 6 billion dollar Liberty loan issue was put on the market. Dealers recalled yesterday that subscriptions received on the big 1918 issue totaled 22 billion dollars. Subscriptions made for the present issue will be announced later by the treasury department, which will keep subscription books open today to encourage the widest possible participation. Ordinarily subscriptions are taken for one day only on treasury offerings.

Designed for Big Investors.

Biggest subscriptions for the current offering are being entered by banks and corporations, the class of investors for which the securities were particularly designed. Altho many large subscriptions were made yesterday it was indicated that some large investors held off making their formal subscriptions until today to enable them to get an idea how the issue was received.

Both issues offered are of relatively short maturity. The 1⅛ billion of 0.65 per cent certificates will mature May 1, 1943, and are particularly suited to the needs of corporations which have funds on hand that are not needed immediately. For Illinois corporations there was the further attraction the maturity of the issue extends beyond the April 1 tax assessment day.

The longer term note of the same amount, carrying 1¼ per cent coupon, matures March 15, 1945. Large institutional investors and banks outside the larger centers are the principal customers for this issue. The larger metropolitan banks are concentrating their investments largely in issues bearing maturities up to 1 year.

Larger October Loan Likely.

Before making the present offering the treasury department officials conferred with bankers in Chicago and New York and other cities to determine the type of securities best suited for the present market. It is expected that the present short term issues will be followed next month by a flotation of securities of longer maturities for which a broader market will be sought. The October offering, it is forecast, may exceed the present operation in size, approaching the scale of the big offerings of the World war period.

With the proceeds of the present offerings and the Sept. 15 income tax collections, the treasury is expected to have an ample cash reserve for several weeks.

Lift Bill Offering

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The treasury increased next week's offering of 91-day treasury bills to 400 million dollars from the 350 million weekly level of recent weeks.

However, 600 million worth of similar bills will come due for payment next week, so that the net result will be a 200 million reduction in the amount outstanding.

This is a temporary reduction of a type customarily made during weeks when heavy income tax payments are made. The third quarter income tax installment will be due Sept. 15.

Rails Mediate Job, Pay Base of Engine Men

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

"Unfinished business" connected with the long railroad wage negotiations in Chicago last year is scheduled to be taken up at mediation proceedings to be started here on Sept. 22, it was disclosed yesterday.

Differences between railroad managements and labor to be mediated include labor requests for a change in the methods of computing base wages for engine crews and for additional men to be employed in Diesel-electric locomotives.

At the time of the long wage conferences in Chicago last year, which culminated in the presentation of arguments before a Presidential fact finding commission, it was agreed to postpone negotiations on the locomotive controversies until the wage dispute was settled.

Negotiations Are Lengthy.

The eastern railroads already have engaged in lengthy arguments on the locomotive problems, and the western and southern roads have been negotiating separately. Under the railway labor act, mediation takes place when direct negotiations between railroad labor and management fail.

Two separate mediation proceedings will be held. One will be between management and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and the other between management and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The dispute over the labor requests for a change in methods for establishing base wages involves both steam and Diesel-electric locomotives.

Weight Basis Attacked.

For steam locomtives, the unions want wages based on the total weight of a locomotive instead of the weight over the driving wheels, as at present. For Diesel-electrics, they want wages based on the total horse power of the locomotive instead of weight.

The number of men who should be employed on a Diesel-electric locomotive has been a subject of controversy between railroad management and labor ever since this modern type of engine went into service. Many Diesel-electrics consist of several units coupled together to form what is essentially a single locomotive.

The firemen want an additional man placed on each unit in excess of one unit, and where more than one unit is used in a locomotive the engineers want an assistant engineer.

Railroad Case Stated.

The railroads maintain that there is no need for more than one engineer and one fireman on a Diesel-electric [an exception being where a maintenance man or electrician is employed].

The roads also assert that if the men's requests are granted operating costs will be increased materially.

CHICAGO WPB OFFICE ASKS BUSINESS AID IN TYPEWRITER ROUNDUP

About 150 officials of trade associations of all kinds were asked by the Chicago regional WPB office yesterday to help round up the 850,713 typewriters sought by the government for the war effort. At a meeting in the Marquette building, the groups were urged to request their members to sell 20 per cent of their typewriters voluntarily to avoid requisitioning.

E. C. Hill, in charge of the program for the WPB and the treasury in the Chicago region, said the goal of the drive in the Chicago area—Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Indiana—is 150,000 typewriters from business and other private owners. Only standard typewriters made since Jan. 1, 1935, are wanted. The price to be paid is the manufacturers' trade-in allowance as of Feb. 1, 1941.

The trade officials were told that, altho requirements have been cut, normally the navy needs 59 typewriters for a battleship, and smaller numbers for various other fighting ships down to 7 for a destroyer, and that one is needed for every bombing plane.

GENERAL MOTORS BANK LINE STILL IN NEGOTIATION

Negotiations between General Motors corporation and a group of banks for a billion dollar line of credit to the company were reported still under negotiation yesterday. It was learned that several large Chicago banks have been approached and asked to participate and that they are still negotiating.

Disclosure that the corporation was seeking a credit line of 500 million to possibly a billion dollars was made early in August. The company plans to use the funds as needed in financing its huge volume of war contracts.

Formal announcement of completion of the transaction—the biggest industrial loan on record—is expected soon.

CHARGE DU PONT WITH HINDERING PLASTICS USE

Trial to Be Delayed for Duration.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 10 (AP).—The government disclosed today indictments charging E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. and others with conspiracy to restrain production and sales of two plastics, one of them vital in the manufacture of warplanes.

They were the second and third anti-trust indictments returned here against the large chemical firm and, like the first, which involved dyestuffs, they were put on the shelf for trial after the war is over.

Used in Bomber Noses.

The du Pont company, which has headquarters in Wilmington, Del.; Rohm and Haas company, Bristol, Pa., and eight of their officials were accused in one true bill of entering a combine to restrict production, fix prices and divide the world's markets for acrylic products. Their uses include the transparent nose of American bombing planes, aerial gun turrets and cockpit hoods.

The other indictment named du Pont, Rohm and Haas, the L. D. Caulk company, Milford, Del.; the Kerr Dental Manufacturing company, Detroit, Mich.; Vernon-Benshoff company, Pittsburgh, Pa., and 12 of their executives on a charge of conspiracy to monopolize the distribution and sale of methyl methacrylate, a new plastic from which, the government said, 90 per cent of all dental plates are now made.

Prevented Denture Use.

The indictment alleged that when the material was sold for industrial use the price was 85 cents a pound, but when it was sold for dentures the price jumped to $45. The material sold for commercial molding contained added ingredients so it could not be used to make dental plates, the government said.

Both plastics have other uses.

The indictment said Rohm and Haas, G. m. b. H., of Germany was a partner in the acrylic conspiracy, but it did not make the corporation a defendant. The justice department in Washington said the cartel also included the German dye trust, I. G. Farbenindustrie, and Imperial Chemical, Ltd., of London.

Firm Defends Agreements.

Rohm and Haas, the American company, issued a statement asserting "without these agreements Rohm and Haas would not today be manufacturing plexiglas, the transparent plastic sheet which is now so vital to our aircraft program."

As proof of its importance the statement cited that the trials had been shelved at the request of the war and navy departments. Both services had commended Rohm and Haas for expanding its production, it said.

Formation of the combine was effected in 1934, the indictment charged. The denture conspiracy was alleged to have started in 1938. The indictments were returned here Aug. 10, but impounded until today.

GIRDLER RETIRES FROM BOARD OF AVIATION CORP.

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Tom M. Girdler has retired from the board of directors of the Aviation corporation, President Victor Emanuel announced today.

Girdler will be available to the company for consultation, Emanuel said, but will devote most of his time to his other jobs as chairman of the boards of Republic Steel corporation, Vultee Aircraft, Inc., and Consolidated Aircraft corporation.

Col. Arthur W. Herrington, board chairman of Marmon-Herrington company, Indianapolis, was elected to the Aviation corporation board. He was a member of the recent economic mission to India appointed by President Roosevelt.

DRIFTING STOCKS CLOSE FRACTIONS TO POINT LOWER

Uncertainties Dominant, Selling Light.

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The stock market continued to find the going a bit rough today, and leading issues drifted fractions to a point or so lower.

There never was any real selling pressure, but hesitancy ruled from the start. Dealings were relatively light, altho volume was aided by liveliness of low priced issues, most of them unchanged. Declines were well in the majority at the close in the face of scattered recoveries.

Confusing war, tax, and anti-inflation developments remained as arguments for light profit taking on the recent recovery. The Baruch rubber committee report urging national gasoline rationing and other restrictions revived speculation that corporate earnings and dividends may undergo further revision because of tightening governmental rules.

Wire Company Shares.

Postal Telegraph preferred and Western Union dipped 1½ and ½, respectively as merger legislation discussion waned. American Telephone conceded a point as dividend reductions by subsidiaries brought out offerings.

Rails were only a trifle lower, good income reports acting as a prop. Erie preferred "A" advanced 1¼.

American Power & Light preferred and the 6 per cent senior stock of Electric Power & Light managed to finish ahead. They again were favored on the theory their "breakup" value might be higher than current quotations.

On the upside were United States Distributing preferred, American Radiator, Dow Chemical, American Water Works, Sperry and United States Gypsum.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER.

Declines were in the majority yesterday in trading of 16,000 shares on the Chicago Stock exchange. Cities Service, the volume leader, closed ⅛ lower. W. B. Jarvis rose ⅝.

In the half hour after the New York close General Motors and Libby, McNeill & Libby were up ⅛ and W. B. Jarvis ⅛ lower.

Head of Stock Exchange Firms Expects Army Post

New York, Sept. 10 [Special].—James F. Burns Jr., president of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms, announced today that he will present his resignation when the board meets in St. Paul, Minn. He expects to be commissioned a captain in the army specialty corps.

CLIMB IN GRAINS HALTED DESPITE BIG FLOUR SALES

Wheat and Corn Futures Drop Fractions.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

The recent sharp rise in wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade came to a halt yesterday despite evidence that sales of flour were continuing in the largest volume in several months. The market felt the impact of fairly general profit taking, traders said. Prices closed ¼ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower, with the December delivery at $1.26½.

Elevator interests reported the change in weather conditions brought larger country selling of corn. Placing of hedges and the fact that corn is selling closer to parity than any other grain depressed prices, said brokers. The market closed ⅛ cent lower. Oats futures were down ½ to ¾ cent. Rye reacted 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents from Wednesday's 4 cent spurt. Soy beans dipped ⅛ to ⅜ cent.

Buying by Mills Large.

Wheat pit observers estimated that mills bought between 2 and 3 million bushels of wheat in the local futures market yesterday. Added to the business transacted the preceding two days, they said the futures transactions indicated flour sales so far this week easily would exceed a million barrels.

An eastern business news service said earlier that flour sales this week could be conservatively estimated at more than 800,000 barrels. It was reported large chain bakeries were in the market dickering for an additional 300,000 barrels.

"Floor" Prospect a Factor.

Altho some brokers were inclined to discount the possibility of congress putting an 85 per cent of parity or a parity "floor" under farm commodity prices until after the war, the flour buying was reported to have developed on belief that farm price stabilization legislation may mean higher grain prices.

The crop report released after the close of the trading was discounted as a market factor because of the large surplus of wheat and the prospective heavy consumption of corn. The department of agriculture has estimated that even tho the United States may have more than 3 billion bushels of corn to meet 1943 requirements it won't have much over 200 million bushels left by Oct. 1, 1943.

ONION TRADING VOLUME SECOND ONLY TO BUTTER

The onion futures market on the Chicago Mercantile exchange ran the butter market a close second in trading volume yesterday with prices setting a new high in the three day old market. Prices advanced 9 cents a sack to $1.64 for 50 pounds and then receded to close with a net advance of 7 cents. A total of 1,825,000 pounds was transferred.

Idaho potato futures were the only weak spot on the market, prices finishing 4 to 7 cents a hundred pounds lower. The November contract closed at $2.83. Higher wholesale butter prices lifted futures early in the session but the market eased to close .05 to .10 cent higher, with November at 41.9 cents a pound. Wholesale prices advanced ½ to ¾ cent, 92 score selling at 42 cents.

Egg futures closed unchanged to .20 cent a dozen higher, with October at 34.95 cents. Wholesale prices declined ½ to a cent, with top qualities selling for 34 to 35 cents.

BEEF, ALL MEAT PROCESSING SET AUGUST RECORDS

8 Month Slaughter Also Is All-Time High.

Meat packers processed more beef last month than in any other August on record, and the slaughter of hogs, while on the downgrade since September, 1941, still was the largest for any August since 1933, figures released by the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday.

Last month's beef slaughter was 1,102,738 head at plants under federal inspection, compared with 968,264 in August, 1941, and 842,129 in August, 1940. Most of the time in the last 20 years the August beef total has been less than 900,000 head, the million head mark being exceeded only once before.

Totals at New Peaks.

The output of all types of meat combined also was the largest for any August in history, the figures showed. The volume for the first eight months of the year likewise was larger than ever before for a similar period.

Packers butchered 3,223,059 hogs in August, the smallest monthly total since September, 1941, owing to a seasonal decline in farm shipments. Only two August totals have been larger. Last year 2,795,738 were butchered. Calves last month totaled 460,050 head, the largest for August since 1937. Only four totals on record are larger for that month.

The sheep and lambs total of 1,839,787 is the largest known for any month, and compared with 1,521,726 a year ago.

Eight Month Cattle Mark.

The record eight months cattle slaughter totaled 7,908,398 head. This compared with 6,877,706 a year ago, 6,235,104 two years ago, and 6,062,171 three years ago. Calves, at 3,691,864 head, compared with 3,546,037 in the first eight months last year.

Hogs totaled 34,035,720 for the eight months, the largest since 1924 when 35,276,289 head were butchered, an all time record. The only other larger eight months' total than this year was in 1923 when 34,548,970 were converted into pork and lard. During last year the eight months' hog total was 29,114,394, and back in 1935 it was 17,172,631.

The sheep and lamb total for the eight months, at 12,757,525 is without equal. It compared with 11,880,170 in 1941.

HOG PRICES DIP; SUPPLIES SET 7 MONTH PEAK

The heaviest selling wave in seven months swept the principal hog raising sections of the corn belt yesterday, driving prices to within 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds of their lowest point since late June. Prices slumped 15 to 25 cents, with some late sales showing declines of as much as 30 cents.

The Chicago stockyards received 24,000 hogs, including 10,300 sent direct to packers. This was the largest Thursday run since Feb. 12.

A larger share of the supply consisted of the 200 to 225 pound new crop spring pigs, which are expected to make up a big part of the run from now on. They sold at $14.40 to $14.50.

Most cattle slumped 15 to 25 cents, only a few top grades of steers and yearlings holding fairly steady.

14 Chicago Concerns Win Truck Safety Contest

Trucks of 14 Chicago companies, winners in the 10th semi-annual interfleet drivers' safety contest sponsored by the Greater Chicago Safety council, were operated over 8 million miles with only 117 accidents, C. S. Craigmile, council president, announced yesterday. The companies are International Harvester, Atlas Linen Supply, Sears-Roebuck, Standard Oil, Walgreen, Sterling Lumber and Supply, Public Service of Northern Illinois, Liquid Carbonic, Federal Pipe and Supply, Chicago Daily News, Swift, Cities Service Oil, Chapell Ice Cream, and Western Electric.

Priorities Block New Cars for Aurora and Elgin Road

Plans of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad to improve its west suburban service with 10 new de luxe cars have been held up by priorities, officials of the road disclosed yesterday. Altho the road was given an A-3 priority it has not been able to get materials to build the cars. The order for the cars was placed last January with the St. Louis Car company. Delivery had been expected by the end of this year.

TAX DEDUCTIONS.

Several years ago I secured a policy loan from my insurance company. I claimed deductions from my income tax each year for the interest paid on the loan. This year I plan to ask the insurance company to add the interest to the principal. Can I still claim this amount as an income tax deduction as in other years?—G. S. R.

Answer: Under the present internal revenue code, an income tax deduction is not allowed until the interest is actually paid. Adding the interest to the principal is not considered payment by the internal revenue department.

SHIPBUILDER.

What information do you have on Bath Iron Works corporation? Is the company engaged in shipbuilding?—G.

Answer: This company is engaged directly in naval construction and has substantial interest in two shipyards manufacturing cargo vessels. These units are the Todd-Bath Iron Works Shipbuilding corporation, financed by the British government, and the South Portland Shipbuilding corporation, financed by the United States government.

The company was organized in Maine in 1927. Sole capitalization at the end of 1941 was 418,974 shares of $1 par common stock outstanding. Shares are listed on the New York Stock exchange and ranged from 13⅜ to 24⅞ last year. A record of recent financial results follows:

	Revenues.	Net Income.	Dividends.
1940	18,128,546	2,052,180	.75
1939	15,025,942	660,703	......
1938	8,607,549	129,745	......
1937	8,292,937	20,419	*

BELDEN MANUFACTURING.

What is the capitalization of Belden Manufacturing company. Are its shares listed on an exchange, and if so, what the price range last year?—D. B.

Answer: Sole capitalization at the end of 1941 was 241,547 shares of $10 par capital stock outstanding. The stock is listed on the Chicago Stock exchange and ranged in price from 10 to 12½ last year.

PLAN INCREASE IN SEARS BANK CAPITAL STOCK

Stockholders of the Sears-Community State bank, Homan avenue and Arthington street, will vote at a special meeting Oct. 15 on a proposal to increase the bank's $25 par capital stock from 16,000 shares to 24,000 shares.

J. Louis Kohn, president, said that sale of the additional shares would increase the bank's capital stock from $400,000 to $600,000. It is planned to increase surplus to $400,000, making combined capital and surplus of $1,000,000. The additional stock will be offered at $35 a share. Kohn said advance subscriptions already have exceeded the shares to be sold.

"The rapid growth of the bank's deposits, as well as a substantial increase in business of other departments, has encouraged the directors to increase the capitalization in order to maintain a conservative ratio of capital to deposits," Kohn said. "This growth is evidenced by the latest statement of condition which shows deposits of $18,243,652 as of June 30, an increase of over $4,000,000, or 30 per cent, since June 30, 1941."

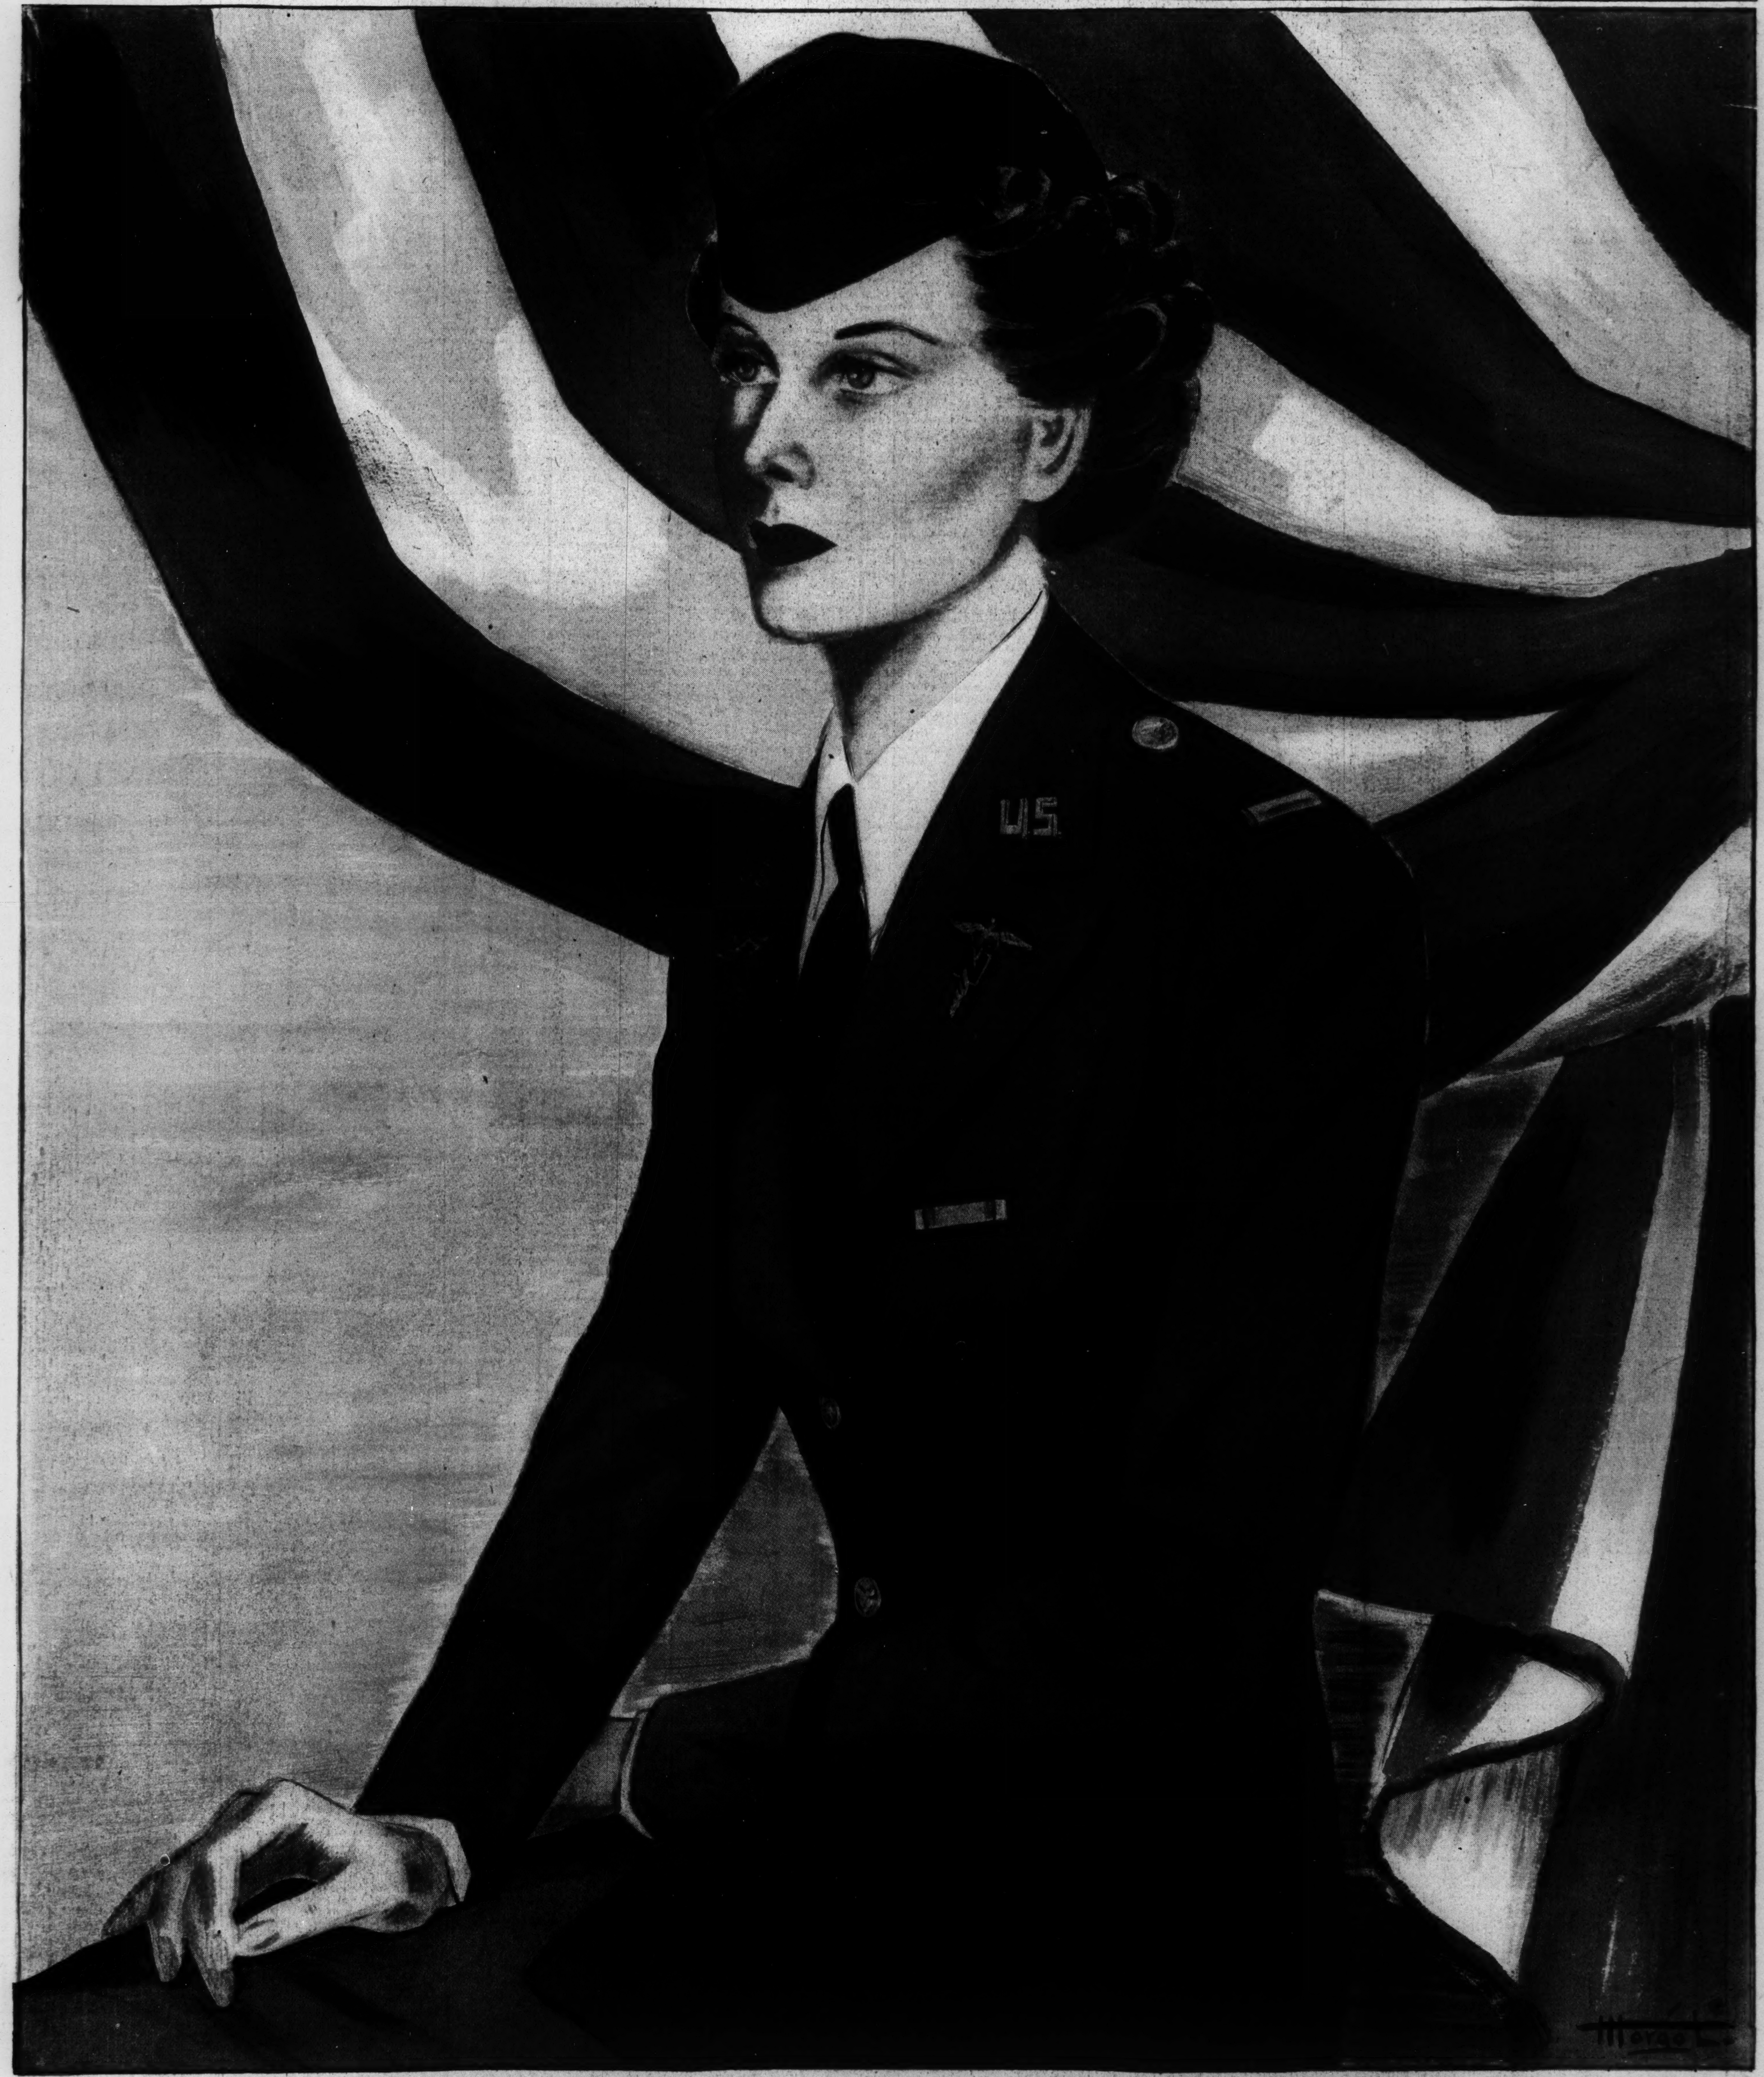
A TRIBUTE TO THE ARMY NURSES



Today is Army Nurse Day, to be marked in Chicago by the inauguration of a campaign to recruit several hundred qualified young women for the Army Nurse corps. To army nurses in general and to their heroic work this page is dedicated. The painting reproduced here is by Margot, of The Tribune staff. First Lieut. Palma Peterson, chief nurse of the 16th Evacuation unit now being formed at Michael Reese hospital, posed for it. Army nurses are commissioned lieutenants. The recruiting of them in the Chicago area is being conducted under the direction of Brig. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commander of the Sixth Service command.
